Lightning, Home-Made. Girls, East and West. Fist and Brain.

E. F. Carry, Good Worker.

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1929, King Features Synd., Inc.

A "DEATH RAY MACHINE," secretly manufactured in San Francisco, is said to produce 3,000,000 volts of man-made lightning, powerful enough to kill at a great distance.

This powerful lightning, made by man, produces an electric spark that will jump across 13 feet.

Celestial lightning still holds the record, however, by a comfortable margin. The flash of lightning, seen in the sky, is an electric spark that jumps on the average eight miles.

The 17-year-old Eastern girl, Elinor Smith, yesterday took away the endurance record from Louise McPheatridge, of California, with five hours to spare.

Some California girl will take it from her, of course. Miss Smith, marvelous American girl, made her record with a crippled plane. Her stabilizer out of order, she held steady the stick of her heavy plane, and remained aloft, alone, 27 hours.

Mr. Tunney, world heavyweight champion, retired, has been visiting George Bernard Shaw on a small, sunny island in the Adriatic sea.

Tunney is barely 30, Shaw is 73. And Shaw, who has not retired, has no idea of retiring.

The head lasts longer than the flats.

The death yesterday of E. F. Carry, president of the Pullman Company, is a great loss to efficient industrial and business management.

Mr. Carry, improving constantly the comfort and luxury of Pullman car equipment, worked intelligently for his stockholders.

In addition, he increased comfort by day and sound sleep at night for a great army of travelers, including commercial travelers, whose efficiency is so important to this country.

Mr. Carry was a worthy successor to George M. Pullman, originator of comfort in travel and one of the world's real benefactors.

Responding to anxious suggestions that he should discontinue flying and save himself for the development of aviation, Colonel Lindbergh says he will fly as long as he lives, if he can. "A pilot, properly trained, is just as good when he is old as when he is young," says Lindbergh.

A dispatch from Vienna tells of anti-Semitic rioting at Lemburg between rival groups of students. Thirty-six were stabbed, 17 dangerously wounded.

Superstitious bitterness is as powerful as ever in many European countries, including Rumania and Russia.

You can buy on instalments a cradle for the new baby, and services of an obstetrician. Later your house, automobile, washing machine, clothes and furniture may be got on the same plan.

The thing is made complete now in Richmond, Va. A measure introduced in the city council would sell graveyard lots and perpetual care on instalments.

On the other side of the grave, as far as known, there is no instalment arrangement. Everything must be paid for on the spot. A good thing for the sinner to remember.

Tammany's choice of a new leader is interpreted as defeat for Governor Al Smith and victory for James J. Walker, the young mayor of New York and rising sun of the local Democracy.

The fight for control of Tammany, polite on the surface, was bitter underneath.

A long political fight, with influence extending to the national campaign of 1932, may be the result.

Eight hundred delegates to the Red Cross convention called upon President and Mrs. Hoover yesterday and contributed "first aid" by refraining from the usual handshaking nonsense.

Why 800 intelligent human beings should want to squeeze the joints of the hand and tax at the muscles in the arm of a busy man is not easily understood.

Handshaking should be abolished, since it means nothing and spreads germs.

Yesterday the House of Representatives planned to force a vote on farm relief, late in the afternoon or early today.

The Senate, committed on the surface, against Mr. Hoover's suggestions, starts the usual long debate.

Meanwhile the Mississippi river broke a big hole in the South Quincy Gardens levee yesterday morning. Farmers on 5000 acres of good farm land have a problem that is real, and a probable loss of $300,000.

Smallpox Hits Middleboro

No. End Fish War Opens With Killing

TOWN HAS 15 CASES OF SMALLPOX

More than 15 cases of smallpox, which had previously been diagnosed as chickenpox, were reported today by the State Department of Public Health in the town of Middleboro.

Everybody in the town was ordered vaccinated, and this task was begun at clinics established at all schools, factories and various other points. There are 10,000 inhabitants.

Fifty-odd cases of chickenpox had been reported from Middleboro in three weeks, and the state department decided to investigate, with the result that many of the supposed chickenpox patients really had smallpox.

There are two cases at the State sanitarium at Lakeville. All persons intending to go to or through Middleboro, which is 38 miles from Boston on the road between Brockton and the Cape, are asked by the authorities to be vaccinated in advance.

Investigation was launched to learn the names of all persons from other cities and towns who have come anywhere near contact

New Storm on the Way Here

Following three northeasters in the past two weeks, Boston now faces a stiff southwester, with storm signals hoisted today from Cape Hatteras to Eastport warning shipping of gales and heavy rains within the next 24 hours.

The coming disturbance, centered today in Illinois, lashed Texas with a tornado yesterday, and has inundated the Gulf coast states with heavy rains.

The local weather bureau predicts this section will escape the brunt of the blow, but expects rain and high winds.

Forecast for Boston and vicinity: Cloudy with showers tonight and Friday; continued warm; strong southerly winds, shifting to westerly, Friday.

Mrs. Storrow Called Again

Mrs. James J. Storrow, who was defaulted through her failure to appear in Quincy Court yesterday in answer to a summonms on a charge of speeding, has been summoned to appear next week.

Officer James Baker of Quincy, the complainant, swors out the second summons yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Storrow said this morning that she had not yet received it.

ENDS LIFE IN DOG KENNEL

Cleveland, April 25 (INS)—After wounding a detective during a gun battle here today, Robert Resler, 31, of Rochester, N. Y., automobile thief, fled, crawled into a dog kennel, and, realizing he was about to be captured, committed suicide.

Detectives Henry Jancovski and Willam Evans had been sent out to pick up the fugitive following receipt of a telegram from New York City police. A woman companion, believed to have been his wife, who was in the automobile, was taken into custody.

"L" Tells of Loss on 3-Town Bus Line

The Arlington - Belmont - Watertown bus line was discontinued because it was clearly apparent there was an insufficient demand for the service, according to a statement given today by the board of public trustees of the Elevated.

They stated the cost per revenue mile was 32 cents and the receipts only 12 cents. "The Elevated system is unable to absorb such losses from experimental lines and the trustees were compelled to discontinue the line in order to relieve an unfair burden from the rest of the system."

Hoover Delivers Address Tonight

Washington, April 25 (AP)—President Hoover will deliver a brief address tonight at a meeting devoted to a discussion of the beautification of the national capital.

Secretary Mellon, who is much interested in this subject, was instrumental in arranging the gathering. He also will speak, as will Senator Smoot of Utah, Chairman Elliott of the House committee on buildings and grounds, and Milton D. Medary* a member of the National Capital park and planning commission.

SUSPECT SEIZED IN DEATH

In an outbreak of gang warfare among North End fishermen, Salvatore Squatrito, married, and father of six children, was shot to death on Commercial wharf today as he was leaving his fishing boat.

The alleged gunman, Simone Selafini of Sumner st., East Boston, who, police say, has a record, was captured by Thomas Mookley, yardmaster of the Union Freight railroad, armed with a fire axe, and held until the arrival of police.

Later Selafini was arraigned in municipal court on a charge of first degree murder, and after pleading not guilty, was hel dwithout bail for a hearing on May 2. The prisoner wept in court and cried: "Innocent! Innocent!" several times. He also announced that he had six children, the same number as the slain man.

The murder weapon, a 38-caliber revolver of a cheap make, was found by Sergt. Edward Keating under a freight car on the wharf, with five empty shells in its chambers.

Squatrito, whose wife gave birth to a baby boy only seven days ago, had four bullets in his body, and died shortly after arrival at Haymarket Relief Hospital.

Despite his wounds, Squatrito was conscious when found in a pool of blood on the wharf, and was able to gasp something about Moakley's prisoner.

A preliminary investigation revealed, police say, that the slaying

Zepp Is Over France Again

Friedrichshafen, April 25—The Graf Zeppelin, carrying 19 passengers on her second Mediterranean cruise, was reported by radio at 6 a.m. (12 E. S. T.) about 20 miles from Cape Creus, Spain, and heading toward Marseilles.

At 10:20 (4:20 E. S. T.) the Zeppelin was over Nice, France.

After passing over several important cities in Spain and Portugal, including Lisbon and Seville the majestic air-liner nosed her way southward, crossing the Straits of Gibraltar near the famous rock itself and then flew low over Tangier, Morocco. From Tangier, the Zeppelin turned westward, toward Madeira.

Two Speeders Held in $14,000 Robbery

St. Louis, April 25 (INS)—Two men, arrested for speeding, were held for Maryland authorities here today, after they confessed, police said, the $14,000 robbery of the Farmers' and Mechanics' National Bank at Westminster, Md., on April 8.

SEVEN DEAD IN BIG STORMS

St. Louis, April 25—Two tornadoes have lashed three east Texas hamlets, killing seven persons, injuring at least 21 and causing property damage estimated at $250,000.

Tornadoes, rain, snow, hail and sleet have raked Nebraska, causing heavy property damage and injuring at least two persons.

Loss of life and tremendous damage to livestock and other property was feared today following the worst blizzard in the history of Wyoming which had isolated this city for nearly 24 hours and paralyzed transportation.

The most severe of the Texas windstorms roared down a path three miles wide, twisted the little town of Slocum into a mass of ruins and took the seven lives, then dipped again four miles to the east and wiped out Benson Springs. Another twister hit the Janes community near Center, close to the Louisiana border, leaving 75 per-

FIERCE BATTLE IN MEXICO

Mexico City, April 25 (AP)—"Bloody" fighting between 1000 so-called religious rebels and the federal army of Gen Saturnino Cedillo at Tepatitlan, Jalisco, was believed still in progress today after three days' sanguinary conflict.

The beleaguered rebel force was said not only to have repulsed federal attacks with hand to hand and bayonet fighting, but to have inflicted reverses on the government troops.

Gen Cedillo, charged by Gen. Calles with "extermination" of the Cristeoros"—as the government terms the rebels—was quoted as expressing confidence his men, superior in numbers and better equipped, would prevail in the end and that he would invest the town. He had 5000 soldiers at his command.

News of the encounter came almost simultaneously with advices of a peace offer on the part of Cedillo, declaring a 20-day truce in the region affected by the pseudo-

4 NAMED IN POWER INQUIRY

Washington, April 25 (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission made public today the names of four witnesses subpoenated to testify at a hearing on April 30 in connection with the reported purchase of two Boston papers by the International Paper Company.

The witnesses called are:

Robert Lincoln O'Brien, former president of the Boston Publishing Co.

W. N. Burbut, vice-president of the International Paper & Power Co.

John R. Macombes, director of the International.

James Garfield, secretary of the Boston Publishing Co.

The proposed investigation into the reported purchase of the two newspapers by the paper company was instituted after Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, had requested such an inquiry.

Senator Norris recently sent a letter to the commission asking for the investigation, and after considering his request the commission today decided to hold the inquiry.

Chairman McCulloch of the commission said the commission also had received a letter from Senator Norris asking for an investigation into the alleged purchase of the control of several newspapers in Alabama by public power utility interests.

The chairman added the commission has taken the Nebraska sen-

SHATTUCK ATTACKS 'L' BILL

If the present Boston Elevated bill passes, $250,000,000 of the people's money might eventually be controlled in management of the company by only $13,000,000 of private money, Chairman Shattuck of the House Ways and Means Committee asserted today at a hearing on the measure.

Shattuck revealed that big outside power interests may be very much interested in the bill and may be casting covetous eyes on the company which now generates its own power, using 252,000 kilowatt hours annually.

With pointed criticism, Chairman Shattuck fairly tore the measure to shreds as he interrogated Senator Charles C. Warren of Arlington, chairman of the committee on metropolitan affairs, which reported the bill.

TEN-YEAR CONTROL

The bill as reported calls for extension of public control for 10 years, after which the Elevated can be returned into private control with consent of the public trustees, the Department of Public Utilities and the Metropolitan Council, a new body, which the measure would create.

Shattuck estimated that $80,000,000 of the people's money is already sunk in the company, and if all the improvements for which the bill provides are made, the amount of ator's request to the Alabama situation under consideration, but declined to say whether an inquiry would be instituted.

Senator Norris in his letter to the commission referred to his speech in the Senate in which he said he had heard that power interests were dissatisfied with the attitude of the newspapers in Alabama and that they were taking steps to establish another paper. He said he understood that since then the paper had been started.

He urged an investigation, he said, in view of the acquisition of control of the Boston Herald and the Traveler by the International Paper Co., and charges that the power companies were seeking control of other newspapers in New England.

Norris declined to make the letter public.

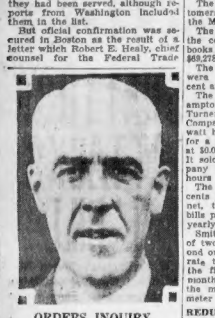
Process Servers From Washington Busy Here

Process servers from Washington have been busy in Boston since yesterday serving the summonses, which call for the witnesses' appearances before the Federal Trade Commission in Washington Tuesday.

John R. Macomber, Boston banker, a director in the International Paper Company and one of the three trustees holding the stock of the two Boston newspapers, admitted he had received a subpoena calling for his appearance in Washington on April 30.

Others approached denied that they had been served, although reports from Washington included them in the list.

But official confirmation was secured in Boston as the result of a letter which Robert E. Healy, chief counsel for the Federal Trade



ORDERS INQUIRY

Robert E. Healey, chief counsel for the Federal Trade Commission, who has notified Representative C. F. Nelson Pratt that subpoenas have been issued in the Boston power inquiry.

Commission wrote to Representative C. F. Nelson Pratt of Saugus.

Representative Pratt, who had taken a leading part in the agitation, had written to Mr. Healy and other officials in Washington and yesterday received this reply:

"Dear Sir—Subpoenas calling for the appearance of men connected with the International Paper Company before the commission on April 30 have been issued. Very truly yours, (Signed) "Robert E. Healy, "Chief Counsel."

The first process server from Washington appeared on Wednesday at the offices of the International Power Company, 89 Broad st., where the annual meeting of the International Paper & Power Company was in progress.

He said his name was Windle and that he represented the Federal Trade Commission. He said he wanted to see Vice-President Huribut of the International Paper Company.

The girl at the desk said Mr. Huribut was not there. She got a man who said the agent from Washington that Mr. Huribut could be found at 167 42d st., New York. The agent produced a legal paper resembling a summons, but pocketed it again when told Huribut was not in the city and departed.

Northampton Company Pays 50 P. C. Dividend

Fifty per cent in dividends, amounting to $58,700, was paid to stockholders during 1928 by the Northampton Electric Lighting Company, a report filed by the company with the public utilities commission discloses.

The total capitalization of the company, according to the return, was $117,400.

The company supplies 6375 customers in Northampton and also the Mill River Electric Light Co.

The total cost of all property of the company is carried on the books at $618,386.09, an increase of $69,278.08 over 1927.

The dividends during the year were three quarterlies at 12 per cent and one at 14 per cent.

The report shows that the Northampton company bought from the Turners Falls Power & Electric Company during 1928, 1,000,000 kilowatt hours of electricity at $0.0185 for a total of $18,500, and 9,522,900 at $0.0135, for a total of $128,553.77. It sold the Mill River Light Company a total of 572,186 kilowatt hours at $0.014 for $8,010.61.

The company's regular rate is 7½ cents per kilowatt hour gross, 6½ net, the latter rate applying on bills paid within 10 days. It has a yearly minimum charge of $5.

Smith College is shown as one of two special customers. The second one is not named. The special rate to the college is $0.0585 for the first 18,720 kilowatt hours a month; $0.057 for all over 18,000 the minimum charge being $9 a meter per month.

REDUCTION IN COST

The company is shown as having put into effect on May 1, 1928, a reduction of one-half cent per kilowatt hour on light rates and a similar reduction in minimum energy rate on the first 10 kilowatt hours.

The officers of the company, according to the report, are as follows: Arthur E. Childs, Boston, president; Philip M. Childs, Brookline, vice-president; Guy K. Dustin, Boston, general manager; George F. Howland, Auburndale, clerk and treasurer; Ralph D. Washburn, Boston, general auditor, and these directors: Arthur E. and Philip M. Childs, Georgs F. Howland and James F. Bacon of Boston. The directors are also connected with the International Paper Company.

The first process server from Washington appeared on Wednesday at the offices of the International Power Company, 89 Broad st., where the annual meeting of the International Paper & Power Company was in progress.

He said his name was Windle and that he represented the Federal Trade Commission. He said he wanted to see Vice-President Huribut of the International Paper Company.

ARREST IN NORTH END SLAYING

SUSPECT CAUGHT NEAR SCENE OF WHARF BATTLE

Simone Selafini of Sumner st., East Boston, between Patrolman William C. Pinkham, who arrested him, and Sergt. Edward T. Keating at Station 1. Selafini was caught near the scene of the killing of Salvatore Squatrito, in alleged fishermen's gang war on Commercial wharf early today. Inset shows revolver believed to have been used in slaying.

of the man thought to be Squadino, resulted from the introduction of Chicago "racketeer" methods into the flounder-dragging industry monopolized by North End fishermen.

For some time past there has been bad blood among the fishermen, who drag at night from power boats, and frequently ride over each other's gawls.

As trawls are expensive and the profits from flounder-dragging are not great, the incidents have led to clashes in the past, in which knives or fists were used, but no casualties had occurred heretofore.

It is believed that the victim and his slayer engaged in an altercation on his boat, tied up to Commercial wharf. Police think the dead man was warned about trawl cutting and denied he was guilty.

VOLLEY OF SHOTS

The two men left the boat, still arguing heatedly, and started down the wharf, when suddenly a volley of shots pierced the quiet of early morning.

Moakley and the officers found the shooting victim lying in a pool of blood behind a string of box cars. The man's body was pierced by four bullet wounds. He was still conscious, and was able to grasp out an alleged identification of Moakley's prisoner as the assailant who had fired upon him.

The victim was taken to the Faymarket Relief Hospital in the police ambulance. He lapsed into a coma on the way and died an hour later without speaking again. He could not give his name, and no identifying papers were found upon him. The body was removed to the Northern Mortuary to await claimants.

According to the station Yardmaster Moakley, he was in his office on Atlantic ave. when he heard a fusillade of shots. He also heard angry voices, the thud of blows, and the scuffling of feet in the darkness.

GRABS FLEEING MAN

Snatching the fire axe from his office wall, Moakley dashed toward the struggling group. Seeing him coming, several men fled. He found himself almost in the path of one of them. Axe in hand, he grappled with this fugitive and overcame him.

At the same time he shouted to a passerby to get the police. Others fled also. Among the sons of the shots, and officers from the Hanover st. police station were already on their way to the scene.

Two came on foot, others in a police car, and still more in the ambulance-patrol wagons.

Moakley and the police then forced the captured man to the side of the bullet-riddled victim, who was groaning in the shadow of the hand freight cars.

Asked: "Is this the fellow who shot you?" the dying man muttered "yes," police say. He was then asked, "Where is the gun?" "He threw it in the water," the victim declared, attempting to point again at the prisoner.

According to police records, Selafini 26 years ago shot Guiseppe Scopa and fled to Italy. Scopa, although wounded in three places, recovered, and in 1916 his assailant returned to this country.

Leaps Into Cell

MARIAN COURTNEY

She had leaped from a third story window to escape arrest, but sprained her ankle and was unable to make a getaway. (International Newsreel photo.)

FIRE USED TO HIDE SLAYING

Hartford, Me., April 25 — Elihu B. Turner, 76, wealthy farmer of this town, was ruthlessly slain and decapitated, and his headless body placed in the barn at his farm on Bear Pond rd., which was then set afire to hide the crime.

This is revealed as the result of investigation by Sheriff Harry O. Stimson and county officials of what is declared to be the most brutal crime in Maine's history.

While police are holding Mrs. Sydney Welch, 36-year-old housekeeper of the Turner home, in the local jail, together with her two children, Georgianna, 4, and Doris, 5 months, County Atty. Flanagan and Medical Examiner Raymond are reconstructing details of the slaying.

Discovery of the headless body was made soon after the arrival of Mrs. Welch at the farm while firemen were still searching the ruins of the burned structure.

In a cellar of the ell building buried under debris, the charred body was found by Dr. W. B. Raymond, county medical examiner. Nearby was also found the discharged shell of a 38-caliber revolver.

Neighbors told the police that Turner was afraid of firearms and would have none on the place.

According to the police, Mrs. Welch declared that she arrived at the farm with her children and Turner gave his bedroom over to her. She said she was awakened by the crackling of burning wood and ran to the window to discover the barn ablaze.

She rushed through the house and failed to find Turner, who, she said, had gone to sleep on a couch in the living room. She then ran back to her room and took her children from the house, according to her story.

Mrs. Welch, police say, was Turner's housekeeper a year ago and she had charged that he was the father of her youngest child.

with the Middleboro patients, and these individuals will be required to submit to vaccination by their own local health boards.

SCHOOLS KEPT OPEN

The Middleboro schools were not closed. Health authorities believe they can better watch the children for symptoms if they continue in school. Accordingly the vacation due next week has been indefinitely postponed.

Dr. George H. Bigelow, head of the State Department of Public Health, said:

"There are more than 15 cases of smallpox in Middleboro. Since the first of the month more than 50 cases of chickenpox had been reported. Investigation yesterday by our staff and Dr. Edwin H. Place of the Boston city hospital, shows that many cases are mild but typical of smallpox.

"The community is poorly vaccinated. However, in the present situation the board of health is taking every possible step and has ordered vaccination of all persons in the town.

"Clinics are to be opened today in the schools, industrial plants and elsewhere in various parts of the town. Enough virus for more than 3000 persons has been sent from our laboratory.

"The State sanitarium at Lakeville has had cases among the newly engaged employes, residents of Middleboro, but as both patients and personnel of the institution are well vaccinated, we are apprehensive about the situation in the hospital.

WARNS OTHER PLACES

"Surrounding communities should investigate at once all cases of reported chicken pox and all physicians should be alive to the possibility of smallpox which early may be confused with grip or influenza.

"We have three of our district health officers in the town today and as soon as the out of town cases in certain cases are known, the Board of Health of the communities involved will be notified.

"Since contacts outside the schools are even greater than those within the schools, no advantage in the control of the disease is gained by closing the schools. Keeping them open gives the added advantage of effective handling of vaccination and early recognition.

"Again we have a situation in Massachusetts the effective control of which depends on the prompt and wholesale utilization of the only effective club against this disease—vaccination."

The situation in Middleboro has thrown the town into a state of excitement, keeping persons away from work and public gatherings, and the selectmen have ordered expenditure of any amount needed to combat the disease.

religious rebellion, during which safe conduct is promised and he guaranteed those who surrendered.

A proclamation by Gen. Cedillo said: "My soldiers' hearts are cloaked with iron with which to destroy you, but their left arms, the arms of the heart, are cloaked in white with which to pardon you."

As seen here the offer of amnesty extended by Gen. Cedillo contained nothing new to Mexican law. However, the right to choose was demanded with every priest informing national authorities where he was officiating.

This provision, with a supplementary statement that government protection would be offered to church services after it was complied with, was seen as nothing more than the requirement of registration of priests made by the Mexican constitution. It was this requirement to which the Mexican episcopate objected when it ordered cessation of services more than two years ago.

The total capitalization of the company, according to the return, was $117,400.

The company supplies 6375 customers in Northampton and also the Mill River Electric Light Co.

The total cost of all property of the company is carried on the books at $618,386.09, an increase of $69,278.08 over 1927.

The dividends during the year were three quarterlies at 12 per cent and one at 14 per cent.

The report shows that the Northampton company bought from the Turners Falls Power & Electric Company during 1928, 1,000,000 kilowatt hours of electricity at $0.0185 for a total of $18,500, and 9,522,900 at $0.0135, for a total of $128,553.77. It sold the Mill River Light Company a total of 572,186 kilowatt hours at $0.014 for $8,010.61.

The company's regular rate is 7½ cents per kilowatt hour gross, 6½ net, the latter rate applying on bills paid within 10 days. It has a yearly minimum charge of $5.

Smith College is shown as one of two special customers. The second one is not named. The special rate to the college is $0.0585 for the first 18,720 kilowatt hours a month; $0.057 for all over 18,000 the minimum charge being $9 a meter per month.

REDUCTION IN COST

The company is shown as having put into effect on May 1, 1928, a reduction of one-half cent per kilowatt hour on light rates and a similar reduction in minimum energy rate on the first 10 kilowatt hours.

The officers of the company, according to the report, are as follows: Arthur E. Childs, Boston, president; Philip M. Childs, Brookline, vice-president; Guy K. Dustin, Boston, general manager; George F. Howland, Auburndale, clerk and treasurer; Ralph D. Washburn, Boston, general auditor, and these directors: Arthur E. and Philip M. Childs, Georgs F. Howland and James F. Bacon of Boston. The directors are also connected with the International Paper Company.

Publisher Condemns "Power Trust's" Action

New York, April 25—Open condemnation of the International Paper Co., a subsidiary of the $300,000,000 International Paper and Power Co., which is part of the "Power Trust," was voiced here by Col. Robert Ewing, Louisiana newspaper publisher before the American Newspaper Publishers' Association at its annual session at the Waldorf.

The resolutions committee today will refer to the convention a resolution introduced by Col. Ewing condemning the policy of the paper company of purchasing a newspaper. It is expected to bring the whole controversy into the open for action and vote.

In a meeting which at times became so tense as to border on the dramatic, several hundred newspaper publishers heard Col. Ewing condemn the paper company for buying newspapers and charge that they "cannot be buyers and sellers at the same time." He insisted that the company's explanation that "they did so to secure long term paper contracts' did not hold good.

OFFER DECLINED

George M. Rogers, publisher of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, told how he has been approached by banking interests representing the I. P. C. to sell his newspaper. He said the offer had been declined by his directors.

Walter Strong, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, stated that Archibald R. Graustein, president of the I. P. C. and all the power companies which make up the paper company, owned one and one-half per cent of the common stock of his newspaper. He explained that such stock could be bought on the open market.

EXPLAINS "SALE"

J. E. Thomason, editor and publisher of the Chicago Daily Journal, explained how the I. P. C. came into possession of $1,000,000 debenture bonds of his company as well as $500,000 preferred stock and one-third of all the common stock.

The condemnation of the "Power Trust" subsidiary was brought about through a discussion of the charges made by E. L. Gaylord, publisher of the Daily Oklahoman and the Oklahoma City Times, that Thomason should not serve on the paper committee which helps make a price for newsprint paper because of the financing of his newspaper by the I. P. C.

In a lengthy review of the whole matter, which went back a year to the time of the purchase of the Chicago Journal, Thomason outlined his actions step by step. He stated that he and his partner had put up $1,500,000 of their own money for the paper and had borrowed $1,600,000 from the I. P. C. and had given one-third of the common stock for the accommodation. In addition, they agreed to buy paper from the I. P. C. for a ten-year term at the market price. He also stated that the financing had been arranged in such a way as to keep control of the paper's policy out of the hands of the "Power Trust" subsidiary.

COMMENDED THOMASON

The action of the paper committee with Thomason as its chairman was commended by H. Pontius, Detroit Times; F. L. Ker, Hamilton (Ont.) Spectator; Walter Streng, Chicago Daily News; E. Laning Ray, St. Louis Globe Democrat and others.

Frank P. Glass, Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser, opposed the action and attitude of Thomason and told the convention that Thomason should have resigned from the paper committee.

At the conclusion of the discussion, which at times waxed hot, Fleming Newbolt of the Washington Star, offered the resolution of confidence in the paper committee and its chairman. This was adopted by a rising vote.

Throughout the entire day groups of publishers discussed the recent exposé of the "Power Trust" by the Hearst newspapers. Many of them knew of instances in their localities where newspaper had changed hands at prices beyond their earning possibilities.

6 YEARS IN JAIL FOR GIRL IN CURFEW CASE

Camden, N. J., April 25—Ruth Marie Cundiff, 15, must go back to serve six years in the West Virginia State Industrial School for Girls—because she violated a 9:30 curfew law! She was betrayed by a schoolmate's anger.

The State of West Virginia is reaching for Ruth again—after her daring escape from the institution last Washington's birthday when she trekked 67 miles partly through wilderness.

She had been sentenced to the six-year term a few weeks before when she disobeyed the curfew blue law in Sistersville, W. Va., where she was visiting an aunt.

Held in police headquarters today, Ruth was waiting defiantly for West Virginia authorities who are hastening here with extradition papers.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cundiff, North 5th st., are pondering the parable of the Good Samaritan. For it was their sheltering of Marie Myers, 19, a paroled inmate of the home, that led to their daughter's capture.

Jewish Teachers to Attend Conference

Dr. Samuel Perlman, dean of the Boston Hebrew Teachers College, and Louis Hurwich, superintendent of the Bureau of Jewish Education, will attend a two-day conference of delegates from Hebrew colleges throughout the country, in Temple Ansha Chased, New York city.

The conference will open Sunday to determine basic standards for Hebrew teachers' colleges. It is under the auspices of the National Council for Jewish Education, of which Dr. Emanuel Gamoran is president.

public money invested would reach $250,000,000.

"If this road is sold to a private company, $10,000,000 of stock privately owned would swing and control the huge public investment," he said.

"In high finance, this would be referred to as inverted pyramiding, when a very small amount of money controls a large amount of other people's money."

"Do you think this proposition might be of interest to the so-called Power Trust?" Shattuck asked Sen. Warren.

"I can see where the idea of sale of electricity might be attractive to outside interests," replied Sen. Warren.

Representative Shattuck then pointed out that the Elevated is the only big public concern today that generates its own electricity in great volume. He reframed his first question, saying:

"Isn't there some danger of this company getting into the hands of such interests as I referred to?"

"You know human nature just the same as I do," replied Sen. Warren.

Asked privately by newspapermen as to the Elevated's generation of power, General Manager Edward L. Dana said the amount was 252,000,000 k. w. hours of current a year, at a cost of a little above 7 mills, which is a very low cost.

DEMOCRATS IN SENATE SPLIT ON FARM AID

Washington, April 25 (AP)—A decision not to attempt to bind all Democrats in the Senate to the export debenture plan as a part of farm relief legislation was reached today at a Democratic caucus attended by 31 of the party's 39 senators.

While nothing has been said officially as to what attitude the Democrats in Congress, as a party, would take on farm legislation, it is known a number of members have been conferring informally.

Some members have insisted the minority should line up behind the export debenture plan in the Senate bill, to whether this or some measure widespread support is not known.

RESCUE 10 OFF LOST NEW BEDFORD SHIP

ONE MAN DIES AS MATES ARE SAVED AT SEA

Foodless and without water for 48 hours, ten survivors of the crew of 11 of the New Bedford schooner James E. Coburn were picked up 850 miles east of Cape Hatteras, N. C., today by the yacht, Amida, after they had drifted nine days in an open lifeboat at the mercy of a full gale.

The boat had drifted 250 miles from where the schooner foundered. The eleventh member of her crew died of exposure last night and was buried at sea when all hope of rescue had been given up. Four of the rescued are New England men.

A brief wireless message from the master of the Amida, intercepted by the Chatham station of the Radio Corp. of America brought first word of a new tragedy of the sea, which, as the hours progressed, bringing further details, grew into an epic story of suffering and hardship, courage and final rescue for all save one.

The James E. Coburn, a four-master sold recently by Rogers & Webb, Boston ship brokers, to J. J. Fonesca of New Bedford, foundered on April 17, 250 miles north of Bermuda.

Heavily laden with a cargo of coal, she plunged to her last rest at the height of a gale after every effort of her captain, Jose J. Perreira, of New Bedford, and her crew had been in vain.

SHIPS INTO THE SEA.

In the sunless dawn and fury of a gale-swept Atlantic a week ago yesterday, her crew abandoned her, taking to a single lifeboat as she slid beneath the waves.

All that day and that night and the next and the next, 11 men in an open boat with scant food and little water fought valiantly for life against a storm that did not subside, that threatened over to capsize them, roll them and over end down white-rimmed mountain slopes of rushing water.

The gale held, and courage held, but not their strength. Eight days they drifted, and part of the ninth.

DIES AS RESCUE NEARS

Walter Sargent of Baltimore, ship's cook, died last night with rescue but a few hours away.

When morning broke today, Sargent was buried at sea, and up the trim, old gray horizon bore the yacht Amida, owned by Ernest R. Liebrend of Newport, R. I.

The yacht sighted them, came at last alongside and lowered a crew to carry aboard 10 men who were too weak to climb a ladder.

A few minutes later Capt. McLaughlin of the Amida wirelessed to Chatham: "Picked up lifeboat from American schooner James E. Coburn, home port New Bedford, containing nine living members of crew and one dead."

Later McLaughlin sent more details, giving the names of 10 living, instead of nine.

IN PREVIOUS WRECK

The John J. Coburn sailed on April 1 from Baltimore for the West Indies. She was launched at South Orrington, Me., 10 years ago, was 185 feet over all and of 987 gross tons.

Capt. Perriera was owner and master of the Matthew S. Greer which was wrecked on Nauhaun at the start of a voyage in January. He made his home with his sister, who since the start of the ill-fated voyage has moved from New Bedford to Boston.

Behrend, owner of the rescue ship, is a millionaire paper manufacturer of Erie, Pa., and Newport.

VOLCANO ASHES SPRAY ALASKA

Cordova, Alaska, April 25 (AP)—With lava dust settling in noticeable amounts on every roof here, it is believed one of the great volcanoes of the Aleutian Islands group, either Mt. St. Augustine, Mt. Illiamna or even the mighty Katmai, is in eruption again.

The last activity of any of that group is believed to have occurred in December, 1927, when two volcanoes on Unimak Island about 700 miles southwest of Seward, were reported smoking and emitting vapor.

NEW ROBBERY SEEN IN FINDING OF SACK

MAIL BAG LEFT IN DRIVEWAY, FINDER SAYS

The possibility of a fourth mail bag robbery was seen by Watertown police when Joseph LaRosa of 16 Myrtle st., Watertown, turned over an empty mail bag that he found, over a week ago, in front of his home. Police say there is no connection between the bag which LaRosa found and the three missing sacks containing registered mail.

LaRosa said he noticed an automobile stop near his home over a week ago and a man get out. LaRosa remembered that the man was acting suspiciously, but paid no more attention to the incident until he came back 15 minutes later and found an empty mail sack on the driveway in front of his home. Not recognizing it as a mail sack, he picked it up and threw it over the fence.

Stories in the newspapers drew his attention to the three stolen mail bags, and La Rosa immediately got in touch with the police.

Chief of Police John F. Milmore of Watertown said he was in touch with the postal authorities, and that they said the empty bag was not of the same type as the three missing ones, but that they would run down the clue in view of the possibility of there being more robberies committed.

CHARGE WIFE GOT LA PLACE BOND CASH

Mrs. Louise E. LaPlace, wife of Basil E. LaPlace, who is on trial in federal court on charges of misapplication of $80,000 National Shawmut Bank funds, heard her name mentioned today as the beneficiary of his alleged peculations.

Through two witnesses the Government traced, by bookkeeping records, the alleged purchase of Liberty bonds worth $10,000 by the former manage rof the auto loan department of the bank, their subsequent sale by him and the credit of the proceeds to his wife's account.

Witnesses on the stand yesterday identified the cashier's check given for the bonds as having been drawn at the order of LaPlace and today it was offered as a Government exhibit.

Leslie G. Howe of Medford, former bookkeeper of the Shawmut Corporation, in direct testimony at the hands of Asst. U. S. Atty. John J. Walsh, read from the records of that institution the details of the Liberty bond sale to LaPlace.

George Hill, brokerage clerk, testified to deposit of the Liberty bonds with his firm four days after their purchase and said the proceeds of their subsequent sale for $10,244 was credited to the account of Mrs. LaPlace.

G. G. A. Brands Exchange St. Deal as a 'Second Boston Massacre'

"The Second Boston Massacre" is the Good Government Association label on the Exchange st. widening project for which the city has already expended $1,750,000 in land takings and plans to spend more.

In the April issue of its official organ, City Affairs, distributed today, the G. G. A. goes into the history of the widening, basing its remarks, illustrated by a cartoon and a drawing, on facts brought out in the recent investigation by the Finance Commission. And the article draws the conclusion that a "storm is brewing for the old-line politicians."

Early in its article, the publication reviews the purchase by Joseph Paul and Abraham Lipp of the property in question, 40-44 State st., from Herbert F. Winslow, nominee of the First National Bank holders of a mortgage.

HISTORY REPEATED

"During the past month we have had demonstrated once more the old adage that history repeats itself, only with subtle modifications appropriate to evolving customs." That's the introduction on the leading article in the six-page brochure. Going on, it says:

"At the corner of State st. and Exchange sts. there is embedded in the sidewalk a simple legend, 'The Boston Massacre, 1770.' In March of that year a group of British soldiers shot and killed five natives of the city and wounded several more. It was a spark in the tinder box of the American Revolution.

"WOUNDED POCKETBOOK"

"On the same corner, 158 years later, occurred the second massacre, only this time, as is fitting in an age of Mammon Worshippers, the casualties were entirely economic. The natives of Boston on this occasion were wounded in the pocketbook; and if the rumblings we have heard mean anything, there is a storm brewing for the old-line politicians."

Missing Millionaire Got Death Threat

New York, April 25 (INS)—"I will come to your office and others—each of whom will skin you alive, because you are a brute and a pig."

With this note, scrawled in an illiterate hand and .22-caliber bullet as their only tangible clues, Assistant District Attorneys Sylvester Ryan and George DeLuca, today probed through the musty interior of the old Gouverneur Morris mansion overlooking Long Island Sound, seeking some connection between the threatening letter and the present whereabouts of the mysteriously missing Dr. Charles Brancati—if the millionaire Italian be still alive.

Making their way through the ancient interior, the district attorneys came across the threatening letter lying on the floor in one of the bedrooms. Many gay parties enlivened the stately mansion neighbors of the doctor say.

Dr. Brancati, a graduate of Columbia Medical College and prominent in Italian fraternal circles, has been missing since Nov. 1 last, although his disappearance was revealed only yesterday. Since his departure about $225,000 of the physician's funds have been withdrawn from brokerage firms by persons representing authorizations bearing the missing man's alleged signature.

FIGHT FOR NAME OF ROXBURY SCHOOL

Hundreds of graduates of the old Roxbury High School, some of them parents of present students are aroused to a high pitch today because the bill seeking to compel the members of the Boston School Committee to rename Memorial High School, in Roxbury, to Roxbury High has been laid on the table.

It is expected that within the next few days the group headed by Charles Page, representative from Roxbury, will appear before the State Senate and seek to have the bill taken from the table for action by the solons.

The protestants feel that the name of Roxbury High, which has been famous in Greater Boston for years, should be replaced upon the new school located at the corner of Warren and Townsend sts., Roxbury.

When the bill was considered by the House it passed that body by a majority of 138 votes in favor of the protestants. The Senate, however, has taken the attitude that the state should not attemp to mix in on he affairs of the school committee of Boston. They feel that it is a matter to be considered by the municipal authorities.

YOUTH SEIZED IN 2ND AUTO THEFT CASE

Less than 12 hours after he had been released in $500 bail for alleged theft of an automobile, Arthur Paquelle, 15, of Mall st., Lynn, stole another car. Today Judge O'Brien, in Lynn district court, jumped the bail to $1500 for hearing on both charges.

The second theft was discovered when firemen were called to extinguish a blazing automobile in the yard at 26 Mall st. The car had been reported as stolen by Harold Yeaton, a General Electric employe.

On the floor of the car police found a slot machine weight card. Clever sleuthing led them to the Bread School where, police say, Paquelle admitted he had taken the car from a parking space on Biddle st. In his pocket they found a second card, similar to that found in the stolen car.

Thorn, Believed From Crown of Christ, Found in Cross

Berlin, April 24—Discovery of a thorn believed to be from the crown of thorns worn by Jesus Christ at his crucifixion, was made today by the Rev. Mr. Balluff of St. Peter's Church, at Waldsee, near Stuttgart.

The thorn was hidden in a small oval-shaped niche laid out in pure silver in baroque style in the altar crucifix.

The thorn is one inch long and is covered by a metallic material of blue color for protection against atmospheric destruction.

Films of Underworld Barred in Brockton

Brockton, April 25—Motion pictures, showing underworld and crime scenes, will not be shown in Brockton theaters, according to the ruling of the city board of censors. Three pictures, all scheduled for showing here, have been banned and managers advised that they are not fit to be presented.

Charles S. Bagdon, chairman of the censors, designated as the banned pictures "Gang War," "Prince of the Underworld" and "Red Wine."

DISCUSS BETTER HOMES TONIGHT

Mrs. Storrow Is Presiding Genius at Dinner in Copley-Plaza

NO SOCIAL BARRIERS WILL SEPARATE THE ELITE FROM those not so fortunately born when 500 enthusiasts for a common cause dine at the Copley-Plaza tonight at the bidding of Mrs. James J. Storrow, Massachusetts chairman of the better homes movement. Amid a profusion of spring flowers and speeches the assembly will collect many valuable ideas on good taste in home building. One needs only to hear Mrs. Storrow speak to find the answer to the tremendous response to the state-wide campaign which she has directed in the interest of higher types of homes. She attracts ability from every walk of life, not because she is Mrs. Storrow, but because she so earnestly works for the happiness of others.

PRESIDENT MARSH OF BOSTON UNIVERSITY, MRS. STORROW and others will visualize the ideal behind the campaign. A miniature model home, with grounds, will occupy the center of the table. This doll house was designed to illustrate to prospective home builders and bankers the value of investment in good taste.

LONG PRACTICE IN ARRANGING FLOWERS FOR SOCIAL FUNCTIONS has cultivated Mrs. Edward R. Warren's inborn talent for artistic color combinations and the spring blossoms supplied in such quantities by Mrs. Louis A. Frothingham and Mr. Richard M. Saltonstall will be objects of study as well as admiration. Mrs. Roger S. Warner was to have lent her skill to this committee but changed plans called her abroad earlier. Miss Rachael Warner, who has been at school in Paris, is to accompany her mother home for summer vacation in a few weeks. Mrs. Henry M. Tudor and Mrs. Frederick T. Lord gave generously of their time assisting in arrangements.

THE FIRST LADY OF THE COMMONWEALTH, IN SMART black ensemble and peach blouse, was the cynosure of 200 pairs of admiring eyes as she received the homage of social leaders and others at a reception and tea at 324 Commonwealth ave. yesterday afternoon. An honor guest of the Camp Fire Girls, Mrs. Allen became the magnet that drew many to the scene where recently the girls did their bit toward better homes by remodelling the entire lower floor. Governor Allen came in for half an hour.

RECEIVING WITH MRS. ALLEN IN THE HANDSOME BAY window were Mrs. Lucius Thayer, Mrs. Margaret J. Stannard, Mrs. Frederick Armes Fisher and Miss Lotta A. Clark, president of the Greater Boston Council of Campfire Girls. Noted among those in the guest line were Mrs. Sewall Fessenden, Mrs. John L. Garadin, Mrs. Sidney Winslow, Mrs. Eliot Wadsworth, Mrs. Sumner Hollingsworth and William A. L. Baseley. Mrs. Walter Bayliss, Mrs. Charles Newhall, Mrs. Randolph Frothingham, Courtenay Guild, Mrs. Frederick Cunningham, Mrs. John C. Lane and Mrs. J. J. Storrow were among the guests. Mrs. Algernon Coolidge poured and Camp Fire girls in service costumes served tea. A group of Camp Fire songs filled an interlude.

PRESIDENT AND MRS. A. LAWRENCE LOWELL ARE TO RECEIVE Miss Edith Genone Somerville, distinguished Irish sportswoman, authoress and artist, at a tea when she visits Harvard during her stay in Boston as the guest of Mrs. Beyard Thayer. The Thayer motor is to be dispatched to bring Miss Somerville over from Providence on Saturday, and then a crowded social calendar is to claim every hour of her stay until Tuesday.

JOHN GAY'S BEGGARS' OPERA SCORES AT HOLLIS

By MOSES SMITH

The current production of John Gay's "Beggar's Opera," at the Hollis, might be the text of a sermon with many morals. For one thing, this witty satire, which was originally staged by Rich two centuries ago, thrived so well that it inspired the brilliant line, "It made Gay rich and Rich gay." It was a bit too "fast" for the Victorian era; now the cycle returns, and for eight years the "Beggar's Opera" has prospered in England and America.

It is interesting, furthermore, to speculate on the fact that this travesty on grand opera was written at—in fact, inspired by—a time which was surfeited with the Italian operas of Handel. "The Beggar's Opera" drove poor Handel into the field of oratorio. Yet this same twentieth century, which looks and listens with pleasure while the cut-throats deliver their inspired jibes, has sufficient curiosity to revive the old Handelian operas.

MOTION FREER

The present production of Gay's masterpiece is not precisely the one we remember a few years ago in Boston, though the company is much the same. Additional music has been written in the book by Frederic Austin; some of the tunes have been adapted. The action on stage is, in general, much freer. It is less in the spirit of the eighteenth century and more in the spirit of the twentieth.

This may or may not be for the better. It enables an audience which is unfamiliar with the opera traditions of the early period, the political and social life, and which is consequently unable to see the point of much of the humor, to enjoy the "show" more. In Gay's day it was not necessary, very likely, for Mrs. Peachum to roll on the floor to inspire laughter. The mere presence of thieves, beggars, low wenches and what-not in an opera, which was the very summit of dignity and grandiloquence, was humorous.

WELL ACTED

Not all the scenes of this latest presentation are burlesqued, nor do all the players deviate from strictly high comedy. Sylvia Nelis, in particular, as Polly, retains her dignity throughout; indeed, she might unbend a bit without damage. Norman Williams makes a stalwart and clear-voiced Macheath, though he, too, is somewhat inflexible. Vocally uncertain, Beatrice Morson does an excellent Lucy Lockit so far as speech, action and appearance are concerned. Charles Macgrath as Peachum, Ernest Colvin at Lockit and Celia Turrill as Mrs. Peachum, prefer the lighter—or should I say heavier?—way. The ensembles are by far the best part of the performance.

But, after all, the principal thing is that we have an opportunity to renew acquaintance with a masterpiece of ironic humor, with a host of tunes, deft and vigorous, and with a rascally company of knaves whom we love.

Harvard Court Team Downs Violet

The Harvard varsity tennis team squeaked out a victory of 5 to 4 over the strong outfit from New York University at Divinity courts.

At the end of the singles matches, the score was tied three all, as the three top men on the N. Y. U. team defeated the three ranking Crimson players. The final outcome of the match was decided when Harvard took two of the three doubles matches after two of them had been extended to extra sets.

Eleonora Sears Off for Europe

New York, April 25—Miss Eleonora R. Sears, Boston society woman, among whose claims to fame is that of being the world's foremost pedestrian of her sex, sailed on the steamship Berengaria for Cherbourg.

She was accompanied by Mrs. Fiske Warren, also of Boston. The pair will spend several months abroad.

Would you believe $50 enough money for a complete Spring costume? Well it is, in Filene's Temporary Addition. In only a few moments we selected the one sketched and had $7.31 to spare from our imaginary $50. And there were loads of other possibilities—a dress for $13.75 for instance, a coat for $15.75—any number of ways to outfit oneself completely for $50 and still come out on top. The styles sketched are only few of a kind, of course, because they never were planned for an advertisement. Neither is it a special sale. These are just typical, everyday, excellent values in the Temporary Addition!

HOOVER FARM VICTORY SURE IN HOUSE

Washington, April 25 (INS)—President Hoover neared his first congressional victory today in passage by the House of the Haugen farm relief bill setting up a federall farm board to encourage cooperative marketing with the backing of a $500,000,000 appropriation.

The first high hurdle has been cleared by administration leaders in preventing consideration of the old equalization fee plan of farm relief. The export debenture plan of the national grange also will be ruled out of order.

Thirty-one attempted amendments to the Haugen bill had been defeated as the House continued to work on amendments today.

The Senate meantime continued to debate the McNary bill, similar to the Haugen bill, except for inclusion of the export debenture feature as an optional plan. In the Senate there is little likelihood of an early vote.

K. C. CLUB BALL NEXT MONDAY

A capacity house is expected at the annual ball of the Columbus Club of Dorchester in the State ballroom, Massachusetts ave., next Monday evening.

Four Knights of Columbus councils make up the organization. They are Dorchester, Mt. Bowdoin, James E. Hayes and Rev. John B. De Valles councils.

The committee includes Julius Sandberg, Edward Hayes, James H McCarthy, Everett R. Barry, Peter D. Cash, Edward E. Lanigan, J. Harry Gates, Gerald Toomey, William A. Ratigan, Thomas J. Kelly Charles Campbell, John S. Murray Timothy F. Murphy, Daniel McIntyre, Timothy Sullivan, Lawrence McCarthy, Patrick J. McGrail, Harold Field, Robert J. Gordon, John V. Jennings, Thomas F. Fitzgerald and John J. Regan.

K. C. Special Agent to Visit Bay State

Special Agent J. F. Deily, representing the supreme council of the Knights of Columbus at New Haven, will visit four Massachusetts councils next week. Monday he will be at Bridgewater, Tuesday at Concord, Wednesday in Manchester and Thursday and Friday in Everett.

Lineman Dies as He Hits 22,000 Volts

Warren, R. I., April 25 (AP)—Frank E. Noble, employed by the Narragansett Electric Lighting Co., died from shock suffered as 22,000 volts passed through his body as he was working on lightning arresters on a pole here. He was a resident of Worcester.

WRAGG URGED TO SUCCEED BATES

Appointment of Senator Samuel H. Wragg of Needham to succeed Sanford Bates as commissioner of correction in Massachusetts will be asked of Governor Allen by a large number of members of the State Legislature. The recommendation to the governor is now being made up by a group of senators and is said to be receiving hearty support among the legislators.

Bates was recently named by the Department of Justice as superintendent of federal prisoners, and will leave his position in Massachusetts on June 1 to assume his new duties.

Senator Wragg has been in close touch with the penal and other State institutions for some time, in connection with his work on the committee on public institutions. An interesting phase of the situation also is that Wragg represents in the Senate the Norfolk-Middlesex district, which includes the town of Norwood, Governor Allen's home.

Hoover's Favorite Game Too Strenuous

Washington, April 25 (AP)—Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Senator from New York, believes medicine ball is too strenuous for Mr. Hoover, and tennis for Mr. Stimson; that golf is the ideal game for a man over 45. Mr. Hoover doesn't play it. Nevertheless, the doctor has found the President to be in the best of shape.

Our Hurried Ways Clip Our Speech

New York, April 25 (AP)—Our everyday speech is becoming staccato and brief because of our mechanized age, Prof. George Pierce Baker of Yale told the American Academy of Arts and Letters. The influence of all our time-saving, distance-killing devices is evident in most of the conversation he overhears.

Postmaster Pleads Guilty in Theft

Portland, Me., April 25—A plea of guilty to a secret indictment charging embezzlement of $2681.53 in postal funds has been entered by William C. Bryant of Lewiston, former postmaster of that city, in the United States District Court here, and he has given bail of $5000 for appearance from day to day for sentence.

Theaters Closed in Smallpox Scare

Greenville, N. H., April 25—The board of health ordered closed all meeting places including movie houses as a result of three cases of smallpox reported here during the past two weeks. All gatherings were postponed including lodge meetings and club affairs, while the moving picture house here was dark for the first time.

Multiple System Opposed by Weavers

Fall River, April 25—Fall River weavers are unalterably opposed to the multiple system. The executive board of the Weavers' Union has placed itself on record as opposed to the operation of more than eight of the old style looms or from 10 to 16 of the automatic looms, depending on the nature of the goods when the weave room of the Arkwright mill reopens with the next week or 10 days.

IRISH SOCIETY INSTALLS OFFICERS

More than 700 members of Greater Boston Irish organizations thronged Corinthian Hall, Deacon Building, for the annual installation of officers of the St. Brendan Society, County Kerry Association.

Unusual interest was aroused in the ceremonies because it was the first installation at which Miss Anna J. Coll, newly-elected president of the Central Council, presided.

In her preliminary remarks, Miss Coll hailed the organization as the leader in the movement for Irish freedom and the uplift of the Irish people.

The officers installed were Michael R. Murphy, president; Lawrence E. Sullivan, vice-president; Mary C. O'Connor, recording secretary; Bridie McGillicuddy, financial secretary; Francis J. Brennan, treasurer; Nellie Keary and Michael Hynes, inspectors, and Timothy Scott, sentinel.

Miss Coll's suite included Michael J. Dunlin, John J. Doolan, Hugh J. Carroll, Thomas F. Murray, Joseph J. Downing and Richard J. Dwyer.

The installing staff was headed by Joseph P. Mohan as marshal and Thomas Gallagher, assistant marshal. On the staff were representatives of organizations affiliated with the Central Council. They were Peter McLaughlin, Margaret Brennan, Helen Veasy, Mrs. Mary Doyle, Nellie Kelly, Sadie Gallagher, Helen Myers, Nora McGuinnis, Daniel J. Doherty, Thomas C. Maguire, Jr., William J. Hanley, John Bennett, George Carroll, Nicholas Ennis, George Kelly, John F. Glynn and Richard J. Dwyer.

Following the installation ceremonies, the officers of the society were presented with bouquets of cut flowers. The presentation was made by a group of flower girls, including Kathleen Sullivan, Marie Sherer, Margaret Linehan, Dorothy Linehan, Catherine Murphy, Eileen Carroll, Eleanor Murphy, Eleanor Wade and Elizabeth Sherer.

The evening was concluded with a program of entertainment and general dancing.

SEX AUTHORESS TO CHOOSE JAIL

Mrs Dorie Deutsch

New York, April 25—Declaring her trial "a long way off from justice or common sense," Mrs. Mary Ware Dennett, whose book, "The Sex Side of Life," was found "obscened" until Federal Judge Mack, a jury Tuesday, declared yesterday she would go to jail rather than pay any fine Judge Warren B. Burrows may impose on her.

She said if an adverse opinion was rendered against her a defense committee of prominent persons would aid her in taking the case to the Supreme Court, if necessary.

"I don't feel ashamed of what I have done; those who have sought to down me should. I'm only annoyed; they are disgraced," she said.

The prosecutor Tuesday indicated that he would ask a nominal fine and not a prison sentence.

British Bill Fixes 16 as Marriage Age

London, April 25 (INS)—Strenuous efforts are under way here to change the present laws governing the age at which couples may marry.

Under the present regulations the statutory minimum is 12 years for girls and 14 for boys. Lord Buckmaster has introduced a bill in the House of Lords which would make void all marriages between persons under the age of 16 years.

Vanderbilt Prizes Lost in R. I. Fire

Portsmouth, R. I., April 25 (AP)—Fire at Oakland farm, estate of Stat. Senator William H. Vanderbilt, destroyed a collection of trophy cups, medals and prize ribbons, awarded his agricultural products at New England and New York horticultural shows in recent years.

Army Base Pier Fire Does $1000 Damage

Fire did damage of $1000 early today at the headquarters office of the Bay State Shipping Co. at the South Boston Army Base pier.

The blaze was confined to the first floor of the three-story building. Its origin was not established.

HUB MINISTER BACKS TAX CAMPAIGN

Another prominent Boston clergyman today added his name to the many who have endorsed the Boston Evening American's campaign to bring about a reduction in the federal tax on incomes.

The Rev. William L. Stidger, pastor of the Copley M. E. Church of Boston, today expressed unqualified approval of the attempt to bring about a more equitable distribution of the governmental tax burden. He said:

"I have observed the progress of the federal income tax campaign as outlined from day to day in the Hearst papers in Boston, New York and various other cities throughout the country, and I wish to say that I am in favor of the general objectives of the plan.

"At the outset I wish to have it understood that I do not endorse the plan merely from the standpoint of the clergyman. I am not in favor or attempting to secure any further exemptions for clergymen as such. The clergy have too many exemptions already.

"I believe, however, that the ambitious worker of any craft or profession, should have every opportunity to advance in his life work, to educate his children and to establish a modest competency without unfair handicaps such as the present federal income tax imposes.

"Much of the present expense of government could be distributed more justly and with less hardship by lightening the tax upon actual earnings and making up the differences by taxing luxurious incomes.

"Too little consideration is given to the family head, whose financial responsibilities include the education of maturing children. The education of children is a distinct contribution to the general uplift of the race, and the man or woman who is making a real sacrifice to supply higher education to the coming generation should be helped rather than handicapped."

Sees Future U. S. as Land of Puny Men and Husky Women

Chicago, April 25 (INS)—Puny, anemic men and husky, beautiful women will inhabit America of the future, unless something's done about it.

This warning was sounded at the Midwest Society of Physical Education, in convention here today.

Women, say the educators, are reaching physical perfection through outdoor athletics, while men steadily are becoming enfeebled and stunted in poorly ventilated offices.

TEA ROOM MAN SUED IN CRASH

Two damage suits, aggregating $2,850, have been filed against Alfred R. Hipson, tearoom owner, of Dover st., Boston, in the District Supreme Court of Washington by Mr. and Mrs. Clinton D. Buckingham of Washington.

The Buckinghams in their suits charged that Hipson was the operator of an automobile which struck their machine, causing it to turn over, resulting in serious injuries to them.

The alleged accident occurred several months ago.

Arraign Three for Operating Still

Providence, April 25—Three men will be arraigned today before the United States commissioner on charges brought by federal prohibition agents, who in a raid seized a 1,000-gallon still, 150 gallons of liquor, and five drums of alcohol, Antonio Falcone, James Stambasch and Thomas Pizzi were taken in a shed where the prohibition agents said the still was in operation.

DENTIST SLAIN BEFORE GAZE OF PATIENTS

Chicago, April 25 (AP)—Dr. Frank L. Brady, a West Side dentist, had two callers who weren't listed on his appointment book and one of them shot him dead.

Dr. Brady, 32, had extracted a tooth for a woman patient and given her a chair in a private office that she might recover from effects of an anaesthetic. A man patient then sat down in the dentist's chair while Dr. R. H. Best, a physician sharing offices with Dr. Brady, watched over the woman.

Two men pushed open the door leading from the corridor to the room in which the patient, Mrs. Edna Walsh, was sitting. Dr. Brady was on the point of returning to his other office when the men appeared.

One of the men pointed a revolver at Dr. Brady, saying, "We've got you now."

The dentist cried "Don't!" and reached out to grab the gun. The gunman fired and Dr. Brady fell.

"There, you ——, you'll never try a stunt like that again."

With the killing several sinister circumstances came to light. It was revealed that the dentist, after years of struggle with a small practice, suddenly became prosperous about four years ago; that he was the son of Mrs. Anna Brady, champ who killed herself during the murder trial of Herman J. (Midget) Pernewer, and that Dr. Brady himself had long been under police investigation in connection with the search for large sums of money the Midget stole.

Heads Holyoke Y. M. C. A.

GEORGIAN CHEF OFFERS NEW DISH TO HUB

Lovers of good cookery that is at the same time economical should set down in their memory book the day Charles Binda introduced an absolutely new dish to Boston, at Martha Lee's Kitchen Club gathering.

This was lamb's tongue Georgian—the fresh lamb tongues being used in combination with lima beans, diced carrots, sliced potatoes, chopped bacon, mushroom sauce and grated cheese. Binda called attention to the fact the United States Department of Agriculture is issuing an appeal to American housewives to make use of delicious and economical lamb tongues, especially in warm weather when they are easily digested.

Packers, too, are spending thousands of dollars in educating progressive housewives to appreciate these delicious bits of tender meat. Watch this paper next Saturday for Binda's original recipe for Binda's Tongue Georgian in full detail. It is something that you will find keenly appreciated by your family and friends.

Charles Binda, chef of the Bratti St. Georgian Cafeteria, is certainly master of the art of cookery. Coming here from Italy, Binda has been connected with the Brunswick, Parker House and Touraine hotels in Boston, and other hotels in New York and New Brunswick. For the past eight years he has been chef of the St. Georgian—one of those famous cafeterias that have established a new standard of beauty in furnishing and excellence of food.

Binda's lecture and demonstration included Fricandeau of Veal Genovise, another economical and extremely delicious meat dish, and several salads. In the salad making he was assisted by George Pollock, salad chef of the Georgian, and formerly with the Hayward.

"There is no better salad man in Boston," said Binda, and after we saw Salad Nobilia and Stuffed Artichokes American, we certainly agreed with him.

Our next Chef's Day will be Wednesday, May 1, when Rinaldo Mesuccio, chef of the Yacht Duck Inn, will take charge of the lesson.

Prof. Woolsey, Yale Law Expert, Dies

New Haven, Ct., April 25 (INS)—Theodore Salisbury Woolsey, 75, one of the greatest American scholars and an authority on international law, is dead. Prof. Woolsey was professor of international law at Yale University from 1878 to 1911 and professor emeritus since 1911. He was the son of the late Theodore Dwight Woolsey, eminent Greek scholar and professor and former Yale President.

Promote Sale for Clubhouse Fund

FOUNDED on vision, 150 members of the Women's Italian Club of Boston visualize a substantial financial response to their miscellaneous sale for the building fund which takes place tonight in the North End Union. Mrs. Andrew J. Gatturna is in charge.

So many more dollars will go to the building fund of the club, a goal to which the members have pledged themselves devotedly in the hope that very soon they may call a house their "home" and label it rightly with the name of their active and progressive organization.

The building fund has consumed almost completely the energies of the club members, who seek $10,000 before starting on the new clubhouse. Of this amount $5000 has already been realized.

Figuratively, everything from "soup to nuts" will be sold at the Union, 20 Parmenter st., the trading starting at 8 p. m. and continuing to midnight.

(White Studio)

Mrs. Andrew J. Gatturna

Officers of the club are: Mrs. Luigi Verde, president; Mrs. Delphina Repetto, vice-president; Mrs. Letizia Ciampoli, secretary; Mrs. John McCarthy, corresponding secretary; Mrs. John A. Kelley, treasurer; Mrs. Mary Bacigalupo, auditor.

Assisting Mrs. Gatturna on the sale will be Mrs. Louis Balboni, Mrs. Louise Biggi, Mrs. Lena La Porta and Mrs. Luigi P. Verde.

BOSTON WOMAN'S CIVIC CLUB

Intelligent thinking in the one thing needed in the country today, Mrs. Azel A. Packard, president of the State Federation, told the members at their annual luncheon and meeting in Hotel Brunswick.

"Women have a great field in the country today," she said. "They haven't left a thing untouched. They have studied all branches of learning and pursued all courses of serious thought. The standard is high in the State Federation."

These officers were elected: Mrs E. W. Bardner, Brockton, president; Mrs. Mina G. del Castillo and Mrs. James E. Spike, both of Cambridge, vice-presidents; Mrs. James E. Spike, Cambridge, recording secretary; Mrs. Henry H. Cudworth, Marshfield, corresponding secretary; Miss Grace H. Howe, Roxbury, treasurer; Mrs. Herman C. Stahl, Arlington, auditor; George M. Hayden, Newton Highlands, Mrs. Archer W. Ives, Brookline; Mrs. John A. Groves, Newton Center, directors.

Mrs. Groves was appointed delegate to the State Federation meeting at Swampscott next month.

BROOKLINE WOMAN'S CLUB

Mrs. William C. Ross, treasurer of the club, has been appointed by Mrs. Ella Wilson Brandon, president, as club delegate to the State Federation meeting. Other delegates include be Mrs. David L. Vaughn, Mrs. Thomas W. De Ware, Mrs. Charles W. Brigham and Mrs. Newell Keith.

Have you all of your own teeth?

Unless you take preventive measures now, the day is coming when you may know, to your sorrow, that the true meaning of the phrase "artificial denture" is often the extravagant price of self-neglect—false teeth. Here's the reason and the way to help safeguard health against the coming of this day.

Teeth are only as healthy as the gums. And gums, undernourished and under-exercised, soon surrender to dread diseases that ravage health and often destroy teeth. To prevent this, avail yourself of the best care that modern dentistry offers. Place yourself in the hands of your dentist at least twice a year. And brush your gums when you brush your teeth, every morning and night.

But for this purpose—use Forhan's for the Gums . . . the dentifrice designed to help firm gums and keep them sound, thus protecting them from the attack of disease.

Use Forhan's regularly. You'll be delighted with the way it makes your gums look and feel. In addition, you'll notice that it effectively and safely cleans teeth and helps to protect them from decay. Get a tube of Forhan's—today!

Clear Bright Skin Always Looks Lovely
Most faces look dirty—dull skin always looks old and dingy.
Creamed Magnesia clears the skin in the same easy way that milk of magnesia purifies the stomach.

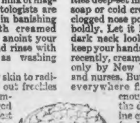
Beauty Guaranteed

Nothing spoils good looks more than a dull, sallow, off-color skin. Such complexions always make a woman look old. A clear, true-color skin always makes a woman look younger than her years.

Science has found a quick, easy way to change dingy-looking, off-color skins to true-color clearness. And, to get this radiantly clear, lovely skin takes only five minutes! That's why this new form of magnesia is called the beauty miracle of modern science.

The newest discovery in beauty culture is that creamed magnesia beautifies the skin instantly, in the same easy way that milk of magnesia purifies the stomach. This is because skin impurities are acid. Doctors treat acid inside the body with milk of magnesia. And now, dermatologists are getting amazing results in banishing complexion faults with creamed magnesia. All you do is anoint your skin with it, massage and rinse with water. It's as simple as washing your face.

It changes dull, sallow skin to radiant clearness and fades out freckles better than a bushel of lemons. It reduces enlarged pores to the finest, smoothest texture almost as if by magic. Being astringent, it drives away those tell-tale signs of age. You will marvel at the effect of your first five-minute facial massage. It rejuvenates the skin so quickly that any woman can look lovely tonight, years younger. It's marvelous how magnesia dissolves blackheads, clears eruptions and corrects oily skin.



And because it is pure enough to drink, mothers use it instead of soap to bathe infants. It certainly is a blessing as a face wash for fine sensitive skins that soap so easily irritates and coarsens. Being greaseless, it cannot fatten the face or grow hair. It removes make-up and extracts impurities deep-set in the pores better than soap or cold cream. Test it on those clogged nose pores that stand out so boldly. Let it lighten your neck. A dark neck looks dirty. It will also keep your hands soft and white. Until recently, creamed magnesia was used only by New York doctors' wives, and nurses. But now the large stores everywhere find it hard to keep enough on hand to supply the demand. To get genuine creamed magnesia, ask for Dexten's Feodal Magnesia. Remember five minutes works wonders. So, get your magnesia today and look lovely tonight. It costs almost nothing to try. Your druggist sells it on a money back guarantee.

NOTE: Do not hesitate to try this guaranteed beauty treatment at once. Thousands of delighted women have written they could not believe anything so simple could be so wonderful. But they were convinced as they saw so many friends suddenly get lovely complexions.

ORGY OF CRIME RESULTED FROM PROHIBITION

Today the Hearst Temperance Prize Contest discussions makes public the second of the astounding series of articles on prohibition and its enforcement by H. G. Sheldon, a pronounced "dry," of Providence, R. I.

It is probably the most illuminating single document published in the course of the contest on the almost inconceivable conditions which have resulted from efforts to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment through the provisions of the Volstead Act.

By H. G. SHELDON,
Former State Director of Prohibition Enforcement for Rhode Island

When after they looted the distilleries and warehouses in the earlier days, the rum fraternity looked for new fields to conquer, some wise one thought of smuggling by means of the now partly defunct rum fleet, and when this game was at its height, what a killing was made!

The orgy of crime through these operations will never be known. For every load seized coming in in violation of the law, 100 were never heard about.

Then a new crime was introduced. Counterfeit money was made outside the country and much inside of it, too, for bootleg purposes. The rum dealer bought "the queer" cheap—25 cents on the dollar. Armed with thousands of this worthless currency, he went to the fleet, bought his loads by the hundreds, yes, thousands of cases, and paid for it in the bogus currency.

Then entered graft, bribery and debauchery. Many of the officials "got theirs." Protection, real or assumed, was bought. For stipulated sums varying from $1 to $5 per case, goods were let through. A harvest was again reaped.

The advent of the coast patrol HAS reduced the imports to a great extent. But it could cut down three-fourths of what was coming in and the reduction would hardly be noticed in the general market.

The huge numbers of malt and hop shops in existence prove conclusively the extent of the amateur brewing business.

The synthetic booze produces more and quicker drunkenness and the ill effects are greater. And the host of speakeasies, kitchens bars and under cover places in existence is beyond even an approximate guess.

There is no control, no supervision, no regulation. Officials pass the buck, but do the best they can. A disgusted public doesn't give a hang if the illicit bars do run. They don't believe in the law as a whole and refuse to give assistance to the authorities.

They are breeding places of crime pertaining to rum running, hi-jacking, robbery and immorality. Those not in the police game know nothing, won't be told, and view the whole thing like the ostrich with its head hidden.

Building Unions Win Salary Raise

Springfield, April 25—Two motor unions, the carpenters and hoisting engineers, joined the number of building trades groups that have recently won wage increases in reponse to demands on employers. These two unions, like the numerous others, will receive 2½ cents per hour additional, bringing their hourly wage to $1.25, and only the date on which the schedule shall become effective remains to be determined.

FISHER TO SHOW RARE PORTRAIT IN LONDON

Detroit, April 25 (AP)—The Romney portrait of the Countess-Duchess of Sutherland, which has just been purchased by Lawrence P. Fisher of Detroit, may not come to Detroit for several months, it was learned today.

The Duke of Sutherland, from whom Mr. Fisher obtained the portrait after much controversy respecting the authenticity of a portrait of the countess-duchess purchased from A. L. Nicholson, a London art dealer, has asked leave to exhibit the painting for three months in the National Art Gallery in London.

The purchase from the Duke of Sutherland was made by Howard Young, New York art dealer, after he had refunded the purchase price of the Nicholson painting to Mr. Fisher.

The duke did not want to let the painting out of the family, but felt he owed it to the art world that this matter about the original purchase should be cleared up. More than anything else induced him to part with the painting.

Knights Planning for Minstrel Show

Bunker Hill Council, K. of C., are shaping plans for an old-fashioned minstrel show to be given in Eber Jordan Hall, High st., Charlestown, on the evenings of May 7, 8 and 9.

A cast of 200, under the direction of Frank McDermott, have been rehearsing for weeks in typical blackface comedy acts and novelty dances.

Past Grand Knight Howard V. Pedgate heads the committee. Assisting are Francis J. Tague, Dr. Joseph M. Blagdon and Past Grand Knight Henry F. Walsh.

"Singing Professor" of B. U. in Debut

The second "singing professor" at Boston University, to make his musical debut this year will be Gladstone Jackson of the School of Religious Education faculty. Indigestion Immediate Relief!

What most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. The food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude helps. Use what your doctor would advise.

The best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient.

One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in acid. The results are immediate, with no bad after-effects. Once you learn this fact, you will never deal with excess acid in the crude ways. Go learn—now—why this method is supreme.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

LINDBERGH CLUB EXPERT IN FIRST LESSON ON MODEL PLANE

GUIDE FOR PLANE BUILDERS

CAREFUL CONSTRUCTION OF PROPELLER EMPHASIZED AS MOST IMPORTANT

LESSON 1. HOW TO CARVE A PROPELLOR

By FRANK J. TONIS

(Model Aircraft Instructor and Demonstrator for Community Service of Boston)

The propellor is very important. A poor looking ship with a good propellor will very likely fly better than a good looking ship with a poor propellor. I remember one instance of a boy who made a good little plane, but his propellor was not good. The ship flew very poorly. However, when he put on a well-carved propellor—although it was a heavier one than the first—the little plane flew beautifully.

It is easy to make a good propellor, or "prop," if you follow the instructions carefully. Do each step in order and you will make good from the start.

A word of caution—balsa wood is soft and is different than any other wood you have used. So be careful when you start to whittle it. Cut chips rather than slices.

Now have your block, ruler, pencil and sharp knife ready? Then let's go!

(1) See that your block measures 7x1x1 inches.

(2) Carefully draw lines from corner to corner on both broad faces. These must be drawn accurately, and if so, they will meet 3½ inches from one end of the block. See Figure 1.

(3) Now draw on diagonal on one end, as in Figure 2. Draw one diagonal on the other and have it run in the opposite direction. Also draw parallel lines on each side of the center as in Figure 1. Do this on both faces.

(4) In Figure 3 the ends of the long lines is darker than the other. The opposite ends on the other side should be darkened—ink them and the end lines. The block now looks like Figure 1.

(5) Now cut away the wood outside the long diagonals until your block looks like Figure II. Make the central part a little more than ¼-inch thick.

(6) Now cut away the wood above the end diagonals and from one long diagonal to the opposite one on the bottom. The cut goes straight across from one side to the other. Cut the face flat and as close to the hub. The cut is from the dark diagonal to the other dark one. When you have cut all the wood off above these lines, finish these two faces with sandpaper. Follow them just a little about 1-32 of an inch is enough. The block now resembles Figure III.

(7) Turn the block over and cut away as much wood as you can from the other sides. The more props you make the more you will dare to cut. The blade should be less than 1-16 of an inch thick, the hub or center part being 1-16 inch thick. After cutting, sandpaper to finish.

(8) Now push a common pin straight through the hub at the point where the diagonal lines crossed. Be sure to do this carefully. Then round off the ends and balance the prop on the pin. If one blade is heavy and thick, sandpaper it until the prop is balanced.

(9) For extreme lightness, cut away a section of the hub, as shown by the dotted line in figure III. This part of the prop does not do much work and can be done away with.

(10) Make a loop in a piece of piano wire and push the straight end through the hole in the hub, as shown. The loop is on the first side carved—the hollow side. Now bend a square "U" on the free end and draw this into the wood and put a drop of ambroid on to secure it in place. A coat of ambroid on the hub is a good idea. The shaft should be long enough so that when finished the loop is one-half inch from the wood.

(11) The prop is now finished. However, the secret of real success here is practice. Make another and another. Never be satisfied. Try always to improve.

Tomorrow's lesson—No. 11— will be "How to make a 'Baby R. O. G.' part 1.

Material for building this Baby R. O. G. may be purchased at Community Service of Boston, Inc., 739 Boylston st., Boston, room 202; telephone Kenmore 3324 or 3353. Complete kits for building this Baby R. O. G. may be obtained for 50 cents.

LINDBERGH CLUB MEMBERS GUESTS OF THEATER

Lend us your ears, boys and girls of the Boston American Lindbergh Club!

We have a real surprise for you. You know we have been promising one for several days. Well, here it is:

The management of the magnificent $5,000,000 B. F. Keith Memorial Theater in Boston has asked every member of the American Lindbergh Club to be its guest at a show in this palatial theater.

Now isn't that really a wonderful treat. You know B. F. Keith's theater is a New England institution. It is noted for the high character of entertainment. The theater itself is the most magnificent structure of its kind in New England, if not in the world. To view its interior is a pleasure in itself.

We will start to mail tickets today. But on account of the large membership in the American Lindbergh Club it will be impossible for all to go to the show on the same day. You know we now have more than 49,000 members. So the tickets mailed to you will be good only on certain days. Be sure to look at the date on your ticket when you receive it, as it can only be used on any day except the one printed on it.

Another thing, when you present the ticket to the doorman at the theater be sure to have your Lindbergh button and your membership card. If you have only your card, or only your button, you won't be admitted. Remember this, boys and girls.

MORE SURPRISES LATER

Now the theater party is the first surprise for members of the American Lindbergh Club members—but not the last one. We have many more which will be announced only in the Boston Evening American, so watch the paper every day. You will never know what will be announced, nor when it will be announced. Don't lose a treat by failing to read the news of the American Lindbergh Club which appears every day in the American.

As we have told you many times, The Boston Evening American Lindbergh Club was originally organized to give the boys and girls of New England an opportunity of showing their appreciation of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh by the presentation of a wedding gift to him and his bride in Washington next June. The pennies which members send in as membership dues will be used to purchase this gift.

Another feature of the club is a chance to go to Washington and present this gift to Col. Lindbergh. The 12 boys and girls who write the best essays on "What Lindy Means to Me," will be given the chance to take this trip as guests of the American Lindbergh Club. Each child will be accompanied by a parent or guardian.

Still another feature of the Lindbergh Club is the chance to build real airplanes—airplanes that will fly, do stunts and all sorts of things. Frank J. Tonis, an expert in building model airplanes, has prepared a series of special articles for members of the club. He will tell you in a clear and simple way how to build a model airplane. His first article on the construction of a propeller appears in the Boston Evening American today. Don't miss out in this delightful sport. Read his articles every day. It is easy to make one of these model planes.

EASY TO BUILD

Any boy or girl following Tonis' instructions carefully can make a plane in a few hours that will fly around the room without difficulty. The more carefully you follow his instructions, the better and longer your plane will fly.

A model airplane meet in Boston on May 25 has been arranged by Community Service of Boston, Inc. The Boston Evening American Lindbergh Club will co-operate with Community Service of Boston, Inc., in making that meet a success. The members of the Club will be given an opportunity of flying their planes at that meet.

Prizes will be offered to the members whose planes remain in the air for the longest periods of time. These prizes will be offered for flights of the "Baby R. O. G." on which the first instruction on building is given today by Tonis. This model is the simplest to make.

It is our desire that every boy and girl who is a member of this club shall build at least one of these "Baby R. O. G." models. Do not despair at your first attempt if the plane does not work well. Try it again. You remember the old adage—"If at first you don't succeed"—well, follow the advice given in the adage. Build a second and a third plane if necessary.

Keep building planes until you have achieved the success that you wish for, and for the pleasure of watching your model plane circling around the room for a minute or two.

On Saturday morning, May 4, the preliminary meet of the Boston Evening American Lindbergh Club will take place for the purpose of giving a practical demonstration of how these little planes will fly. Many children who have already built toy planes will be present to show other boys and girls what they have done. They will fly their own planes.

In addition, Tonis will be present to answer questions relative to the construction of these planes.

Additional surprises in connection with the May 4 meet are being planned, and we will tell you about them in the Boston Evening American from day to day. Be sure to get the Boston Evening American every day so that you will not miss a thing. Take today, for instance, if you had not read the Boston Evening American you would not have learned about the wonderful treat which has been arranged with the management of the B. F. Keith's Theater. So bear it in mind. Get the American every day or you may miss something.

25,000 CARDS MAILED

More than 25,000 membership cards and buttons have been sent to members of the club, and more are going out in every mail. A large force of clerks is busy all day long trying to catch up. If you have not received your membership card and button, please be patient. We will do our utmost to get it to you quickly.

When you receive your membership cards, KEEP THEM. Do NOT send them back to us. Many children have already done that. The membership card is to be KEPT by the member after being signed. The card identifies him or her and is to be carried at all times. Wear the aristic red, white and blue club button on the lapel of your coat or on your blouse or dress, where it can be seen. You should be proud to be a member of this club.

When you show your card and button to your boy or girl friend, tell about the club and what it plans to do. Tell your friend that the dues are only a PENNY, and that the penny is to be used to help purchase a wedding gift for "Lindy" and his bride. This gift, a silver replica of the Spirit of St. Louis, in which the world renowned aviator flew from New York to Paris, is to be called "The Spirit of New England Boys and Girls."

A glance at today's Boston Evening American informs you that the names of hundreds additional children who have become members of the club appear in print. Today's list of names makes a total of nearly 25,000 that have been printed in this newspaper during the past week.

Glance at the list carefully. Does it contain YOUR name? If not, watch the Boston Evening American every day until you find it. It may be printed tomorrow. If not tomorrow, possibly the next day. We will print it some day and it is up to you to watch the list carefully and not miss it.

To become a candidate for the trip to Washington, D.C., as a member of the club, a boy of 12 boys and girls who are to present the wedding gift to "Lindy" on behalf of the club, all that is necessary is to write a letter containing 50 or more words on the subject "What Lindy Means to Me."

The letters will be divided into two groups—those written by Juniors, ranging from eight to 12 years, inclusive; and those written by Seniors, composed of children from 13 to 16 years, inclusive. They will be judged separately. The six best letters written by Juniors will be selected and the writers chosen for the trip to Washington. The six best letters written by Seniors will be chosen, with the same result.

If you are one of the 12 fortunate children picked for this trip, you will have the chance to see President Hoover. You will also see the original "Spirit of St. Louis," in which Col. Lindbergh made his flight from New York to France and you will visit the National House of Representatives and the United States Senate while in session.

Remember, every boy and every girl who is a member of this Club will have an equal chance to be selected for the trip to Washington.

This is a club of children in the six New England States between the ages of 8 and 18 years, formed for the purpose of interesting children in aviation and particularly in the supreme aviator, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

The club has been named after him, not for the purpose of exploiting his name, but because he represents to all, whether men, women or children, those ideals to which we should aspire, and because in him is personified courage, ability and supreme modesty.

Some members of the children's club will see Col. Lindbergh. Many of them never will, but all of them by being members of the club which bears his name will feel closer to him and should receive, and it is hoped will receive, the urge to pattern themselves after him and live up to the standards which he maintains.

Col. Lindbergh is not the creator of this club. Although he is not a member (none but children are active members) it is named for him because of the inspiration his name will bring to every child who is a member of it.

Address letters and membership coupons to "Editor, Boston Evening American Lindbergh Club, P. O. Box 185, Boston, Mass."

Postal Chief Stuck on Sticky Enigma: —Unsticky Stamps

Washington, April 25 (AP)—Postmaster-General Brown has his hands full of a sticky subject—the insufficiency of mucilage on the back of postage stamps.

Scores of complaints have reached the Postoffice Department that the stamps do not carry enough glue and after they have been moistened and placed on letters they literally jump off or are lost in transit, with the result that the letters are returned to the senders.

JEWS THRONG TEMPLES FOR PASSOVER

At sundown last night thousands of worshippers wended their ways to synagogues and temples to begin the festivities of the Passover. This is perhaps the most festive holiday in the Jewish calendar, celebrating the deliverance of Israel from Egyptian bondage, and marking the beginning of the solidification of the Jews into a great people.

The first service was observed last night, and showed a tendency to re-unite scattered families. For the next eight days, in all orthodox Jewish homes, and among conservative followers of the faith, matzoths will be eaten in place of leavened bread. Special sermons were given from all synagogues and temple pulpits this morning, along with prayers especially designed for the occasion.

Rabbi Harry Levi gave a sermon at Temple Israel, Commonwealth ave., and led a special musical program. Rabbi H. H. Rubenovitz preached at Temple Mishkan Tefilo, with Cantor I. Glickstein chanting the service, and the large Temple Mishkon choir participating.

Rabbi Samuel J. Abrams spoke in the Beacon Street Temple. Abraham Alpert, sponsor of the Kosher bill in the Massachusetts Legislature, explained this legislative act to several Boston pulpits. The Rev. Dr. Beth El in Roxbury conducted a public Passover seder last night.

Lindy to Fly as Long as He Can Drive Auto

New York, April 24 (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh told reporters he intended to be in New York for two weeks and that he would make one more trip across the country before July 1, the tentative opening date of the Transcontinental Air Transport route.

Lindbergh will fly as long as he can drive an automobile.

He was asked by reporters today whether he expected to taper off his flying as he grows older and assumes new responsibilities such as those of married life.

The colonel's reply was that an aviator skilled in youth can fly as long as he can drive a car, and he intended to do just that.

Some of the best pilots in service today are getting along in years," he said.

PENSACOLA IS LAUNCHED

New York, April 25 (AP)—Uncle Sam's newest cruiser, the Pensacola, was launched at the Brooklyn Navy Yard today.

Mrs. Josephine Knowles Seligman, a native of Pensacola, broke a bottle of spring water over her bows, exclaiming: "I christen thee Pensacola."

The Pensacola, 10,000 tons, is the largest ship to be launched at the Navy Yard since the war. Her ultimate cost will be $11,000,000. The Pensacola is 585 feet long, has a 85½ foot beam and a maximum draft of 19 feet. She can make 32½ knots. The vessel will be equipped with catapults for launching planes.

Called a "treaty" cruiser because of her relationship to that pact, the Salt Lake City, launched recently.

Fifteen Fined in Shoe Strike

Convicted on charges of saunter-ing and loitering in connection with the shoe strike in Boston, 16 members of the Shoe Workers' Union were fined $10 each in Roxbury court today. All appealed. Testimony was that they interfered with workers entering and leaving the Green Shoe Manufacturing Co. on Harrison ave.

Hungarian Gypsies Found in India

Budapest, April 25 (AP)—Two Hungarian tribes have been discovered in India by Stephen Gujard, archaeologist. He also found the ruins of an ancient palace with data indicating that Huns owned it. He believes the tribes are descendants of Magyar Nomads who went to Europe with Attila 1500 years ago.

BEERY'S TENOR WINS TALKIE CONTRACT

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Copyright, 1929, by Universal Service, Inc.

DETROIT, April 25—Who would have thought it of Wallace Beery—all these years he has been hiding a baritone voice out on us, and we knew him well—alas, poor Yorick? When he was at the Essanay Film Company, and we knew him well when he played hated comedy roles for Paramount.

And we hope to continue to know him well now that he has come out of his cocoon in real butterfly fashion to sing songs for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. To be more specific, Wallie has signed a long-term contract with M. G. M. and will do either a light operetta or a musical comedy talkie as his first.

Wallie's voice was cultivated on the stage some years after he was with a circus and some years before he joined the movies. Good luck to him, and we are glad he doesn't have to play comedy parts, since he hated them so thoroughly.

QUEEN Kelly," whose reign has been so disastrous to everyone concerned, from Gloria Swanson to the men who put their money into the production, has been definitely shelved. Every effort was made to resuscitate the picture, with new actors and new direction, but it has finally been given up as a hopeless task. In place of "Queen Kelly," Gloria will make "The Love Years," by Edmund Goulding, and under his direction. With $750,000 worth of "Queen Kelly" gone where the woodbine twineth, Gloria is naturally upset and worried—especially since it has been two years since "Sadie Thompson" made such a hit. She is leaving for New York with the Joseph Schenck party to take part in a merger which is slated for the first week in May.

THE radio did something for Jewel Carmen, in private life Mrs. Roland West. It gave her the chance to play one of the leading feminine roles in Roland West's next picture. Jewel appeared with her husband and Chester Morris in the radio performance of "Alibi" and her voice proved all that it should be, hence the new job with Chester Morris playing the leading male role. This is not the first time Jewel has appeared in her husband's plays. She played the principal role on the stage in "The Unknown Purple," as well as in the movie version of "The Bat."

THE stage buddy of Beatrice Lillie and Gertrude Lawrence, Jack Buchanan, who appeared with them in Charlot Revue both in England and America, has a date in Hollywood. He has been selected to play opposite Irene Bordoni in "Paris." The First National feels that it is quite a coup to have induced the good looking Buchanan to spend his summer so far from his usual haunts. But the stage actors are all eager to be among the first to have a try at the talkies.

FILE on the fan magazines and movie newspaper columns! Some of them published that Al Jolson had received over two million dollars worth of stock from Warner Brothers as a token of gratitude for his work in "The Singing Fool." Al, who is due in New York to join his bride, the former Ruby Keeler, before long, told one of the friends of this column that it was absolutely untrue and that he had bought every share of Warner stock that he owns. In fact, our informant says, Al was as upset about the perot as he was about the story circulated a few weeks ago to the effect that he and Ruby Keeler had had a little domestic upheaval. He will make two more for Warners—and then—oh, well, it might be Warners again, or Fox. Who else?

ANOTHER title gone wrong! Life in Hollywood these days is just one title changed after another, and you have to be a combination of Solomon and Einstein to know which picture is which. One of the most amusing examples of this epidemic is "The Woman Who Needed Killing." The title has been changed to "The Dangerous Woman," because some one at Paramount thought that the first title would give away the story. Now I ask you, can you hear it? This is the picture in which Baclanova, Neil Hamilton and Louise Brooks appear. Speaking of Neil Hamilton, he is now at Warner Brothers playing an important part in "Evidence," having been borrowed by Warners from Paramount.

PRETTY little Anita Murray, dark-haired daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Murray, is in Hollywood to stay. Anita would rather play in the movies than spend the winter season at Palm Beach or enjoy herself in New York. She has been signed on a contract by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to play small parts until she is groomed for bigger things. This word came to me direct from the film capital when Miss Murray and her mother have been spending the spring.

SNAPSHOTS of Hollywood collected at random by an observer: Buron Fitts, intrepid district attorney, lunching on the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot. Mary Doran wearing brown hair to change her blonde personality. Irving Berlin lunching on the Paramount lot with B. P. Schulberg and Al Kaufman. Jack Holt applauding Franklin Pangborn's work on the stage. Renee Adoree exhibiting her two new dogs to callers. Estelle Taylor taking a test. Lois Cowan reporting at Tiffany-Stahl for work on "Painted Faces." That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Her Hat in Air

PLAN RECORD TRY

Bobbie Trout, Los Angeles aviatrix, former holder of woman's endurance title, who plans to break new record set by Eleanor Smith.

MISS SMITH TO ATTEMPT HOP OVER ATLANTIC

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., April 25 (AP) — Having regained the women's endurance flight record, Elinor Smith, 17-year-old girl pilot, was planning today to challenge the Atlantic ocean in a flight to Rome.

Her mother told of plans for the transatlantic flight when Miss Smith brought her plane down after being in the air 26 hours, 23 minutes, breaking the record of Louise McPhetridge of Los Angeles by four hours and 18 minutes.

Miss Smith, in telling of her flight, said failure of a stabilizer to function required her to hold the plane on an even keel by the stick, but despite this she found time to read "Tom Sawyer Abroad" while the big monoplane wheeled over the Long Island airfields.

She said she stayed aloft after setting a new record to finish the book.

Bobbie Trout, 21, of Los Angeles, former holder of the record, today pledged herself to another attempt to regain the honor.

"That quits a flight Miss Smith made," Bobbie said. "We have to hand it to her."

Miss Trout disclosed that a new plane was under construction for her. She expects to fly it in two or three weeks.

Harvard-Radcliffe in Editorial Combat

New strife has developed between the students of Harvard and Radcliffe. In spite of the fact that the Harvard students, who were to have competed in the musical Marathon last week, withdrew, the Radcliffe Daily, the undergraduate paper of Radcliffe, in an editorial termed "Patriots All," lashed out at Harvard students for their part in the sitting contest, accusing them of resuming the antics of their prep school days.

And the Harvard Crimson, in turn, came back with an equally caustic article, pointing out for the benefit of the Radcliffe girls that no Harvard student competed in the affair, and adding a few rather uncomplimentary remarks for good measure.

BERLIN RAISES DISCOUNT RATE

Paris, April 25 (AP)—Severe French criticism of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, for his failure to take steps to prevent depletion of the bank's gold reserve led today, it was learned in responsible financial circles, to a raise of from 6½ to 7½ per cent in the Reichsbank's discount rate.

The French newspapers, voicing the views of responsible financiers, charged that Schacht was seeking to make the German economic situation appear precarious and unstable as justification for his plea for lower reparations.

This, it was said, he was able to do by refraining so long from a raise in the discount rate, which would have tended to check withdrawal of gold and foreign currency from the bank. This withdrawal recently had taken such proportions as even to threaten stability of the mark, and—under the transfer clause—make possible postponement of the Dawes plan reparations annuities.

Looks Fail to Save 'Dapper Dan' from Jail

Paterson, N. J., April 25 (AP)—"Dapper Dan" Collins, debonair confidence man, faces a three-year prison term today despite his good looks and the presence of eight women on the jury.

It was a petite 22-year-old school teacher who, as foreman of the jury, pronounced him guilty of conspiracy to swindle Thomas Weber, Egg Harbor City fruit grower, out of $30,000.

"His good looks swayed us neither one way nor the other," Miss Letitia Willett, the foreman, said after the trial.

Collins, immaculately dressed and possessing a jaunty air, was his own attorney and principal witness.

He denied he was a confidence man and said his occupation was that of "commission salesman," selling liquor, "anything you want."

"Dapper Dan" said he had been arrested "hundreds of times," here and abroad, and admitted several convictions. But these, he explained, were all cases in which he had been "framed." He asserted the present case was a frameup.

The dapper one said he had given Tombs prison as his address when arrested because he didn't want the police to rob his apartment. "They've done it before," he added.

"Detectives," he exclaimed scornfully, "they couldn't detect a horseshoe in a plate of hash."

Collins, who had been unable to raise $50,000 bail, was sent back to jail to await sentence.

Jail London Woman, Posing as "Colonel"

London, April 25 (AP)—Mrs. Irma Valeria Arkell-Smith, London's woman masquerader who for months passed as a "man about town" under the name of "Colonel Barker" was sentenced to nine months' imprisonment today on a charge of perjury in securing a false statement to be entered on the register of her marriage with another woman. The woman had pleaded guilty to the charge.

DAVIS IS NAMED PROSECUTOR

Concord, N. H., April 25—Ralph W. Davis, Manchester, N. H., lawyer, was officially named today as successor to Jeremy M. "Fighting Jerry" Waldron of Portsmouth, who has tendered his resignation as state attorney-general.

Governor Charles W. Tobey was prepared to submit his appointment of Atty. Davis to the governor's council for approval. Immediate confirmation by the council was expected.

Waldron requested that his resignation become effective when his successor qualified for office.

Increased private law practice in his home city was given as the reason for his retirement by Waldron. Several months ago he informed Governor Tobey of his desire to retire. At that time he consented to continue in office until the Legislature prorogued. The legislative session ended last week.

Waldron was appointed by former Governor John G. Winant in 1925. His term would have expired next February.

VETS BARE RING OF SWINDLERS

Equipped with filing systems, card indexes, maps and revised reports as to locations and favorable conditions, an organized band of panhandlers are exploiting the people of Massachusetts

Operating under the guise of disabled war veterans, the perpetrators of the fraud have gathered in thousands of dollars in the past year through the sale of paper flowers and through direct solicitation of funds purporting to be for the aid of men out of work and broken in body and mind through their participation in the World War.

It is declared by Dennis H. Haverty, adjutant of the State department of the American Legion, that if the solicitors sent out by the organization each fail to bring in $25 in a day it is considered poor business.

At a meeting called by Haverty to discuss the situation, he told Legion members that on Tuesday he was informed by the Disabled Ex-Servicemen's Exchange that some of the men "working" in the vicinity of Arlington and Boylston sts., near where the exchange is located, stated to passers-by that they represented the exchange.

Smugglers Rob, Desert Woman, 2 Children

St. Albans, Vt., April 25 (AP)—A story of the hardships endured by a mother and two small children who had entrusted themselves to alien smugglers to gain admittance to the United States was told to immigration officials today and resulted in the arrest of three members of a South Franklin family on charges of conspiracy to evade the immigration laws.

Mrs. Katy London of Montreal, who was taken from a train at Montpelier Junction, told officers she paid $400 to alien smugglers to have them take her and the children to her husband in Hartford, Ct., only to have them desert her after a week of hiding at a border farm while waiting a chance to slip by the immigration patrol.

She said she left Montreal with her two children and three men and another woman, who had also paid the smugglers to get them into the United States. Traveling at night over almost impassable roads, they reached the farm of Levi Gerow in South Franklin a week ago.

One of the members of the smuggling ring, she said, was captured by immigration officers while transporting the three alien men from the farm. The others were frightened, she continued, and took her and her children to Enosburg Falls and abandoned them.

By begging rides, she and the children reached Burlington, where they boarded a train for Hartford but fell into the hands of the authorities.

Immigration officers raided the Gerrow farm, where another alien woman was found hiding. Garrow, his wife and son were arrested. In jail they joined another son arrested last week.

VAST PROJECT FOR RUSSIA

Moscow, April 25 (AP)—A vast project, entailing a huge five-year industrialization program, was announced in detail before the all-Russian Communist conference sitting in the Kremlin today by M. Krijanovsky, president of the Soviet Union planning commission.

The announcement of the program which seeks to remake primitively agrarian Russia into an industrial super-state, stilled for the moment the opposition which had developed in the conference between the dominant Stalin group and the leaders of the so-called right wing.

"We must build the Ural-Siberian super-road, linking Kuznetsky coal with Ural metallurgy, and be able to throw Siberian grain into the central regions," he said. "We shall dig the Volga-Don channel and link Donets coal to the central industries.

"The great Balakhinsky power plant will get into full swing supplying cheap electricity. The Don basin production must double. In central Russia we will build a gigantic automobile plant. We shall invest a billion rubles in Leningrad industries."

GIANT AIRPLANE LEAVES HUB

The giant 10-passenger Sikorsky amphibian plane, which arrived at the East Boston airport after a battle with headwinds from Portland, Me., will depart this morning for Providence.

Passengers in the plane were J. C. Stein, K. A. Rothermel, J. H. Berry, H. J. Reynolds, S. M. Morey, Arthur Waldron and J. H. Blythe, officials of the Pan-American Petroleum Corp. This was the second stop in an inspection tour of the New England interests of the company.

The flight, or inspection tour, is being made for the purpose of a survey of New England cities, preparatory to establishment of an aviation base for the company in this area.

The crew of the ship—C. D. Kirkeby, chief pilot; W. B. Murphy, second pilot, and J. J. Maloney, mechanic—were formerly connected with the United States naval aviation.

The plane, which has a top speed of 130 miles an hour, with a cruising speed of 115 miles an hour, is superior in several ways to the slightly older type used by Col. Lindbergh on his flight to the Panama Canal Zone.

20 Guests Carried Out in Hotel Fire

Hartford, Ct., April 25 (AP)—Several persons were injured and overcome by smoke and about 20 guests were carried from the New Bond Hotel by police and firemen when a smoky fire broke out in the cellar of the hotel early today. Adolph H. Bargmann and A. L. Kempt were treated in local hospitals, but were able to leave these institutions later. Bargmann's hands were lacerated when he slid to the ground from the fourth floor on a life rope.

Names Lenox Man in Will

New York, April 25—Various bequests to persons and institutions in New England were made in the will of Helen L. Alexandre of Park ave., daughter of a former president of the College of the City of New York, which was filed here.

James "Wittenham of Lenox, Mass., an employe, was left a life estate in $25,000. The House of Mercy, Pittsfield, Mass., $2000; Trinity Church, Lenox, Mass., $2000, and Civilise Alexandre Schenck of Boston, a daughter, $20,000. Mrs. Schenck and two other daughters, who live in New York, were left the residuary estate.

Offers Reward in Vandals Arrest

Mayor Thomas J. Magrath of Quincy offered $100 reward for any information leading to the arrest and conviction of vandals who, during the past two weeks have caused property damage throughout Quincy. Orders to the police to bring a halt to the vandalism has also been issued, being read throughout the police department last night at roll call.

Chapman Heads Class at Suffolk Law

Penal Institutions Commissioner Philip A. Chapman was elected president of the Suffolk Law School class of 1930 by his classmates at the school.

James A. Glynn of Dorchester was elected vice-president; Edward G. Doyle of Woburn, secretary, and George A. Murray of South Boston, treasurer.

Fails to Form Cabinet

Vienna, April 24 (AP)—The chancellorship of Austria again went abegging today. Prof. Johann Mittelberger, a financial expert, who had been deputized by the Christian Socialists to select a Cabinet, confessed his inability to create a new government.

British Record Plane Flies Over Bagdad

London, April 25 (Ins)—The great Royal Air Force Fairey-Napier monoplane, which hopped off at Cranwell airdrome, yesterday, for Bangalore, India, in an attempt to break the present long-distance and duration records, flew over Bagdad, Mesopotamia, at 12:50 p. m. today, Greenwich mean time, the air ministry announced.

ONLY FIVE DAYS MORE!

ONLY five days remain before the close of the Hearst $25,000 Temperance Prize Contest, which ends at midnight, Tuesday, April 30. No plans postmarked after that hour will be considered by the board of seven eminent American citizens who are to be judges of the entries.

Entrants in the competition who have not yet sent in their plans, or who have yet to complete them, are urged to send them in now, to facilitate the labors of the Temperance Contest Committee and to advance the date when the winners of the contest can be made known. There still will be weeks of work after the last plan has been received and read, before the entries can be rated by the judges.

Read the rules, study the requirements as you view them, and mail the result to the Temperance Contest Committee, in care of the Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston.

GIBRALTAR IS NEXT PORT OF PILGRIMS

By ELIAS McQUAID
Boston Evening American Correspondent

On Board the S. S. Presidente Wilson, April 25 (by radio)—With hospitable Ponta Delgada, still the picturesque Azores far astern, the big liner bearing Cardinal O'Connell's Rome-bound party of pilgrims was once more out of sight of land today.

Gibraltar, the next port of call, is not to be reached until Saturday. An unbroken horizon line of sea and sky surrounded the Presidente Wilson this morning, the routine of shipboard existence was resumed, and the American travelers, having attended the usual religious services, busied themselves with deck games reading and lectures.

Under the direction of the Rt. Rev. Mgr. Splaine, there were scheduled several educational talks on the points of interest soon to be seen.

The weather continued fine with comfortable temperature and only a mild swell. Seasickness was practically non-existent.

The cardinal's party left the Azores regretfully, having greatly enjoyed the five-hour stopover at Ponta Delgada. Cardinal O'Connell, himself, remained on the ship attending to correspondence. Women of the party were today occupied in comparing purchases made at the island port. Baskets, lace, knick-knacks and small articles of clothing were the articles most commonly acquired.

SAY GOVERNOR HELD HULA HULA GIRL IN LAP

Baton Rouge, La., April 25 (AP)—Gov. Huey P. Long, played up in the evidence as "frisky with a woman on a settee" at a Frenchtown studio party in New Orleans had ended his state-wide speaking tour today with a final rebuke of the Standard Oil Company.

The Senate is ready to try him on seven charges of impeachment—two alleging bribery and intimidation and five misapplication of State funds.

The House took a spirited plunge into a hula hula entertainment for the governor given by Col. Danziger, president of the New Orleans Association of Commerce, during last Mardi Gras. Testimony by witnesses at the party in Mr. Danziger's studio-theater conflicted only in minor details. A good time was had by all. Drinks were served and the hula hula dancer, who performed bare-footed and in a straw skirt, testified she sat in the governor's lap with the official arm around her neck.

The evidence was admitted under the count charging Long with gross misconduct in public places.

Mr. Danziger preceded on the stand Helen Clifford, the hula entertainer. There was no attempt to shield the drinks. His party, he said, was attended by only the first people.

SEEK SUICIDE DOCTOR'S WIFE

Police and City Hospital authorities are trying to find the wife of Dr. Harold L. Wallace, retired physician who ended his life early today by leaping from his bedroom window on the third floor of 368 Quincy st., Dorchester.

The body was found on the pavement by Herbert Deis of 30 Harry st.

Mr. and Mrs. William Murphy with whom the doctor lived, said he had been acting queerly and today was to have been removed to the Psychopathic Hospital for observation. He suffered a nervous breakdown two years ago.

Baby Saved From Death in Spot Pond

Little Anna May Morrisey, two-year-old daughter of Mrs. Grace E. Morrisey, of 25 Ripley st., Malden, may not be old enough to realize it, but today she can thank a 15-year-old Malden high school youth and a Malden police sergeant for her life.

Prompt action of this pair resulted in a thrilling rescue of the youngster from drowning in Spot Pond brook, near Ripley st.

The high school hero is James Powers, 45 Ripley st., a student at the Junior high school. The sergeant is Uhler A. Gray.

Baby Stabbed by Maid, Inquest Finds

May Verdon, 19, a maid in a Fairmount st., Brookline, home, stabbed to death her day-old infant, according to a report of an inquest filed today at Dedham Superior Court by Judge Rollins. She was arraigned in Brookline court on a murder charge, but made no plea, and was remanded to Dedham jail without bail when a continuance was granted at the request of counsel.

Five-Year Lease

Lawrence, April 25 — Alderman John A. Flanagan announced today that a new five-year lease has been granted the United States Postal Department for the use of the room in the basement of City Hall as a postal sub-station.

S. S. COLUMBUS SETS RECORD

Of all the passenger steamers on the North Atlantic, the S. S. Columbus has carried the highest average number of passengers per voyage from Europe to the United States during 1928.

The average number for the Columbus is 1348 persons per voyage. The second highest steamer is the Berengaria with 1314 passengers. The third place was taken by the Leviathan with 1288 persons. The Majestic, which is at the present time the largest steamer in the world, took fourth place, with 1254 passengers.

The Columbus is the smallest of the four steamers mentioned as it is the flagship of the North German Lloyd and will soon be withdrawn from the North Atlantic service for the installation of new engines. After repairs the steamer will be able to make the voyage from New York to Bremen in seven days instead of nine.

The Columbus will return to the transatlantic service during the latter part of 1929.

Hydrant Parking Legal in Worcester

Worcester, April 25—Police will make no complaints against motorists parking beside hydrants and white trolley poles because of the discovery that these two traffic offenses are not listed in the last published list of regulations.

A new book containing these rules is now in the hands of the printers. Meanwhile the police will handle the situation by ordering motorists to move their cars when ever parked too close to a hydrant or white pole. Under the State laws a driver must move his vehicle as directed by an officer in uniform.

Chiropractic Bill Killed in Senate

Chiropractic remains illegal in the State of Massachusetts as a vote of 12 to 18 in the State Senate has refused to pass a law providing for the licensing of chiropractors after a special examination by a State board appointed for the purpose.

The opponents scoffed at the Sen. Robert E. Hignev of Boston declaring that "you might as well license bootleggers who are not selling liquor legally."

Probation for Old People's Home Head

Judge Nelson P. Brown in Norfolk Superior Court at Dedham, placed on probation Mrs. Helen L. Cooper, former head of the Cooper Homestead in Dedham, which closed its doors last December. Charged with larceny, Mrs. Cooper pleaded polo, and was given the probation sentence after Asst. Dist. Atty. Edmund R. Dewing told the court that he would be unable to show criminal intent.

12 Buildings Razed in $300,000 Fire

St John's N. F., April 25 Twelve buildings in the business section of Carbonear a town of 3800 inhabitants on Conception Bay, were destroyed by fire, with an estimated loss of $300,000.

Something in a Name; Each Famed Quarto Holds a Quart

Chicago, April 25—Beautiful Shakespeare quartos, Dante's "Inferno" in old calf, Addison's works in imperial folio graced the shelves of the Lasalle Book Shop. The biggest business was done in the octavos, which included all the modern novels. When prohibition agents learned some purchasers could not read they raided the shop for bookworms.

They discovered all the works had been stripped from the binding, which made the most unsuspicious of packages. Deputy marshals carried Byron, Burns and Moore's poems to the federal building. Byron contained two pints, the others one pint each.

FEAR MAN DEAD; DRAG 2 PONDS

Ayer, April 25—Grove pond and Plow pond are being dragged today in the fear that Angelo Frasca of this town has lost his life in one of them. The clothing of the man has been found on the shores of Grove pond.

The clothing was found near a culvert running under the railroad tracks, a quarter-mile toward Worcester from the Ayer station. The railroad separates Plow pond from Grove pond, except where the two ponds are connected by the culvert. The clothing, which consisted of a hat, coat, sweater and pair of gloves, was found neatly folded at the base of the railroad embankment, by George Craig of Ayer.

Child Hit by Truck 166 Hours in Coma

Worcester, April 25—Physicians at City Hospital were baffled today by the condition of three-year-old Lorraine Cournoyer of 26 Lunelle st., who has been in a coma for 166 hours, since being hit by a truck on the afternoon of April 18. She suffered a fractured skull.

The child was knocked down at Lamartine and Hermon sts. by a five-ton truck operated by Frank H. Desmond of Boston. He told the police the wheels did not touch her, although the machine passed over her.

Pawtucket Woman to Wed Minister, 67

Pawtucket, April 25—Miss Edna Rosina Snelling, 53, of Anthony ave., and Rev. Dr. Herman William Watjen of Newport, N. H., pastor of the Warren Baptist Church for 33 years, and until recently pastor of the Newport, N. H., First Baptist Church, are to be married Saturday.

Intentions of the couple were filed at City Hall. Dr. Watjen is 67 and Miss Snelling 53. They will make their home in Pawtucket.

Drowned Boy Is Identified by Father

The body of the boy who was found yesterday in the waters of Charles river, near Faneuil depot in Brighton was identified as that of James O'Connor. The body was identified by his father at the Northern Mortuary, after the parents feare for the child's safety led him to the morgue.

BIG BUSINESS HELPS WORLD, SAYS FILENE

Big business, under modern conditions, must inevitably be beneficient, and mass production is making a better world, according to Edward A. Filene.

Answering the critics of American industrial life who see social dangers in the mass methods of machine civilization, Mr. Filene in an article in the Atlantic Monthly maintains that for the first time in history business leaders have come to see that their own prosperity has come only through the prosperity of the masses.

"I have studied mass production in all of its aspects since its inception and watched its development," says Mr. Filene. "Today big business has as its aim the lowering of costs and prices through large-volume production and sales."

Mr. Filene answers the main objections raised against modern mass methods of production and distribution and denies the allegations, giving his reasons for so doing.

His admits that temporary unemployment may be caused by the application of labor-saving devices and methods but he asserts that by reducing prices and increasing wages mass production has increased the purchasing power of every citizen.

PORTO RICO JOB FOR SLEMP

Washington, April 25 (INS)—C Rascom Slemp of Virginia, one of the foremost Republican factors in the erstwhile "Solid South," is slated to be governor of Porto Rico under the Hoover administration, according to reports.

Slemp is said to have found favor in the eyes of President Hoover and to have the backing of Secretary of War Good.

Horace M. Towner of Iowa, governor of Porto Rico, has resigned.

RAINS ADD TO PERIL OF 4000

Quincy, Ill., April 25 (AP)—The homes of 4000 persons and the safety of over $4,000,000 worth of property lay at the mercy of the Mississippi river today as the prospect's of compassion from the mighty river seemed slight.

Rain poured last night into the rivers to the north of Iowa, Illinois and Missouri after heavy showers the day before had caused a six-inch rise at Keokuk, and the government reservoir here said the river would unquestionably rise again.

A sensation was caused in the flood region by the statement that danger faced the Sni drainage district, just below the now flooded South Quincy tract. The Sni area, heretofore believed entirely safe, comprises 110,000 acres and is said to be the largest drainage district in the world protected by a single levee. Approximately 600 families live there.

Veteran flood observers said a break in the Sni dikes would cause $3,000,000 damage.

Girl Wins $5000 for Broken Nose

Springfield, April 25—Miss Irene O'Connell of this city was awarded a verdict of $5000 for a fractured nose suffered Jan. 27, 1927 when she was struck by a hockey stick during a game between the Springfield and Boston clubs of the Canadian-American League.

Miss O'Connell brought suits for $10000 each against the Springfield Ice Rink, Inc., and the New York Rangers' Professional Hockey Club Inc., but under the law can collect only the full amount of one of the $5000 verdicts.

Police Seek Missing Distillery Equipment

Woonsocket, R. I., April 25—Copper coils pipe and other part of a huge still seized by federal prohibition agents at the old Cherrybrook Mill in December, 1927 are being sought by police. The distilling apparatus was stolen, police say. Recently it was discovered that some of the most valuable parts of the apparatus were missing, and United States Marshal Howard C. Arnold came here from Providence today to make an investigation.

Survey Auto Traffic on Cottage Farm Bridge

In an attempt to check up on the number of cars which pass in either direction over Cottage Farm bridge and the direction from which they come, a survey is being made this week at the Cambridge end of the bridge. It is believed that this survey may be the result of the Storrow bill, recently introduced in the legislature, authorizing the filling in of parts of the Charles river.

The survey, which began last Sunday and will end Saturday night, is conducted by two Cambridge traffic officers, two Metropolitan police officers, two officers of the state constabulary and several civilian checkers. The civilians make their observations from the window of a factory directly opposite the end of the bridge armed with stop watches and mechanical clocks, while the police officers are stationed along Memorial Drive.

BEER CHOICE OF AMERICANS ON LEVIATHAN

By BARRY FARIS,
General News Manager, International News Service.
(Copyright, 1929, International News Service.)

On Board the S. S. Leviathan, April 25—The preference of American at least insofar as the Leviathan passengers are representative Americans, for beer over hard liquors, and even wines, has been amply demonstrated on this voyage, the first westward journey of this vessel since 1923, when beer wines and liquors have been sold to passengers.

The beer supply on the ship has been completely exhausted, while orders for wines and liquors have been very light.

The first realization of the dent which had been made in the supply of lighter alcoholic beverages came when the dining stewards announced that the beer supply had been exhausted, with the ship still more than 36 hours out of New York.

Maybe that is why there has been so little wine drinking. This crowd is one of beer drinkers," one dining steward remarked.

The smoking room is still getting a light play from passengers but it was noticed that there was some increase in the number of orders of wine after the beer supply had been consumed.

SINCLAIR GIVES UP HOPE; ALL SET FOR JAIL

Washington, April 25 (INS)—Harry F. Sinclair, multi-million aire oil magnate, has abandoned all hope of escaping the jail sentence of 90 days imposed for contempt of the Senate, and is preparing to come to Washington to give himself up before May 4, it was reported today.

The Supreme Court, Monday declined to grant a rehearing, thus closing the last door but one, a presidential pardon, which President Hoover has no intention of granting.

Arrangements are being made by Sinclair's agents for his term in jail at Occoquan, the country work house in Virginia.

A suite of rooms has been rented in a fashionable hotel where Sinclair had a whole floor during his conspiracy trial. It was reported negotiations are under way for the lease of a house on Dupont Circle for his family during the three month period.

SPEED WORK ON FLAG CONTEST MEDALS

Every effort is being made by the United States Flag Association to forward the "Old Glory" medals to the supervising heads of contest units participating in the great patriotic Flag Contest.

The Flag Contest Editor of the Boston Evening American, which is the sponsoring newspaper, will endeavor to rush the medals in time for contest units who are planning to hold public exercises during the coming week.

As heretofore explained, a delay by the manufacturer of the medals, has naturally caused a corresponding delay, not only in the New England area, but throughout the United States.

In the meantime the supervising heads of units could continue with the assembling of applications from the respective posts. The work should go on as no dates will for public exercises until the week of the medals.

The Flag Contest Editor refers paragraphs 23, 24 and 25 to the attention of the heads of local units. These paragraphs are taken from the regulations governing the Flag Contest and in case they have been overlooked, are as follows:

Par. 23. SCHOOL ORGANIZATION OR LOCAL FLAG CHAMPIONS. The boys and girls awarded the Old Glory Medal are designated as "School Organization of Locall Flag Champions," and will represent their respective schools or organizations in the Regional Contest.

Par. 24. REPORT OF AWARDS TO LOCAL FLAG CHAMPIONS. The head of every Local Flag Contest Unit will be charged with the preparation of the Report of Awards to Local Flag Champions (Form No. 1). This report is submitted in duplicate to the Regional Sponsoring Newspaper.

Par. 25. FORWARDING CONTEST PAPERS AND REPORT OF AWARDS. Within 48 hours after the announcement of the awards (Par 24) the papers of the winners, accompanied by the Report of Awards to Local Flag Champions, must be mailed to the Regional Sponsoring newspaper by the head of the Contest Unit.

The LADY KILLER
SIX-DAY NOVEL

by Robert Terry Shannon

Thrilling 6-Day Novel by Noted Author

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Peter Blair, down and out in New York, takes a job as chauffeur for Madelon Dillon. Sam Hoffman, Miss Dillon's rich friend, objects to Peter, but finally she and Sam leave for Atlantic City. Peter is told to use the car. Steve Howatt, an ex-convict, badly wounded, asks Peter to deliver $10,000 to a fellow prisoner, Big George Kelly, in an up-state town. Steve thinks he'd dying, and wants to reward Kelly for kindness. When Peter mentions Steve's name to Kelly, the latter reviles him. Peter keeps the money and falls in love with Arline Forrest, who works in Kelly's office. He takes her motoring and expresses interest in her.

He meets Lucille West, who shows her admiration for him openly. At a party he fights with Kelly, and later tells Arline her employer's past history, begging her to have nothing more to do with him.

Arline refuses him. He is heartbroken. He becomes one of a wild party with Lucille

CHAPTER 4

LUCILLE WEST had thrown off her light wrap and, in a sleeveless dress of gold-colored silk walked behind Wayne Carter and Genevieve Geddon, who led the way to the table at the inn. Peter's heart quickened with a tremor of possessive pride in the golden charm of her good looks, the sinuous carriage of her slim, symmetrical body.

"It will simplify matters a lot," Carter told his guests, "if we take Joe's tip and stick to the rye all evening. The other stuff they have is apt to be rotten."

"I've got to start passing up the drinks from now on," Peter decided later in the evening as they danced. "They're coming too fast for me."

Lucille's weight in his arms seemed to increase, and he had a feeling that he was actually half carrying her through the dance.

The color in her face seemed to be fading out, and Peter led Lucille out of the room. They were at the foot of the stairs leading upwards.

"Let's go up to the roof," Lucille said wanly.

He picked her up in his arms and she clung around his neck.

A door was ahead of them, and Peter pushed it open; there was no light. An outside window let in enough light to make objects barely discernable. What seemed to be a couch was beneath the open window where a cool breeze came in. Peter carried Lucille to the couch and deposited her gently. "Just as good as the roof," he told her. "You'll feel all right pretty soon. I'll go downstairs and get water."

It took him a long time to get the water.

Lucille sipped some of the water and he set the glass aside. "I don't want to go back downstairs," she told him softly. "It's so still and pleasant here, Peter. Couldn't we just stay here, the two of us!"

"We certainly can," he declared.

She reached out her hand to him and he held it between both his palms.

Peter got up from the side of the couch and found a chair nearby; to sit in it and lean back was a relief . . . he had not realized how tired he was. Before he knew it he was fast asleep. He woke choking—the room was filled with smoke, was hot!

Beyond the door was the unmistakable crackling of burning wood.

He shook Lucille.

"Peter!" She was in an instant fully awake, immediately aware of danger. "What is it—what's happened?"

"Don't get excited, dear," he said soothingly. "There seems to be some sort of fire below, but we'll get out all right."

Lucille had not finished the glass of water he had brought her. Jerking out his handkerchief he soaked it thoroughly, made it into a bandage and tied it over her nose.

He seized the hem of her silk dress and ripped off a piece which he moistened and tied around his own nose.

Picking Lucille up in his arms he heard her murmur: "God bless you." Then—

The heat suddenly was almost too intense to be borne, but he pressed on and came to the head of the stairs; the balustrade was burning, and smoke was pouring from the fissures of the steps.

By some trick of Fate the stairs leading to the first floor were still standing and unburnt, although the fire was all round them. He rushed down

His weight, collapsing against the door, carried him outward and he fell on the porch. Once more he struggled, half rising, dragging Lucille West down a short flight of porch steps on to the grass.

Peter knew no more. . . .

A girl in a nurse's uniform came to the bed and smiled at him.

"Well, how do you feel by now, Mr. Blair?"

His first words sprang from his subconscious. "Where's Lucille?"

"The girl! Oh, she's safe at home. She didn't suffer much at all. You got all the worst of it, but it's not serious. You'll probably have to stay in bed for some time, though. There's a Miss Forrest to see you."

"Please ask Miss Forrest to come in."

"Oh, Peter—why—why—did you do it!"

His own throat choked. "I know I shouldn't have gone—"

"You went out there and drank?"

"Yes."

"You might have been killed in that fire! When I see you lying here so—so—"

Arline Forrest could not finish what she was trying to say; her voice broke, she dropped into a chair beside the bed and buried her face in the covers.

"Arline — Arline — tell me—is it too late forever for us to—"

"Hush! That's been settled, Peter dear. Let's not bring it all up again."

The nurse came into the room.

"You have another caller, Mr. Blair. Shall I ask her to wait?"

"Who is it?"

"Miss Madelon Dillon."

"I think I had better go." Arline Forrest said resolutely

"Don't go," Peter said weakly. "It was worth all I went through just to see you again. . . ."

"No." Arline got to her feet. "I'm going, Peter. I just had to see you."

"I'll ask Miss Dillon to come

SAYS ELDRIDGE DID NOT VISIT WOMAN

Grief and Want Grip Dorchester Couple

STORK NEAR TWO SONS LIE DEAD

The lean hands of Poverty and Sorrow were clasped today about a Dorchester home, where Edward Griswold, his wife and a hovering stork wait shrouded in the dull hopelessness of despair.

Two others wait there for burial. The couple's four and six-year-old sons who died Tuesday night beneath the wheels of a truck, clutching pennies—last pennies—given by a parent who had no more to give.

"The kids had little enough. Tuesday night I gave them some peanuts and the pennies to spend. They started for the store and met death."

Edward Griswold tells it in low voice, dispassionately, without emphasis. A mason and plasterer by trade, he has taken a day's work at whatever offered for the last 18 months in a fight to keep his family together.

And he might have won had Death not stepped between them.

There is little food and no electric current in the Griswold home, 1280 Dorchester ave. The priests of St. Peter's are doing their best, but the burden is a heavy one. Money is needed for two lives deep in sorrow and one yet to be born.

Tomorrow Warren and Arthur Griswold will be buried from the undertaking parlors of Joseph Farrell. Then what——?.

FUMES DRIVE 15 FROM SHOP

Fumes from a broken carboy of ammonia drove 15 employes of the framing department of the Sprague-Hathaway Mfg. Co., 58 Day st., Somerville, to the street today.

The fumes filled the first floor and basement of the plant but did not penetrate to the other departments where 90 other men and women were at work.

Firemen called on a still alarm donned gas masks and cleared the building of fumes within a half hour.

Finds Exhausted Carrier Pigeon

Apparently weakened from a long flight a carrier pigeon, in near-exhaustion condition, alighted today on the lawn at the home of Howard Eagles, at 682 Boylston st., Newton Centre. On examination by Mr. Eagles, who picked up the pigeon he noted a band on one of the bird's legs, marked "A. 27-28-OCH-51." One of the bird's wings showed marks of being injured

JANITOR IS ELDRIDGE WITNESS

David Kurtzpert of Brighton st., West End, former janitor at a Mountfort st., Back Bay, apartment house, testified in Middlesex Probate Court today that the man pointed out to him as Joseph L. Eldridge never visited Mrs Edna Smith, named by Mrs. Helen L. Eldridge, Newton society matron.

Kurtzpert was the first witness called for Eldridge in the hearing today of the cross divorces actions of him and his wife.

The witness said he was janitor there for ten months, starting in August, 1927. Mrs. Smith, he said occupied suite 7 with Philip Sadler, her brother, for three or four months.

Kurtzpert said he was summoned last March by M. F. Jacobson, investigator for Mrs. Eldridge, and asked to point out Eldridge. He said he could not see the man he knew as Eldridge.

Questioned by Atty. William Hirsh for Eldridge, he said Jacobson asked him if he recognized Eldridge in court. The investigator then pointed to a man and asked if he could be were Eldridge Kurtzpert said it was not the man he knew as Eldridge and that the man in question, understood to be the Boston insurance broker, had never visited Mrs. Smith.

Under cross-examination, Kurtzpert admitted his brai ntroubled him as a result of an accident in March, 1928, that he was still under treatment and had visited a hospital before going to court today.

Anna Holmes White, opera orchestra manager, was recalled and Attorney Hirsh produced correspondence he had with her. She was formerly employed at the Eldridge home.

In one letter the witness asked Eldridge to send her a summons as she wanted "a graceful way" of leaving her orchestra, then in the west, and she would be glad to assist him.

"If you told me the charges against you were true,' she wrote, "I should say you were unsettled in your mind temporarily'

The Curious Quizzer

Every day he asks a question and pictures those questioned.

THE QUESTION

Do you think that girl graduates should be allowed to choose their own dress, as suggested at Wellesley, or should uniform dress be required?

PAUL SEGEL, 75 Holworthy st., Roxbury — Why should a graduating class of girls be required to dress alike when they are stepping out into life and need every bit of individuality they possess in order to get anywhere? I think the suggestion that they choose their own clothes is very sensible.

Gertrude Anderson, 8 Cliff st., Roxbury—I think girls graduating from college should follow the custom of the past and dress alike. It is inspiring to see a group of girls who are smart and at the same time uniform in their dress. Uniformity in dress, that important function in a girl's life is necessary, and if it wasn't, it wouldn't have been observed for so long

JAMES SODKSON, 73 Holworthy st., Roxbury—Girls should be allowed to choose their own clothing at their graduation because it is an unnecessary expense to require them to buy uniform clothing for the exercises. That reason alone should be answer enough and I think the Wellesley girls are showing a lot of common sense in starting a movement to make it the regular thing at their graduation There should be no argument about the question, because it is in keeping with the advancing world to show independence in this manner. I hope the Wellesley girls are successful.

Gertrude McEachern, 149 Warren st., Roxbury—Girl graduates should wear uniform clothes regardless of what some people think. I can't see why the customs of the past aren't good enough for the present, and fail to agree with the Wellesley girls in their movement to let each girl choose her own clothes. We have been afflicted with too many new fads by college girls, and I hope this new idea will not get far. To be frank, I think that it should be the rule of the colleges that their graduates be required to dress uniformly. Such a rule would put a stop to all talk about the girls breaking away from tradition

Complaints Dismissed

Complaints against Harry R. King, former proprietor of a Governor sq. cafe, by Kaki De Vere and Theodora De Vera, dancers, for non-payment of wages, were dismissed in Roxbury Court today when it was reported that payment had been made.

FATHER SHOOTS SON AS HEN THIEF BY MISTAKE

Providence, April 25—Chicken thieves have been a source of annoyance to Joseph Barrette of Warwick, so he decided to go gunning for them in an all-night vigil

Watchful waiting brought results. The poultry farmer, who suffers from deafness, saw a blurred form approach the chicken house and he blazed away. A window was shattered and there was a shriek he did not hear.

A few minutes later he learned he had put a bullet into the skull of his own son, Stanley, 24, who had gone to the hen house to relieve his father. Physicians say the youth has a chance of recovery.

So while Coward originated "arch support shoes" as they are known today, Coward is one of very few stores that actually maintain "arch support service". Only Coward Shoes are built in three arch elevations—high, low and medium—so only Coward's can be fitted with absolute accuracy.

Coward maintains the largest range of styles, widths and sizes of any shoe store in the world. The two-strap arch support modes shown here, for instance, can be had in sizes from 2½ to 10, AAAAAA to E.

Dutch Liner Receives Royal Welcome Here

One of the most royal greetings ever extended a transatlantic liner was accorded the new S.S Statendam, newly inaugurated flagship of the Holland-American Line. The new "Queen of the Spotless Fleet," the most luxuriously appointed ship sailing under the flag of Holland, arrived in New York on her maiden trip Friday, April 19.

ARMY OF CHEFS FOR NEW HOTEL

Toronto, April 25—A veritable "army in white," will compose the culinary staff of the new Canadian Pacific hotel, the Royal York, when it opens here in June, according to Chef Joseph Cherrier today during a lull in his dealings with the corps of cookery experts seeking positions. About 125 culinary wizards will function under Monsieur Cherrier's tutelage when the Royal York starts activity.

As Chef Joseph puts it himself "Diet largely decides the progress and destiny of nations." So that a chef's burden becomes greater than most people would imagine.

Although the Royal York kitchens are still a maelstrom of pots and pans, electric ranges and so on, a few weeks from now the chef hopes to have his little army on parade.

Fry cooks, vegetable cooks, roast cooks, cold meat preparers, pastry magicians, ice cream concocters, bakers, grill chefs, salad makers, sandwich fillers and oyster men are being trained to prepare the food, which in M. Cherrier's view is the pivot "upon which the world turns round."

Concord Observes Fast Before Time

Concord, N. H., April 25—Departing from the custom of past years, the annual community Fast Day religious service was held on the eve of the New Hampshire holiday. The proclamation of Governor Charles W. Tobey was read, music was furnished by a male chorus directed by Herbert W. Rainie, various parts of the service were taken by local pastors, and the sermon for the occasion was preached by Rev. Dr. Boynton Merrill, minister of the Second Congregational Church, Newton, Mass.

SPEED, ACCURACY, INTEREST — NEWS THE DAY IT HAPPENS

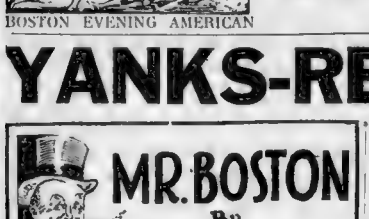
YANKS-RED SOX GAME IS POSTPONED



MR. BOSTON sat with Bob Quinn in one of the boxes on the third base side of the grandstand at Fenway Park as the Red Sox were going through their batting drill before the second game of their series with the Yankees.

"I came down here to get the sun," said Quinn. "It feels good to get a little warm sunshine after so much rain and cold weather."

"Who's that bird pitching to the batters?" asked Mr. Boston.

"I don't know his name," declared Bob, "but he's some kid who has been working out with the club since we got home. The ball park is open to youngsters who want to play ball."

"Don't the rookies some time get in the way?" pressed Mr. Boston.

"They're all right if they're not fresh," replied Quinn. "I believe in allowing every boy who thinks he is going to become a major league ball player the opportunity to do his stuff.

"That's how we picked up Danny McFayden, who is one of the most promising pitchers in the big leagues today. He used to hang around Fenway Park, and did a lot of pitching to the batters.

"Somebody offered Danny $1000 to sign a contract with them, but he preferred to string along with the Sox. The boy has made good, and is going some place."

"THEY tell a story about Pie Traynor going out to Fenway Park to workout in the days before you had the club," said Mr. Boston. "Pie was then playing semipro ball in Somerville.

"Somebody had a grouch on the day Pie asked for the chance to practice with the Sox. He was ordered from the ball park. He later landed with the Pirates, and became one of the greatest third basemen the game has known."

"Such a thing cannot happen now," said Quinn. "Any boy who can play the game can borrow a uniform and workout with my team any morning. One has as much chance to develop into a ball player by this method as by combing the minor leagues and colleges."

"HAVE you done any scouting through the minor leagues during the past few years," asked Mr. Boston

"A little," replied Bob

"Did you notice that most of the regular players are old-timers who were in the big show five and ten years ago?"

"I could tell them by their whiskers," declared Quinn laughingly.

"But what you say is true. There have not been many promising young players coming up from the minors. This is partly due to the fact that most of the regular jobs are held down by big league cast-offs who still can play better ball than most of the youngsters who are seeking baseball fame."

"HOW do the Sox look to you this year, Bob?"

"I figure the club is going somewhere?" Quinn replied. "I would like to pick up an outfielder who could hit for over .300, and also one clouting infielder. We need a little more batting punch.

"I almost had the players we needed a couple of weeks ago, but the deal fell through. I am still shooting."

IT was almost game time and Bob started for his retreat in the press box.

"If you meet any boys who can really play ball, send them up to me and they can work out with the Sox," was his parting shot.

Quite a baseball man is Bob Quinn.

Somerville Nine in Tilt With Waltham

Johnny Pendergast, the boy who turned in such a brilliant mound performance when he defeated Norwood high last week, will pitch for Waltham against Somerville high tomorrow afternoon at the high school field, Waltham.

Waltham has a strong nine this season, and besides their mound ace, Pendergast, there are two other members of Jack Leary's outfit who will bear close watching this season.

These boys are Carlson, right fielder, who is strong at bat, and Walcott, snappy third sacker.

SOMERVILLE GOOD

Somerville is an even choice in this game, for Charlie Dickerman will send the pride of his mound corps, Hutchinson, against Waltham, and with Escott and Graham in the outfield and Al Luppi behind the bat Somerville can step along with the best.

Another Suburban League classic takes place tomorrow when Cambridge Latin, the incubator of many great college stars, tackles Everett high at Everett.

Abe Katz, Cantab third baseman, has started just where he left off last year and is playing a wonderful game at the hot corner. If Katz keeps up his good work he is sure to be a leading candidate for "All" honors.

ENGLISH PLAYS

English high and Mechanic Arts, bitter City League rivals, are due for a battle tomorrow.

Brighton will play Trade, Peabody travels to Chelsea, and Hebron plays the Colby freshmen in Maine

Today's scholastic offering is short and sweet, with baseball games between B. C. high and Commerce, East Boston and Boston Latin, St. Academy and B. C. freshmen and a track meet between Newton and Quincy at Newton.

Three dual track meets are billed for tomorrow. Belmont races at Milton, Beverly at Methuen and Lynn Classical at Malden.

Schools from Chicago, Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey will send athletes to the Harvard Interscholastic track classic on May 11. Country Day school is the Chicago entry. Penn State high is the Quakers threat, the Bronxville high will be New York's representative, and Newark Prep, a familiar figure in local track circles, will wear the colors of New Jersey

Sonnenberg in Mat Go at Milwaukee

Milwaukee, Wis., April 25 (AP)—Gus "Dynamite" Sonnenberg will defend his title of world's heavyweight wrestling champion in a match with Paul Shannon, Springfield, Mass., here tonight. Joe Malcewicz, Utica, N. Y., and Ernest Scharpegge, Milwaukee, will meet in the second bout.

Sonnenberg and Malcewicz are scheduled for a match in the Chicago Coliseum arena next Monday night.

Glenna Picks Miss Wethered to Win

London, April 25 (INS)—Glenna Collett of Providence, R. I., queen of American golf, does not expect to win the British ladies' championship at St. Andrew's next month. Upon her arrival at Southampton aboard the Aquitania she picked Miss Joyce Wethered, Britain's premier woman player, to capture the title.

Holy Cross Loses to Princeton Nine

Princeton, N. J., April 25—Bunching four hits in the sixth the Princeton baseball team triumphed over the heretofore undefeated Holy Cross nine, 3 to 1. Ted Moles allowed five scattered hits in his first start on the mound for Princeton. This was the first time in six years that a Nassau baseball team has vanquished the purple.

Trix Bennet led the Princeton attack with a triple, two singles and a sacrifice hit in four trips to the plate.

Bouts Last Night

By International News Service

At Canton, O.—K. O. Christner of Akron, O., knocked out Jack McAuliffe, Detroit middleweight, (10).

At Mitchell field, N. Y.—Tony Fury of Worcester, Mass., drew with Al Ramo, German lightweight (8); Alec Pressnaisky, New Haven, Ct., lightweight, knocked out Young Reichel of Riverhead, N. Y. (6).

LAUGHS AT SCHMELING OFFER

New York, April 25 (INS)—An earning capacity of $1,000,000 a year is credited to Max Schmeling, German heavyweight, by Arthur Bulow, the manager Schmeling seeks to divorce from his future by purchasing a contract that has more than a year to run.

Replying to what purported to be an ultimatum issued by Schmeling in Berlin yesterday, Bulow retorted that he would place no obstacles in the way of the fighter returning to this country to meet Paulino Uzcudun for the milk fund purse on June 27, but would consider no proposition for a forced sale of his contract.

Schmeling was quoted as saying he wished to come back a free agent and making an offer of 100,000 marks, or about $24,000, to Bulow for release from a partnership that has become extremely distasteful to him.

"I won't consider it for a moment," said Bulow.

Since Bulow, under the terms of his modified American contract with Schmeling, is entitled to 33 1-3 per cent of the fighter's earnings and can hold him for only a little more than one more year, the inference is plain that he values his equity in the contract at no less than $300,000.

HAGEN'S PICK IS QUESTIONED

By F. A. WRAY.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Leeds, Eng., April 25—As the members of the American and British Ryder Cup teams played their final practice rounds on the Moortown course today in preparation for the opening matches tomorrow the chief topic of conversation at the clubhouse was whether or not Capt. Walter Hagen made a mistake in omitting Horton Smith's name from the American lineup for the foursomes tomorrow.

Smith, the 20-year-old "baby" of the team, who stole much of Hagen's thunder by winning most of the winter tournaments in the United States, will play in the singles on Saturday along with Al Watrous of Detroit.

Smith has played comparatively few rounds with steel-shafted clubs, which are required in England, and is unfamiliar with difficult and wind-swept courses of the Moortown type. These factors are believed to have influenced Hagen to leave Joe Kirkwood, Jr., Joplin, Mo., youth out of the foursomes.

Hagen, however, said he had selected his players to the best advantage to the United States. It was pointed out that if the American team is not ahead on points when Saturday's play starts much will depend upon what Smith does in the singles as a win by him may bring in the deciding points.

Smith demonstrated that he can be relied upon to give a good account of himself Saturday, despite his alleged handicaps. He defeated Ed Dudley, another member of the American team, by a score of 2 and 1 in a practice round.

GOES ON HILL FOR HOSE

JACK RUSSELL

Russell, one of Bill Carrigan's most capable pitchers, faces the Yankees in the final game of the current Fenway Park series. Jack always has done well against the powerful New York team.

Braves in Final Game With Robins

New York, April 25—Judge Fuchs' Braves battle the Dodgers here today in the last game of the series between the teams.

The Tribe lost on Tuesday and the Dodgers repeated in taking the second game. The Braves must win this game to keep their slim lead, are to get up near the top again.

By losing the Wednesday game, the Braves dropped out of first place in the National League. Which did not please the players or their boss a bit. Though figured in an expert consensus, before the season started, as a good bet for last place, the Braves showed that idea by their early game showing.

The Hub team has the idea now that it should be up there in or near the lead. The men have the notion stuck in their respective heads so firmly that it is going to be no cinch for any one to edge the club, for a while at least.

Al Nixon, rotound outfielder formerly of the Braves, probably will be with the Hub club again after tomorrow. Judge Fuchs managed to get the fielder from the Austin team of the Texas League.

Al may be a valuable man before many more games. When he was with the Braves, Al was one of the fastest men in baseball.

Doug McWeeney will toss for the Dodgers today. The Braves selection was not to be decided until game time.

Syracuse Directors to Operate Club

Syracuse, N. Y., April 25 (INS)—Directors of the Syracuse Club of the New York-Pennsylvania League, assisted by Manager Irving Wilhelm, today were rounding up their team for the league season. They decided yesterday to operate the team, after repeated attempts to sell the franchise and players had failed.

Howland Yale Tank Captain

New Haven, Ct., April 25 (INS)—Johnny Howland of Baltimore, intercollegiate champion in the 50, 100 and 220-yard swims, will captain the Yale swimming team next year. He was elected unanimously last night.

Large Entry List for St. Joe's Show

Entries from all parts of Massachusetts are pouring in to "Father Bill" Cuddy for the weekly amateur tourney of St. Joseph's A. A. S. to be staged in Commercial Hall, Bowdoin sq., on Saturday night.

The tournament is open to all comers, and bouts are to be staged in the 112, 118, 126, 135, 147, 160 pounds and heavyweight divisions.

15 Errors in School Baseball Game

Belmont Hill nosed out a win over Johnson high, 11 to 10, at Belmont. Fifteen miscues were charged to the two teams.

Gavuzzi Still Leads Bunion Derby Pack

Maplewood, Mo., April 25 (AP)—Twenty-eight pairs of bronze legs resumed their jaunt through Missouri this morning as C. A. Pyle's Bunion Derby left Maplewood, Mo., for Sullivan, Mo., the 28th control point, 60 miles distant.

Pat Parrison, curly headed blond set out for Sullivan with the expressed determination of leading the pack into town. The gateway city to the Ozarks is Harrison's home and plans have been made to greet him royally when he arrives.

Today they again settled down to the serious business of running for money. Pete Gavuzzi, lanky Italian speed merchant of Southampton, England, was still in the lead in elapsed time this morning.

Clever Boxers in Chicago Tourney

Chicago, April 25 (AP)—Clever Morey Bowman of Grand Rapids, Mich.; hard hitting Eddie Latko of Cleveland; Madero Villarreal, Tulsa, Okla., flyweight flash, and 28 other willing youths from every section of the country, tonight face the final tests leading to national junior A. A. U. boxing championships.

After two nights of battling, some of them sensational and all otherwise contested, 32 amateur boxers remained to meet tonight in Chicago Stadium in the semi-final and final bouts of the title tournament.

Contestants in the four lighter classes Tuesday night set a mark of eight knockouts in 24 bouts.

A car needs a home. Have you a garage for rent? Tell about it and get action in the Want Rent Ads. That's the way to rent.

RAIN HALTS FINAL SOX-YANKS BATTLE

The third and final game of the series between the Red Sox and Yankees, scheduled for this afternoon at Fenway Park, has been called off on account of rain.

The postponement means a treat for the fans in the form of a double-header later in the season.

Manager Miller Huggins hustled his ball tossers off for Philadelphia as soon as the game was cancelled.

The Red Sox open a series with the Washington Senators tomorrow.

The Carrigans lost their first home game because their pitching was ragged. The teams held up remarkably under this handicap, and clung along with a possible chance to pull out, until the very last round. That shows the old fighting spirit.

And a couple of hits might have helped a lot, reasons greatly. But as remarked, it's too early yet to judge.

Lightweight Dies After Boxing Match

Zanesville, O., April 25 (AP)—William Perraza, 24, lightweight boxer of Hudson, Ky., died in a hospital bed today from injuries he received to have sustained in a boxing match at Mobile, Ala., March 6.

An autopsy examination showed a blood clot on the right side of the brain caused his death. Perraza was taken ill here while en route on a train to Newton, N. Y., to prepare for his debut at Madison Square Garden.

Perraza's wife and his manager, Mike Houston, are the only relatives known to have died. The body will be sent to Hudson.

Duckpins Drop

Murphy and Larkin won the two-man match in the duckpin tournament being conducted by the Huntington Club and Patterson defeated Farrell, 361 to 359, in the singles.

COMPARE

OUR Style Expert first saw this Shoe in the "Members Inclosure" at the Newmarket Races. This new and unusual style was worn by a famous patron of the turf—one of the best dressed men in England.

The next day in London, our Representative met an English officer, a member of this titled Englishman's party at the Races, and through him we located the "Birthplace" of this new Style.

We paid 63 shillings ($15.12) for the Original in the Regent Street Shop of Manfield of London had it photographed and sent by the Marconi Pictoradiogram to the Regal Factory at Whitman, Massachusetts

With this Picture and a Cable describing the Leather, Last, Patterns and other details, the Regal Factory Manager got busy and this new style is now on display in 78 Regal Stores from Coast to Coast.

This model in London is known as a Spectator Sports Shoe and called the "Monk". It resembles a plain-toe strap and buckle model worn by members of a Monastic Order

The Upper Leather in Manfield's "Monk" is an imported brown calfskin tanned in Osterwyk, Holland—and in the Regal Reproduction we are using the same tannage. The Lasts are identical in measurements and appearance and the Design is exactly the same

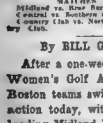
MATCHES TODAY

Midland vs. Brae Burn at Woodland.
Central vs. Southern at Weston.
Country Club vs. Northern at The Country Club.

By BILL GRIMES

After a one-week layoff, the Women's Golf Association of Boston teams swing back into action today, with the league leading Midland District meeting Brae Burn at Woodland, Central and Southern clashing at Weston and The Country Club entertaining Northern at Brookline.

As the matches scheduled for last Monday were postponed the Midland District is still undefeated and has an excellent chance to retain its clean slate today as Brae Burn has not been up to standard this season but the return of Miss Harriet Elkins will strengthen the West Newton team. Also Mrs. J. D. Woodfin will be back in the lineup and play at No. 1.



Grimes

After holding Mrs. E. H. Baker, Jr., the district champion, to a one hole advantage in the opening match of the season, Mrs. Woodfin was unable to play against Northern and Brae Burn, with no less than six second team players were on the short end of an 8 to 1 match

MIDLAND BALANCED

Midland is one of the best balanced teams in the association and is fortified with some fine reserve players. Of the nine undefeated players in the league two represent Midland, Mrs. W. G Dow and Miss Eleanor La Bonte.

Every member of the first team has won one match of the two played, so there are very good reasons for Miss F. A. Stanwood's team being out in front

The Central-Southern match at Weston will be bitterly fought, although as regards team matches, Central and Southern are on even terms, Miss Baker won one match in individual match than the defending champions. Miss Dorothy Richards, Ohio state champion, and Mrs. D. A. Baldwin will be available today, which will add considerable strength to Central.

STARS IN MATCHES

Four undefeated players will participate in the match at Weston, Mrs. E. H. Baker, Jr., and Mrs. H. R. Watson of Southern and Mrs. J. H. Halnan and Mrs. A. G. Carver of Central.

Unfortunately, the Central double winners are played too far down on the list to meet either Mrs. Baker or Mrs. Watson who have been alternating at Nos. 1 and 2

The Country Club will play its third straight match on its home course and will have the Northern District for its opponents. Northern and The Country Club have broken even, the former winning over Brae Burn and losing to Central while the latter dropped its first match to Midland and then came back with the biggest surprise of the season, a victory over Central.

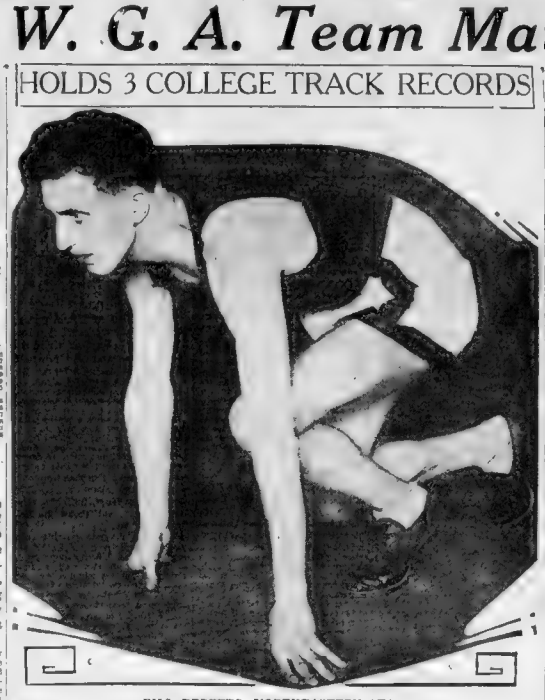
In the race for the second team championship, Northern is leading with two victories in as many starts, with Central, Southern, Midland and The Country Club tied for second and Brae Burn at the bottom of the standing, with two defeats

Dominican Nine Trounces Norwich

Providence, April 25—The undefeated Providence College baseball team chalked up its sixth straight victory by walloping Norwich, 14 to 3, here.

Frankie Moran, Dominican hurler, yielded only three hits in six innings, and Gomes held the opposition hitless in the last three. Capalli led the Providence attack driving in six runs with a homer, double and single

HOLDS 3 COLLEGE TRACK RECORDS



BILL REPETTO, NORTHEASTERN STAR

This Somerville boy, who never put on a track shoe until he entered Northeastern, now holds college records in the 40, 100 and 220-yard dashes. He can run the century in 10 seconds flat. Northeastern will miss him when he graduates this June.

STEAL GOLF EQUIPMENT, LEAVE 'HAGEN'

Moortown, England, April 25 (AP)—Even the sneak thieves are interested in the British-American Ryder Cup team championship

The professional's shop adjoining the Moortown club was broken into last night and golf coats, clubs and other equipment stolen. In their place was left a little puppy with the following note tied to his tail

"Exchange is no robbery. Pup answers to the name of Hagen. Buy him a suit of flannels and he will howl Yankee Doodle

"Signed, Rafferty."

HARVARD SENDS TEAM TO PENN

Harvard's contingent to the Penn relays will leave South Station tonight on the first leg of its journey to Philadelphia by train. Fall River boat and train. Fifteen athletes, Coach Eddie Farrell and Managers Galston and Chalfant make the trip.

The Crimson runners are entered in six relays and in six special events, but it is possible that the entrants in the 880-yard relay will be withdrawn before the start of the race. The other relay races into which Farrell will send his charges are the spring medley, the distance medley, the 440-yard relay, the mile relay and the four-mile relay.

Tommy Mason and Al Watkins will run in the 100-yard dash, the special event which is attracting the leading sprinters in this country.

F. J. Marduiler will compete in the high hurdles and W. C. Rowe in the broad jump. Paul Vonck, sophomore weight thrower, will put his skill against all comers in the discus and hammer throw, and Joe Potter will put the shot.

The track men, who are making the trip are: Cobb, Cummings, Finkeman, Hennessey, Mardiller, Mason, Munroe, Poter, Reid, Rowe, Smith, Tupper, Vonckx, Watkins and Wildes.

Eagle Track Squad Leaves for Philly

Boston College's track squad leaves for Philadelphia — the Quaker Special from the South Station at 1.20 tonight. Twelve runners, Coach Jack Ryder and Bill McDermott make up the B. C. group

The Eagles will be heard from tomorrow when the sprint relay, composed of John Woodworth, Charley Linn, Bob Sullivan and Joe McCabe, does its stuff in two races, the quarter and half-mile events.

Capt. Zeus Whitewright will also perform tomorrow, starting the two-day grind of the decathlon, which will not be finished until late Saturday afternoon

Taunton, April 25—The pitching of McGovern and the hitting of O'Connell featured St. Mary's high 9-3 victory over Mansfield high at Hopewell Park.

VICTOR TO GET BIG SHARE OF PURSE

Big Boy Rawson of Dorchester and Joe Hambone Kelley of South Boston, two of the best punching heavyweighs in the country, will battle at the Arena next Monday night under conditions which recall the good old days when boxers used to fight on a winner-loser basis.

Messrs Rawson and Kelley agreed to split their purse on a 60-40 basis, with the winner taking 60 per cent and the loser the rest. The mighty Hambone is an old fashioned gentleman, and he suggested the arrangement. After due consideration, the Big Boy accepted, and for the first time in the modern history of boxing, two fighters will carry on under a winner-loser arrangement

"It's a good break for me," said the Hambone after he finished his workout at Kelley & Hayes' gymnasium. "I'll knock him out inside of two rounds Bob Mills didn't have any trouble hitting him, and I don't think I can miss him. All I need is one shot with my good old left duke, and if I happen to miss with that, all I need is one clout with my good right duke on the way back. He's made to order for me, and I'll be surprised if I don't knock him dead. That's why I suggested a 60-40 split."

This battle between the mighty mauler from South Boston and his hulking neighbor from Dorchester is attracting a good deal of attention among the proletariat.

TITLE BOUTS IN SOMERVILLE

The opening battle in the fight for the eight New England junior amateur boxing championships for 1929 will begin in the ring at Knights of Columbus Hall, Highland ave., Somerville, tonight at 7:30.

A large number of bouts are necessary to determine the various winners. The fight for honors seems to be a fairly even affair.

All the boxers will be on hand to weigh in at five o'clock tonight. The exact number of bouts in the tournament will not be known until then. Only half a pound leeway will be allowed in weighing in.

There are six entrants in the light heavyweight division with Carl Johnson of Cambridge one of the outstanding men.

Thomas Loring, Somerville, and Jim Giffon, Cambridge, are formidable contenders for this crown, however

Frank Milerick of Somerville has a good chance to cop the 118-pound crown.

Malden Wins Over Lynn Classical

Malden high scored its second shutout in as many starts when it nosed out Lynn Classical, 1 to 0, at the Malden high stadium.

George Beaman, who collaborated with Johnnie Kelly in pitching no hit ball in the opening game against Boston Trade, held Classical to two hits Beaman made the only error registered by Malden in the two games

Army Yearling Nine Strong This Year

West Point, New York, April 25—With a schedule of six games arranged, the plebe baseball team of the United States Military Academy here is rapidly getting into condition under the watchful eyes of Moose McCormick and Lieut. J. J. Billo, officer in charge.

The team has an exceptionally strong infield, composed of Powell at 1st, Sinclair at 2nd, Dreyer at shortstop and Farnsworth at 3d.

This quartet has impressed the coaches with its speed and accuracy.

Of the five candidates for honors as pitchers, Coughlin has made the most favorable impression. He has developed a sore arm, which Frank Wandle is treating, but will probably be out of several of the early games.

Landry, at present, is in the best condition, although Lyman is daily showing better form and control

Golden apparently has cinched the berth of catcher.

As outfielders, Coit at left, Daniel at center, and Menoher at right, have been tentatively selected, although their batting is not as consistent as desired.

Twenty-four players are on the plebe squad.

Lynn 9 Goes After Eagles at Heights

By JOHN B. GILLOOLY

Lynn will be out to erase the defeat handed it by Boston College on last Tuesday afternoon when it stacks up against the Eagles in the second and final game of the series on the Newton diamond today.

The Shoe City outfit, champions of their circuit a year ago, didn't relish being taken into camp by a college crew.

Tom Whelan's boys are out to win today, even if it is only an exhibition contest.

Schmidt, a tricky right-hander, will probably go the full distance for Lynn today. He hurled for three innings against B. C. in the first pastime and there was only one bingle collected from his offerings.

B. C. was biting frequently for a nasty outshoot that Schmidt tossed over, and he, no doubt, would have baffled the Eagles for the full route had the Lynn manager decided to keep him in there, instead of trying out more hurlers.

EAGLES WANT WIN

Boston College is just as anxious to win this afternoon's contest, and it is expected that Jim O'Connor will toe the mound for the Maroon and Gold. George Colbert will be behind the bat.

Colbert was given a rest in last Tuesday's game with Lynn, possibly because of his desultory showing against Fordham. But Coach Duffy used him as a pinch hitter with the bases clogged. And Mr. Colbert drove one over the center fielder's head to score a pair of runs.

O'Connor worked two innings against Lynn and threw up plenty of stuff. Lynn couldn't do much with Jim's pitching

It is possible that Coach Hugh Duffy will change his mind before the game today and use John Dixon, Jim Donovan or Charley Murphy on the slab, especially since Springfield, a strong college nine is listed for a clash at the Heights tomorrow afternoon.

McNULTY READY

Hugh McNulty is booked to face Springfield, but it's hard to tell just what Hugh might do and it's always safe for Duffy to have a good relief hurler, as O'Connor has proven himself in three games, ready to step in

Frank Regan will be in right field, Coach Hugh Duffy was convinced that he's the boy for the job after the showing Regan made against Lynn. He got a triple and a single in four trips to the plate, being the only batter on the B. C. roster who collected more than a single smack.

Larry Gibson will more than likely start in left field with Johnny Sager in center. Despite the fact that Gibbie hasn't been playing up to the form of a year ago he's still the most capable left gardener at the Heights, which awards him the berth.

FACE TOUGH GAMES

Boston College runs into heavier opposition in a few weeks and that first Holy Cross game is not so far in the future. And Coach Hugh Duffy has two general faults that he'd like to see smoothed out to some extent.

The first is that his team isn't hitting as it should. Boston College never had a better array of batters than are listed in its rank this spring. Yet the B. C. team hasn't gone over a dozen hits in any of the six games played.

Creedon and Weston haven't started yet. Gibson's average is down pretty low. O'Day and Spognardi are hitting but not as hard as they are capable of. Spognardi and O'Day should be up with the .400 group when they get clouting

George Colbert is the only man on the B. C. roster hitting the ball with a vengeance with O'Day and Spognardi, exceptional batters, keeping their marks above .300. Duffy wants to see Weston, Creedon and Gibson get under way. Some of these days all of these ball players can clip for .400 or better.

Fenway Flashes

THE Sox finally have someone who can scale that left field mountain. Flaggy scampers up there as gracefully and efficiently as Duffy Lewis used to.

That means a few ball games.

Durocher, who had robbed the Sox of plenty, gave them their first run by not going to cover second on a rap to the box. An easy double play yawned.

Herbie Pennock has come up from Florida and hooked up with the Yanks. Huggins made him stay South to give his valuable wing an extra baking. Herb says the neuritis has vanished.

A real hand was tendered Charlie Ruffing when he escaped the terrible third inning. He had the bases loaded, none out, with Ruth, Gerhig, Meusel and Lazzeri coming up. He passed the Babe, then picked off the next three. That's pitching.

They're keeping the game on the level. The new baseballs are locked in a bag, of which the chief umpire has the key. That prevents any effort to slip in frozen eggs, or ultra rabbit machines.

The boys are ready to give up work for the summer, if baseball goes. There were eight or ten thousand at that second game, which is okay for this time of the year. B. Quinn hopes it keeps up.

Sunday's game with the Athletics, the first in history, if it is played, will start at 2:30. A flock of advance orders indicate 40,000 customers.

Bobby Reeves finally broke into the hit column. He took 17 trips to the plate before he clipped a hot liner into short left. From here in he will do better.

The Braves drew a cheer when the scoreboard showed their lead. The news was a great deal better when it went out front. The boys are rooting hard for both clubs.

McLeod 10 to 8 Choice Over DeVito in Bout Tonight

STASIAK IN BOUT WITH GANSON

Victor of Feature at Arena May Get Title Skirmish With Sonnenberg

By JACK CONWAY

FARMER GEORGE McLEOD rules a 10 to 8 favorite for his finish wrestling bout which will be staged at the New Boston Arena tonight under the direction of Paul Bowser.

The speculative element is of the opinion that McLeod's experience and superior skill will enable him to send De Vito down to defeat.

Jack Conway

The tussle will develop into a battle between McLeod's head scissors and De Vito's flying mare. Both warriors are masters of their respective holds and are sure to furnish the crowd with plenty of thrills.

De Vito is one of the best Italian wrestlers ever to come to this country. Experts who have seen him in action declare he is a better performer than either Renato Gardini or George Calza, and that he rates with Leo Pantellas.

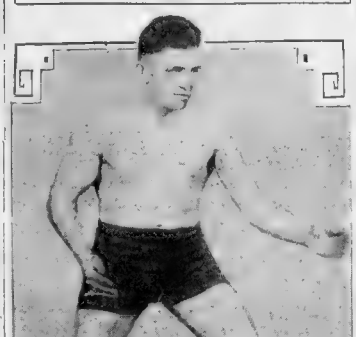
De Vito intends to set a furious pace tonight and is confident that in this way he will more than offset McLeod's superior science.

Gus Sonnenberg will be back in Boston in three weeks and the winner of tonight's contest will be in line for a match with the champion.

IN the semi-final match, which is to go one fall to a finish, Jack Ganson of South Boston will meet Stanley Stasiak. The appearance of Mr. Stasiak is always a guarantee of action.

Freddy Meyers of Chicago, an Olympic star in 1920 as representative of this country and now one of the flashiest and cleverest wrestlers in the game, will meet Matros Kirilanko, who recently arrived from Russia, in the featured preliminary bout, while in the openers, Pat McGill of Somerville will tackle Andy Brown of New York in a return match and Charlie Metro will meet Ivan Ludtow.

READY FOR ARENA TILT



FARMER McLEOD

McLeod faces Joe DeVito, Italian mat flash, at the Arena tonight. McLeod's flying scissors may snip the winning streak of DeVito. A close bout is certain for each of the men are after a go with Champion Gus Sonnenberg.

McKenney at Meeting of Grid Officials

Joe McKenney, football coach at Boston College, and Frank Reynolds, graduate manager of athletics, will leave Boston tonight for Philadelphia, where they will attend the annual meeting of the Eastern football officials, scheduled for tomorrow and Saturday at the Racquet Club.

McKenney's purpose in the trip is to gather further football knowledge, but Frank Reynolds intends to go into conference with Jack Coffey of Fordham regarding the new baseball league that Coffey proposed more than a week ago.

Reynolds wired Coffey that he was very much interested in the new circuit and informed him that he would talk things over at the meeting of the football officials, where most of the graduate managers of the colleges approached in the league will be gathered for the week-end.

By Monday B. C. followers should know definitely whether or not B. C. will be playing baseball for college league honors in 1930.

B. C. Tennis Team Set for Opening Fray

Boston College tennis team is slated to open its season today, meeting the New York University racqueteers on the new Heights courts. But negotiations with the Violet were never completed, and there's some skepticism as to whether the Gotham boys will show up for the matches or not.

The Eagle tennis outfit is ready, however. Two weeks of practice have put the quartet in pretty fair shape. Capt. Frank Hegarty will lead the team, assisted by O'Connell, Roberts and Broughton.

Thayer Gets Edge

Thayer Academy won a batfest from Huntington School, 12 to 10, at South Braintree. Huntington led, 9 to 6, in the seventh when Thayer went on a batting spree to score five runs. Ahearn and Miller batted well for Thayer.

Tech Eights in 'Minute' Workouts

Coach Bill Haines of Tech put his varsity and junior varsity through a long row.

The shells went upstream to Western ave. bridge and returned to Cottage Farm bridge, where first "minute" was held. The varsity and junior varsity reached a 40-beat stroke.

In the second "minute," the varsity hit 41 and the juniors 39, while on the third fast row, the varsity did 39 and the juniors 38.

The varsity boat was still having trouble with its riggers and the boat did not run as smoothly as in previous workouts, while the juniors showed considerable improvement.

Yale Blanks Pioneer Nine at New Haven

New Haven, April 25—By the brilliant pitching of Wen Thompson who held the Boston University batters to three hits, Yale won, 5 to 0. Thompson walked only one man.

Weafer, the B. U. hurler, was effective in the first part of the game, giving Yale one run and two hits in the first five innings but the Elis got to him in the sixth, seventh and eighth for the six hits and four runs which sewed up the game.

Thompson, only recently a regular pitcher, increased his record of consecutive scoreless innings to 24.

Penn Relays Attract 3300 Athletes

Philadelphia, April 25—More than 3300 athletes representing over 550 colleges and schools will assault track and field records in the 35th annual U. of Penn relay carnival that starts tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock and continues until after 6 o'clock Saturday evening.

According to the manager, the entry list this year exceeds that of any previous year.

Intercollegiate, high and prep school champions and individuals who have performed on either the United States or Canadian Olympic teams will display their prowess on track and field during the meet.

Teams from every section of the country with the exception of the Pacific Coast, and from Canada and far-off Honolulu, have representatives in the 103 event on the program.

Western Conference, Southern Conference and teams that do not belong to conference are listed as entrants in the meet that draws a greater number of entrants than the quadrennial Olympic games.

Nurmi, making his first appearance outdoors in the East this season, will attempt to break the American and world's records in the two-mile run tomorrow and the three-mile run on Saturday.

Eleven of the best all around track men in the colleges of the country will compete in the decathlon championships which will be held on Friday this year instead of on both Friday and Saturday.

Bernard Berlinger of Pennsylvania, member of the United States Olympic team last summer; Leo Sexton, Georgetown's successor to Plansky and Norton, and Robert Todd, of Indiana, are the favorites in the event.

Berlinger's brilliant performance in the indoor septathlon championship, held at the University of Illinois, when he broke the record after six of the seven events had been concluded, stamps him as one of the best all around performers among the college men.

Indiana rules the favorite in the four mile event that will have among others strong combinations from Penn State, North Carolina, last year's winner, Dartmouth, New York University, Cornell and Pennsylvania.

Twenty-one teams will run in the four mile race, 16 in the mile, 14 in the two mile, and 21 in the half mile, with 24 in the quarter mile and a large number in the medley races.

Seventeen hill and dale runners will start in the 3000 meter steeplechase race, which was placed on the program last year for the first time and proved so popular that it has been retained.

In the 100 yard dash George Simpson, Western Conference champion in the century and furlong, will defend his honors against a brilliant field, that includes Karl Wildermuth of Georgetown, Howard Kriss of Ohio State, and over 35 other sprinters.

SHARKEY MUST FACE PAULINO OR SCHMELING

William F. Carey, president of Madison Sq. Garden Corporation, has exercised the option which he holds on Jack Sharkey.

Carey has notified Johnny Buckley, Sharkey's manager, that the Boston contender will be pitted against the winner of the 15-round bout between Max Schmeling and Paulino, which is booked for the Yankee Stadium on June 27.

The Sharkey match will take place in September at either the Yankee Stadium or the Polo Grounds. The contest will be advertised as for the heavyweight championship of the world, and the winner will be presented with the famous Tunney-Muldoon trophy.

The Madison Sq. Garden Corporation has until July 15 to name Sharkey's opponent, but it has been agreed that this plum shall go to the victor of the Schmeling-Paulino mill.

Under the terms of Sharkey's contract with the Garden, he will receive a guarantee of $100,000 and the privilege of accepting 25 per cent of the receipts.

The Sharkey bout in September, like the Schmeling-Paulino go, will be over the 15-round distance.

Sharkey intends to keep in condition by engaging in two workouts a week between now and the time he goes into strenuous training the latter part of August.

Dartmouth Lacrosse Team Starts Trip

Hanover, N. H., April 25—The Dartmouth lacrosse team of 17 men left Hanover for a two-game trip that will carry them to Penn State tomorrow and the University of Pennsylvania on Saturday.

Coach Tom Dent's team will use the Swartmore College field for its game with Penn.

Coach Dent expects the team to develop real power on the trip, as playing conditions will be better.

In an effort to strengthen the defense, due to the loss of Breithut and Sileiter, Capt. Litt Johnston has been shifted to the position of first defense.

Arlington Nine Defeats Waltham

Waltham high went down before Arlington, 11 to 4, at Waltham.

Honey Recipes

SUPPOSE, some bright morning, that a fairy, resplendent in velvet cloak of black and gold, should . . . but, there, we grown-ups don't believe in fairies!

What I was going to say was this: Suppose such a fairy SHOULD flutter into your dining room and set before you the dainty food that fairies eat—would you accept her gift?

Of course, you would!

Martha Lee
(c) Bachrach

While you cannot expect such a delightful visitor, you CAN have the food of the fairies—golden honey!

For what else but a kind, good fairy is the honeybee? Chief in her gorgeous cast, she flits from flower to flower, gathering the precious dew hidden in the heart of each blossom. Then home to her many-roomed mansion, to store her precious burden away.

And the next thing you know there it is on your grocer's shelves—in liquid form, untouched and unadulterated by man; pure, wholesome and delicious; in jars of gleaming glass!

The "busy bee" is busy, indeed! To gather enough nectar to make one pound of honey, she has to make TWO AND A HALF-MILLION visits to the flower dotted fields!

Throughout Europe people of high degree and low use far more honey than do we . . . consuming about 20 times as much per person. And doctors say that our people would be better if WE used honey more frequently.

This is easy to do, as everybody knows. Piping hot pancakes, spread with honey—liquid sunshine—there's a feast for breakfast! Or waffles, or toast, or golden corn-bread!

And here's a healthful, easily-digested, nourishing lunch for the children—like snowflakes mellowed with molten gold!

HONEY DESSERT

½ c water 6 baking apples.

Pare, halve and core the apples and place—cut side down—in baking dish. Mix other ingredients thoroughly (in the order named) and pour over the apples. Dot with butter, dust lightly with cinnamon and bake until done.

BOILED RICE AND HONEY

Over boiled rice, hot or cold, pour fragrant honey, and serve with milk or cream.

Never leave honey uncovered in the refrigerator—it absorbs moisture and tends to granulate. Any warm day place where sun will keep "free-flowing" is a good place to keep honey.

For a new, delightful dessert, try plump, piquant apples, baked in the flower-scented gold of honey. A tempting blend of flavors! Here's the recipe:

CHAPTER 23.

"Cut out the comedy relief—"

"Comedy nothin'. I listened him out. He sure put up an attractive proposition. I don't dislike the guy, Hank. He's got millions an' a name an' he ain't hard on the peepers. I can't say I love him—I don't."

"I know you don't. I know who you love. An' he loves you, too—"

"There's only one in the world that really loves me, Hank, an' that's you. I about decided I'd hop to Warry's offer. I could do a whole lot worse. Then I took Eddie home —here to the hotel—in my car —in my lemonzine — Miss Queenie Mahoney's town car—Jeffrey, at noon, tomorrow—that will be all for this evening . . . well, Eddie was the picture o' misery. His jaw ached an' his heart was no pleasure, either."

"Yeh? What did he say?"

"I'm comin' to that. He said enough—ee-nough! Mind you, I didn't say yes nor how come. But he spilled to me what you handed him. Knowin' you like nobody else except me knows you, I pieced it all together on the fly . . . so you told him you were givin' him the needles, that you were goofy about a house manager, that he runs for the end book with you. I almost went through the cushions.

"I know how much you care for him, Hank. I know now how much you care for him. Now, let me care for you a little . . . Hank, I'm willin' to give up Eddie—to marry Warry—I can't let you, not even you, go that far for me. It ain't human."

"Do you love Warriner?" asked Hank.

"I told you no. I like him all right. An' he's got some points that you can't laugh off. He's crazy about me, though, an' that's somethin' too. I'll get by all O. K. You'll have Eddie, an'—"

"I don't want Eddie—he loves you; he don't want me—for the same reason. How could we be happy together, me an' Eddie? An' you love Eddie—how could you ever look your husband—or yourself—in the face? Or Eddie? Or me, if I was crazy enough to take you up. The whole idea gives me goosefleshes."

"Time, they tell me, heals a flock o' griefs that seem mighty important at the start."

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR

EDDIE KERNS, song plugger, has written the music for "The Broadway Melody," a big revue, to be produced by the famous Zanfield. For two years Eddie has been engaged to "Hank" Mahoney. She and her younger sister, Queenie, are playing in vaudeville. Eddie tells them he has managed to place them in the revue. Eddie discovers he has lost his heart to Queenie. He keeps his secret from "Hank."

"Warry" attempts to get Queenie to go out with him. Eddie tries to persuade Queenie to have nothing to do with "Warry." He is holding her in his arms when "Hank" comes in. She asks if they have been fighting, and Queenie then leaves the room. Queenie shows "Hank" a diamond bracelet "Warry" had given to her. The nerve wins the approval of the first-nighters. Eddie sends a note to Queenie to meet him alone. Hank breaks with Eddie and he seeks Queenie.

(Now Go on With the Story)

"Time couldn' never clean up this mess. I ain' goin' to sit on no such basket of eggs an' hatch out crows. Now, you don' want to ruin my whole life, do you? Do you?

"I'm afraid I've ruined it already."

"Nix. You don't get t'be wienie in this whole racket . . . all the rest, what I think, what Warry thinks, is all applesauce The one big thing is you love Eddie an' Eddie loves you. Forget the rest of it. Turn down Warry, millions or no millions, don' toss a thought to me, sister or no sister; nothin' else registers—that a the biggest thing in this life. Marry Eddie!"

Queenie got off Hank's lap She slid off her wrap. She looked at its lining, which cost more than she earned in a month. She looked at herself in the cracked mirror in the gown of silver. She held up her left arm and blinked at the rays from the emeralds, and diamonds.

Tomorrow—at noon—that will be all, Jeffreys," she murmured.

Hank couldn't distinguish, though she strained.

"He wants to take me to Europe—to the Orient—on a yacht—my yacht," said Queenie, aloud "Queenie on a yacht, Hank—ain't that the berries?"

"If you read the papers, you probly found out that of all the people who own yachts, about two-thirds are divorcees an' the rest are t'be."

"I'd be lit up with diamonds like the front of a movie theayter."

"An' the tears in your eyes'd sparkle even brighter."

"I'd have orange accounts in the best ang biggest. I'd have servants buzzin' 'round me. I'd be a big shot even in society—"

"You'd be as much at home as a dry leader in Berlin. No. You were born for Eddie an' Eddie was born for you. I'm glad I held him as long as I did—I never knew why before. Now I know, it was so I could hold him—an' save him—for you. If he hadn't thought he was stuck on me, some other hoofer would o' hooked him. As it was, it worked out perfect."

Queenie stood, silent, astonished.

"Hank," she breathed even I never knew you . . . I always thought you were the best sport on earth, but I'm just about two-thirds are divorcees now far—well, about how high could go—can't be more'n nine. You got a go, heart, near half was. I can't let you sacrifice everything for me."

"Say, if you don't quit harpin' on that you're goin' to get a net in that sweet kisser, I'm gettin' hoarse listenin' to you. I told you what to do, didn't I?"

"Yes—but—but why?

"Because I told you—an' you'll never think up a better reason. If you can't see the glad—the only I got out and—I never knew why before. Now I know, it was so I could after all I've just said, what's the use of explainin' any more about it. But I can't leave you Queenie—you're on the level, too—but—"

"But what more could any girl have than that, if I've got all you say I've got?"

"Which, if you lay it end to end, means selfishness."

"I see, Hank, dear. I see it all. But I can't leave you. I don't know why I love all I fall for you. You haven't got the makings of a good—you're no—you're a—a—a—you've got a heart—and I love it. I'll not have the same men I am a fraid to have same men want to meet you somewhere in the level, too—but—"

"Oh, it gets me a pain. I never had any sense I had. But I can't leave you. I'll give a good—I'll take a good—and I've got a heart—and I'll not have the same men I am a fraid to have same men want to meet you somewhere in the level, too—but—"

'The Lady Killer,' by Robert Terry Shannon, an Intriguing Novel Complete in Six Days

Peter made no protest.

Arline's eyes were melting, and she dropped back into the chair beside the bed.

"I don't care if I never see Miss Dillon again," he told her.

"She's not a Millville girl," Arline stated intuitively. "I don't like her, Peter."

"You know what I do for living?" he asked her suddenly.

She shook her head.

"I'm a chauffeur, sort of a glorified body servant, for that woman—Madelon Dillon. I'm almost sure she's being supported by a man she's engaged to."

"It's strange that while you were deceiving me I was deceiving you, too, Peter," she told him. "The other night, you, I just couldn't bring myself to tell you the truth—that I was already engaged to George Kelly."

Peter did not see Arline leave the room, for he closed his lids; now that she was gone he was spent over with an immense fatigue.

"You think you're strong enough to see Miss Dillon?" the nurse asked. "She insisted on waiting."

And then, it seemed almost immediately, Madelon Dillon, with the vague scent of some exquisite perfume accompanying her, was beside Peter's bed

"It's all right, big boy," she said to him with a sophisticated tenderness that eased him like a balm. "Mama's gonna get you out of this dump—I don't like the place."

Flowers and a note came to the hospital from Lucille West. She wrote:

"Peter, dear: The folks are horrified at me and I am sort of a captive invalid. Whatever you do, don't leave Millville without seeing me. You saved my life, and I will adore you forever and ever. Lucille."

The physicians gave permission for Peter to leave, although he would still be confined to bed and under the care of a nurse. Miss Dillon paid everything.

They were in Peter's room at the hotel, which had been retained for him during the time he was in the hospital. Madelon Dillon had a suite of two rooms across the hall from Peter's room. She was, she announced, going to stay in Millville several weeks

Peter would have to remain in bed for at least a week longer, and Madelon had engaged a nurse to tend him during the day.

"I might as well be up here looking after you, as doing anything else," Madelon told him. "Sam's wife is wise to him, and he thinks she's having him shadowed, so he thought it better I'd get out of town for a while."

"I thought you and Mr. Hoffman were engaged to be married?"

"Well, we are, in a way," Madelon said. "But you see Sam hasn't got a divorce, and he doesn't want her to get too much on him."

"I don't see why you do all these things for me," he told her, his eyes resting on her face appreciatively.

Madelone Dillon smiled with a shade of unhappiness. "I don't know why it is, Peter, but you're damn close to stirring up my conscience. You know if a girl could be in love with a fellow like you, and you love her, all this old stuff about love, honor and obey might turn out not to be the bunk.

"Do you like anybody better"

Peter closed his eyes and strangled the recollection of the Arline who seemed always to be lurking just at the back of his mind. Desperately he resolved once and for all to forget her.

"I like you as well as anyone else," he said huskily.

Her eyes deepened, grew wider. For a moment she stood stark still, her face slowly beginning to turn pale. As she breathed he could see the delicate flangs of her nostrils moving ever so slightly.

Surprise crept into Peter's gaze. "What's the matter—you look frightened," he said.

"You must be a devil," Madelon Dillon said almost in a whisper "I don't know what you did, but nobody else ever made me feel this way be[illegible] in my whole life!"

After Madelon had gone Lucille telephone.

"I'm sorry I haven't been able to see you, Peter," she said, "but my folks and the doctor thought I had better stay close at home. I tried to tell you in my little note how grateful I was—but you understand, don't you?"

"We were both pretty lucky I reckon," Peter told her.

"I imagine we were both lucky in more ways than one That fright did something to me. Peter—it changed things all around. I think it opened my eyes, if you know what I mean. It looks like I'm going to turn over a new leaf. You see my mother has been pretty much worried the last year or two, and I think I owe her something. We're going off together, mother and I, to the country and stay all summer out on a little farm."

"That's wonderful," Peter told her. "I think you are making a wise move."

"I think so, Peter. I'm afraid I won't see you again and I'm awfully sorry, but you'll of course know that I am your friend if you ever need me. won't you?"

"That goes two ways," Peter said. "Maybe we'll meet again some time, but if we don't—well, we won't forget each other, will we?"

"I don't thing we could forget," Lucille West said seriously. "I've news for you—it's about Arline She's broken her engagement with George Kelly."

Peter stopped talking as though his brain had been jolted He tried to answer her but she was gone

He sat up in bed and gingerly put a foot to the floor.

"There's no use quitting—I there's always a chance, if a fellow's game enough to take it," he told himself.

With a desperate motive—possible marriage to Arline—it became increasingly a fact in his mind that he was very close to taking frank ownership of the $10,000 he had hid den

He went to the telephone and called

"Arline"

"Yes."

"This is Peter Blair I had to call you up"

He could hear the intake of her breath. "Peter! I didn't think I'd ever hear from you again—"

"I couldn't help it I was sitting here thinking about you and it grew stronger and stronger—"

"I was thinking about you, too—just a few minutes before the phone rang. It was almost as though you were right here with me. Peter, where are you and how are you?"

"I'm back at the hotel. Arline, why can't I see you? Don't you want to see me again ever?"

"Oh, Peter," she said with a sign that was almost a sob "if you only knew. . . ."

Arline wanted to see him, and the realization went to Peter's head intoxicatingly.

"I heard you had broken your engagement—" he said.

"Who told you?"

"Lucille West phoned—she's going away—Arline, when can I see you?"

"When can I see you?" Peter asked again with dogged unconsciousness

"I'll be over inside a half hour," she told him. "And I'm so glad you called me up. Peter—there are some things I want to explain to you."

In a secluded corner he found several leather chairs close together and sat down to wait. He felt very weak.

"Oh, Peter, you shouldn't have come downstairs!" cried Arline, when she saw him.

"I'm all right. It's only lack of exercise that's slowed me up." he declared stubbornly

Now that he was face to face with her, she was even more lovely than she had existed in his frenzied imagination.

"I mustn't stay long," she said "Because I can see that you're not yet strong But there won't be any permanent bad effects—will there?"

"Of course not," he said "Don't worry about that. Tell me about your engagement being broken. There's no mistake about that, is there Arline, you'll never think up a better reason. If you can't see the glad—the only I got out and—I never knew why before. Now I know, it was so I could after all I've just said, what's the use of explainin' any more about it. But I can't leave you Queenie—you're on the level, too—but—"

"I see, Hank, dear. I see it all. But I can't leave you. I don't know why I love all I fall for you. You haven't got the makings of a good—you're no—you're a—a—a—you've got a heart—and I love it. I'll not have the same men I am a fraid to have same men want to meet you somewhere in the level, too—but—"

"But what more could any girl have than that, if I've got all you say I've got?"

"Horse sense"

DAVIS TELLS OF RUBBER'S NEW PLAN

F. B. Davis, Jr. president and chairman of the board of United States Rubber Co., has addressed a letter to stockholders and employees outlining a new plan of organization which he believes will operate within the old company a new company.

He says: Broadly speaking, the plan of organization contemplates changing the present constituent units of the business, each of which is now a separate department or subsidiary company, each directed and operated by a general manager and a board of the case of a subsidiary operating under its own name—who will have control and absolute responsibility for all the operations of his department. The departments are established along the lines of commodities or groups of commodities, having common characteristics of manufacture or distribution as follows:

"Tire; footwear; mechanical goods; sundries; clothing; Mishawaka Rubber & Woolen Mfg. Co.; Naugatuck Chemical Co.; Dominion Rubber Co., Ltd., Canada; General Rubber Co.; United States Rubber Plantations, Inc.; distributing districts; United States Rubber Export Co., Ltd.

"The general manager of each department will control all of the activities, including manufacturing, selling, accounting, and research and development, and will report to the president.

"Representing the board of directors, and advising with the president in the general administration of all of the activities of the company, are executive committee, namely, the finance committee and the executive committee.

"The finance committee comprises the president and members of the board of directors who, on account of special knowledge and experience, are best qualified to act in matters of corporate finance.

"The executive committee is made up of those members of the organization who have heretofore been charged with the responsibility of some of the major activities of the company as it has heretofore been organized.

"It is our purpose in the near future to have a plan providing for participation in the profits of the company by those who, by industry and intelligent effort, or exceptional ability, make outstanding contribution to the company's success.

"With an organization operating as outlined above, giving proper value to the advantages which the company possesses and with the energetic support of stockholders and employees, the company must realize the full measure of successful achievement.

INITIAL dividend of $1.625 a share on the 6½% cumulative preferred stock of Manati Sugar Corp. has been declared payable June 1 to record May 15. Company reports sales for the first quarter of the year of $2 290 822, increase of 36.2%.

Eight Billion-Dollar Companies on New York Exchange

There are now eight companies listed on the New York Stock Exchange or the billion-dollar class, namely, General Motors, Standard Oil of New Jersey, American Telephone & Telegraph, Standard Oil of California, Consolidated Gas, de Pont, General Electric and United States Steel. The common stocks of these corporations are selling in excess of $1,000,000,000. Incidentally, the combined market values of American Telephone & Telegraph and General Motors is more than $8,500,000,000, a billion more than total brokers' loans.

WALDORF HAS UPWARD TREND IN EARNINGS

But for the new policy of making real estate adjustments monthly instead of at the year-end Waldorf System, Inc., would have shown a greater earning power in the first quarter than in the first three months of 1928. As it was the dollars and cents decline was but $4500 and the balance per share per cent less.

March saw the most encouraging earnings trend in some years, net profits showing an increase of almost $20,000, or 88 per cent as against the best months in 1921. April to date has been even more encouraging and promises earnings improvement considerably greater than that of March.

Predictions are, of course, dangerous but the evidence of operations to date suggests that the policies of the new management are bearing fruit. Aggressive merchandising is increasing total sales and volume per unit, and careful buying is helping the profit margin. A New England business unit which would automatically lift receipts would bring the effect of the new policies into clearer relief.

While a new unit is projected for Albany, Waldorf System, Inc. intends to move conservatively for the time being as respects expansion. Its main objects are to increase sales through improved value offered and to foster the margin of profit through close buying and enhanced volume.

Borg-Warner's New Strength Explained

Wall St. writer says today: "The reason for new strength in Borg-Warner has been knowledge of excellent earnings thus far this year and estimates that between $13 and $15 a share for the current 12 months is a possibility. On such a showing the issue would be out of line with other motor accessory shares selling at a much higher basis toward earnings.

"Company's revenues have increased without interruption from $622,044 in 1924 to $6,163,126 last year. It sells carburetors, etc., to General Motors.

"If the stock dividend being paid or disposed of, yield at present prices is approximately 11 per cent. This has made the issue attractive to some speculative interests as well as outsiders. Dividends of 5% in cash and 4 per cent in stock are paid annually."

Synthetic Rubber Figures in Pact

Berlin, April 25—The agreement between Standard Oil of N. J. and I. G. Farbenindustrie, the German dyestuff trust, was regarded as especially important in view of provision for research in development of synthetic rubber. Possibility is seen of ending United States dependence on British sources of rubber supply.

LIQUOR ISSUE IN LIMELIGHT WITH 'MELON'

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

Directors of Hiram Walker-Goodderman & Worts, Ltd., Canadian distillers, voted to split up the common on a 3-for-1 basis. New shares are expected to pay annual dividends of $1, equal to the $3 rate on present shares. It is also planned to offer stockholders the right to purchase one of the new shares for each old share held. On the basis of current New York curb market prices of around $80 a share for old stock, the rights should sell at about $9 a share.

The announcement will be of general interest, as a result of the recent demand of Congressman L. C. Dyer of Missouri that the action by the New York Curb Exchange for losses alleged to have been suffered through a transaction in distillery issue. In a letter to the officials Representative Dyer declared no exchange has the right to list securities of any company manufacturing products that are "contraband" in this country. He said that when he bought the stock he was unaware that the company was making whiskey. Curb officials will pay no attention to the complaint, it was said.

In 1923 Congressman Dyer fathered an anti-lynching bill. In 1923 he came forward with a new plan for enforcing the prohibition amendment, advocating beer of 2.75 per cent strength. His plan was to use the receipts on the tax placed on beer to carry out the dry law. He was quoted as saying he believed that, if beer sellers were licensed and taxed, three-fourths of the people would support the dry laws.

A message of thanks from Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon for our editorial, "Mr. Mellon. He Knows," which was published April 16, lies on our desk as this is dictated. It was the distinguished treasury's chief's second about buying bonds that led to our series of studies on "Companies Behind the Bonds."

After the great bond market of 1927, the fashion in securities changed, and common stocks grew rapidly in favor. Today, according to E. T. Clough in the current issue of Barron's Financial Weekly, "nearly all the leading security-selling houses are directing much of their attention to stock issues. Conservative security-selling organizations that never handled more than a modicum of the better class of preferred stocks have now revamped their buying departments in order to keep in step with the times. These houses are just as strict in their investment requirements, allowing for the difference in standards involved, but they are placing more emphasis on earning power than on security. More attention is paid to the management of the corporation seeking capital than to the 'brick and mortar' of the plants."

Because of the change in investment fashions, "new stock offerings now outnumber new bond issues, and many of the high-grade new bond offerings are 'sweetened' by means of stock purchase warrants or convertible features."

Is this preference for common stocks permanent? "The only answer that can be made to this question is that financial history has witnessed similar speculative periods before, when unusual prosperity in this country turned the interest of investors largely to common stocks, as in 1919 and at the beginning of the present century. Each time the bond market has eventually come back into its own. That history will repeat itself partakes less of prophecy than of sound reasoning based on historical perspective."

Suggestion of Charles E. Mitchell, former Boston banker, that the Government lift its tax on "long time" profits has drawn many comments. A Wall Street writer offers the following: "If the tax on 'long time' profits is removed, don't think men like Baker, Mellon, Rockefeller and Ford are going to dump their holdings on the market. I know exactly what they would do under the circumstances. They would wait until the market was demoralized by tax-free selling and then add to their holdings."

There are many who agree in toto with Banker Mitchell. The Government tax on some of these "long time" profits nearly amounts to confiscation. Certainly few will disagree with the idea that taxes should not be confiscatory.

President Daniel Willard of the Baltimore & Ohio declares our railroads are chafing under uncertainty of policies of the Interstate Commerce Commission, which has lagged behind in presenting a definite program of trunk line consolidations. He expressed the hope, however, that within the next 12 months a substantial beginning toward a solution of the problem will be made. He pointed out that until the Interstate Commerce Commission does what Congress directed it to do no progress in the vital railroad question can be made. Mr. Willard declared the chief benefit from consolidation would be better service and that economy of operation would be subordinate.

Evans-Wallower Had Good Quarter

Net operating income of the Evans-Wallower Lead Co. in the first quarter, after depreciation but before depletion, totaled $158,696, compared with $80,281 in the corresponding period last year.

The company announces that its new electrolytic zinc plant being constructed at East St. Louis will be completed and ready for operation by June 1.

The Tainton process for the manufacture of electrolytic zinc, to which the Evans-Wallower Lead Co. holds exclusive rights in most sections of the United States, has just been acquired by the Giesche Co., one of the largest producers of zinc in Germany.

AMERICAN Bosch Magneto Corp. reports for quarter ended March 31 net profit of $255,076 against net for like period a year ago of $71,276.

Bon Ami Co. Income for Quarter Is Up

Bon Ami Co. reports for quarter ended March 31 net profit of $334,914 after taxes and depreciation, equal under participating provisions of the shares to $1.55 a share on 100,000 Class "A" shares and 90 cents on the 20,000 Class "B" shares, against $296,131, or $1.35 a share on Class "A" and 80 cents on Class "B" in first quarter of 1928.

Applied directly to Class "A" the above earnings are equal to $3.34 a share, against $2.96 in same quarter of 1928.

American Pneumatic Earnings in Jump

American Pneumatic Service Co. reports for quarter ended March 31, 1929, net income after all charges, including depreciation and taxes, of $113,356 equivalent after regular dividend on the first preferred stock, to 69 cents a share on 125,487 shares of second preferred stock. This compares with net in the first three months of 1928 of 22472, or less than first preferred dividend requirements.

PENN. DIVIDEND ADVANCE IS CHEERING

Advance in the dividend rate paid by Pennsylvania Railroad to $4 from $3.50 is cheering to holders of all good railroad shares. Last year Penn. achieved the distinction of being the first "outside railroad" to secure listing on the Boston Stock Exchange.

Boasting an army of over 157,000 stockholders, incidentally a new high record, and its 11,233,479 shares of stock, the increase in Pennsylvania dividend rate involves an additional disbursement in dividends of over $5,600,000 per annum based on existing share capital. Dividends paid in 1928 amounted to $38,171,621.

This marks the second increase in the Pennsylvania dividend rate within a period of less than 2½ years. It was stepped up from 5 per cent (3 per share, par value of stock being $50) to 7 per cent, or $3.50 per share, late in 1926, and now to 8 per cent, or $4. In the big postwar readjustment, Pennsylvania found it desirable to reduce its dividend from a 6 per cent to a 4 per cent basis in 1921, but this cut was but temporary, and the following year the 6 per cent rate was restored.

Pennsylvania has made remarkable progress in the past few years and net earnings have been steadily increased through economy and efficiency of operation. Operating ratio in 1928 was but 73.9 per cent of gross against 76.9 per cent in 1927; 77.2 per cent in 1926; 78.3 per cent in 1925, and 103.6 per cent in 1920.

The earnings in 1928 were equivalent to $7.34 a share on the 11,232,479 shares of stock outstanding at the end of the year, comparing with $6.82 a share on 9,985,314 shares in 1927. It thus earned more than twice the dividend rate then in effect, and the earnings on the average stock outstanding during the year were $7.50 a share.

Further marked increase in earnings is evident this year. In the first two months gross was $101,347,437, an increase of $5,987,706, or 6.2 per cent over the corresponding period last year and net operating income was $16,748,058, comparing with $12,749,939 in the first two months of 1928.

It seems probable that some time this year Pennsylvania shareholders will receive rights to subscribe to new stock, the authorized amount having been recently increased by $100,000,000.

Hoover Warns Industry State Will Care for Idle

By B. C. FORBES

NEW YORK, April 25—What are some of the things President Hoover plans to do: some of the monuments he aspires to raise to his administration?

Apparently "inside" information comes from an unusual source. It is extremely interesting.

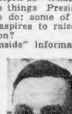
Presumably Secretary of State Stimson would not give out anything concerning President Hoover unless it met with his approval. The fact that he gives to the public extracts from an article written by the Washington correspondent of the Berliner Tageblatt is sufficient to endorse their basic accuracy.



B. C. Forbes

Among other things we learn:

"The President's fundamental object is abolition of poverty. The benefits of modern technique shall come to the people as a whole and individually. Equal rights for all and not merely for Wall Street and Rockefeller and Morgan.

"Accumulation of great capital in the hands of a few would be the antithesis of the program, and years ago Mr. Hoover had declined that for himself and had declared that he could not regard the making of money as a life work."

How does President Hoover propose to bring about his aims? We read:

"As to means, the President believes in mechanism, organization, standardization. He will create a welfare-department with (Dr. Ray Lyman) Wilbur at the head. Social insurance and social hygiene are then to be organized by the central government for the entire land.

"The people are to be helped. The promotion of well-being through the promotion of good health is the practical formula, and this prospect high finance and big industry are uncomfortable. For if poverty is to be abolished the rich must pay the cost of it."

This statement will cause responsible business men to think seriously. Note particularly the reference to "social insurance," and also the statement that "if poverty is to be abolished the rich must pay the cost of it."

It has been clear to thoughtful industrialists and others that either industry itself would have to do more than it has yet done to take care of those whose services it utilizes or that the government would undertake the task.

Why should industry have the untrammeled privilege of commanding the services of as many thousands and millions of workers as it elects one month and then, the moment it chooses, throw thousands upon thousands of its workers into the streets, into idleness, into poverty?

How widespread is the bitterness created by the inconsiderate discharge of workers through no fault of their own is probably only faintly understood by business executives because many of them come into regretably slight contact with the class of human beings who are taken on for a busy period and then cast out when the emergency passes. Complaints have become more than usually numerous and bitter since gigantic mergers came into vogue. Judging by the shoals of letters received by the writer of this column, not a few combinations have promptly resulted in the new management "cleaning house" ruthlessly. Older workers, it is alleged, have suffered most of all by changes in management.

If this condition exists during a period when American prosperity is held up as the envy of the world, what demoralization is likely to arise when the business pendulum swings away from prosperity toward depression? Will industry feel perfectly free to scrap just as many workers as it desires without accepting obligation or responsibility as to what becomes of them? If industry refuses to lend a hand toward supporting its human cast-offs, upon whom will or should the burden fall? Upon the shoulders of the workers themselves if they have neither work nor employment.

President Hoover presumably has given this tremendously serious subject mature consideration and reached the conclusion that the State must prepare itself to have the problem solved.

In my humble opinion, no more vital question faces America than how to guide our economic evolution (or revolution) so as to take care of those injured, at least temporarily, by it. Breadwinners willing to work cannot be asked to commit suicide by starving or to complacently sit back and watch their children starve.

If industry doesn't tackle the problem, lawmakers will.

Incidentally, Hoover's fearless condemnation of the proposed bounty for agricultural exports reveals afresh that he has the courage of his convictions.

$1200 CASH for you $3000 LIFE INSURANCE PROTECTION for your family

all for the same monthly payment

Save $10 a month and let the earnings on your savings pay for $3,000 life insurance. Our 10-Year Savings-Insurance Plan No. 3 calls for a monthly deposit of only $10 over a period of 10 years, under which you are immediately insured for $3,000. At the end of ten years you are entitled to receive in cash an amount substantially in excess of your total deposits.

For age 37 or younger at entry the savings account at the end of ten years together with the cash surrender value of the insurance policies will exceed $1,200.

For example, if you are age thirty, nearest birthday, you open a savings-insurance account with your first deposit of $17. Each month thereafter you deposit $10 for 9 years and 11 months. If you are then living you receive if you wish, $1,250.42. This sum is made up of $920 estimated balance in your savings account and $330.42 cash value of your insurance. These figures assume that your insurance dividends are to be deposited to your savings account. If you do not live to complete your deposits your estate receives the $3,000 insurance plus the amount standing to your credit in your savings account. Thus, if your death should occur just at the end of the tenth year, your estate would receive a total of $3,920. This amount is made up of the $3,000 life insurance and the estimated balance of $920 in your savings account.

If you wish to continue deposits beyond the 10 years, the accumulation period may be extended to 15 or 20 years or longer if desired, with continuance of insurance in force and proportionate increase in total cash available to you or your estate.

You also have the opportunity at the end of the ten years of taking the $920 cash out of your savings account and continuing your $3,000 life insurance at the net cost applicable to your age when the policies were first issued. Based on current dividends, the net cost in the eleventh year would be $11.36 per $1,000.

Larger or smaller deposits provide larger or smaller amounts available to you or your estate. For example:

$20 a month provides $6,000 insurance and $2500 cash at the end of ten years. | $5 a month provides $1500 insurance and $625 cash at the end of ten years. | $1 a month provides $300 insurance and $125 cash at the end of ten years.

Dividends now actually being paid are 33⅓ more than assumed in above estimates. Estimates also assume interest on the savings account to be accumulated at 4% per annum, compounded semi-annually

BARNEY GOOGLE

The Fear of Discovery

By De Beck

THE COUNTRY IS LOVELY NOW, ISN'T IT, MR GOOGLE? I THINK THE SPRING IS THE MOST WONDERFUL TIME OF THE YEAR. LISTEN TO THE BIRDS..
YEH, HORSEFACE.. BUT LISSEN, OLD MAN, I WANNA HAVE A HEART TO HEART TALK WITH YOU ABOUT BUMPA'S
LET'S ENJOY OUR LITTLE WALK, MR GOOGLE.. WE'LL BE AT THE HOUSE IN FIVE MINUTES OR SO~WE CAN TALK THERE.. JUST LISTEN TO THE BIRDS~
YEH.. IT'S SWELL OUT HERE.
I WONDER HOW "DAISY-LOU" WOULDA LIKED NEW ROCHELLE HUH, KLOTE?
WHEN BARNEY MENTIONED THE NAME "DAISY-LOU," A NAME THAT KLOTE BELIEVED BURIED LONG AGO IN THE DIM AND DISTANT PAST, HE AWAKENED IN HIS FRIEND A VIOLENT FEAR OF DISCOVERY
HE KNOWS, OF COURSE, THAT BARNEY HAS PRIED OUT THE PADNAME HE GAVE HIM FOR SAFEKEEPING AND HAS GLOSSED HIM, ALMOST ON BENDED KNEES TO KEEP SACRED THE KNOWLEDGE HE NOW POSSESSES.

Our Public Schools

They Are the Best Investment We Can Make—the Best Insurance Against Crime

This is national Public School Week, six days set aside for Americans to think about their greatest asset and how to meet its problems and profit by its incomparable opportunities.

Why should we think about our public schools—are not the school officials and teachers who are selected and employed for the purpose doing that for us?

Yes, and, in general, they are doing a wonderfully good job. But our schools are not going to be all they should be, they are not going to give the service that every child and the nation itself has a right to expect, until they have met the specifications which you see listed on this page.

"But how," you may ask, "will my attention and interest help in getting MORE SCHOOLS, BETTER SCHOOLS, more ADEQUATE and more MODERN school buildings, and the best TEACHERS who shall receive the best COMPENSATION, and all the rest of that program?"

The intelligent interest of citizens is the greatest possible source of strength that the schools can or could draw upon. If we pay attention to our schools, if we think about them, study their meaning to ourselves and the nation, really understand their mission and requirements, and recognize them as the foundation stones of the Republic, we shall have better and more useful and more valuable schools.

When we have better schools we shall have a better country. In the working out of all our great problems—moral, political, social and intellectual—there is no other agency or influence that has the enormous potentiality of the public schools.

When we have the best possible public schools and the opportunity for the best possible education freely available to every child in the land, then we shall raise the general standard of intellectual and moral intelligence; then we shall have better citizens and a higher grade of citizenship.

That is the best investment we can make. That is the best and cheapest insurance against crime and misgovernment which we can obtain. That is the best guarantee of national prosperity, strength, well-being and permanence.

Tax on Coal

New England Dealers Realize Pennsylvania's Levy Is a Burden on the Public Here

When the anthracite coal tax was levied by the State of Pennsylvania and the cost of fuel in this section of the country was increased, a warning was sounded to the anthracite coal barons that there would be a day of reckoning. They were told the unjust tax was merely tempting fate. And so it has.

If Governor Fisher is interested in aiding one of the leading industries of his state he will sign the bill now before him repealing the tax rather than to hold out for the alternative plan of a gradual retirement of the tax over a period of years, which would bring no immediate relief to the mines, to the dealers or to the public.

New England coal dealers are well aware of the distressing situation. Meeting in Springfield, they adopted a resolution declaring the Pennsylvania sales tax on anthracite to be a destructive force with an extremely adverse effect upon the market for this fuel in New England. They have requested Governor Fisher to sign the repeal.

In 1925, when the coal strike was unnecessarily prolonged, while New England suffered and the coal barons remained inactive, other methods of heating homes were tried. Statistics compiled by the Massachusetts Commission on the Necessaries of Life reveal a substantial decrease in the sale of anthracite coal in Massachusetts in the last four years. A corresponding increase in the sales of oil, coke and gas for household fuel purposes is reported.

In the coal year of 1924-5 Massachusetts used 5,243,415 tons of anthracite, nearly all of it from Pennsylvania. During the coal year of 1927-8 only 4,745,000 tons were used in the state and of that more than 300,000 tons were imported from Europe.

Gas, oil and coke are replacing anthracite. Electricity is being used more freely. Soft coal, too, is being used in increasing amounts each year.

The anthracite people have competitors who have divided the trade and intend to stay in the field. There is no anthracite monopoly now.

The anthracite situation in New England is another instance where purse-proud distributors handled the situation badly and failed to recognize the danger that develops when dictators control and forget to give consideration to the buyers. Progress of the world has upset many monopolies in the last two decades.

Planes Aid Business

Boston-New York Air Service Saves Time for the Busy Man

A new speed record for passenger air service between Boston and New York has been made. A plane carrying nine passengers made the 202-mile trip in 89 minutes. The advantages of aerial travel are strikingly demonstrated in the feat.

It now is hoped to reduce this time to 73 minutes. This means a Boston business man can close his desk at the usual hour in the afternoon and be in New York in plenty time for dinner. Not only that, but he can be back at his desk in Boston the next morning bright and early.

The speed which the airplane gives is seldom better exemplified than in the Boston-New York air service. With such examples before them, how long will it be before business men generally take to the mode of transportation?

THE HEARST PAPERS DEMAND FOR AMERICA

SCHOOLS—MORE SCHOOLS, BETTER SCHOOLS, more ADEQUATE and more MODERN school buildings; the best TEACHERS and the best COMPENSATION for teachers; a SCHOOL SEAT and a LIBERAL EDUCATION for every child in America, native or foreign born.

America is the great melting pot of the world, and the product of the melting pot must be competent, educated, loyal, moral AMERICAN CITIZENS.

1—That is the nation's duty to itself and its contribution to the social organization.

2—No politics in the schools, no race antagonism in the schools, no religious prejudice in the schools.

The schools are for all children; and all the children should there be taught and trained and graduated in that KNOWLEDGE WHICH IS POWER, and in an enlightened understanding of AMERICAN PRINCIPLES AND IDEALS.

The government of a democracy reposes in the hands of the people, and the success of that government, the progress, the prosperity, the perpetuation of the nation, depend upon the EDUCATION of the people, the ABILITY OF THE PEOPLE TO GOVERN.

Schools are the foundation stones of the republic. Make them STRONG and SOUND and SUFFICIENT.

The BAER Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

THE U. S. Supreme Court has reduced the high price of living underground.

The world's highest tribunal of disinterns information for corporations and high hats has slapped the New York subways for a goal.

The subway imperial staff was so certain of a higher fare that it had minted 6,000,000 tokens with a cash valuation of seven cents each.

These accelerated medals have now got the official standing of a glue factory in a residential neighborhood.

They are about as useful as a paper umbrella unless the company intends to convert them into necklaces.

There is some fear among the other big corporations that the 6,000,000 slugs will wind up in telephone coin boxes and chewing gum machines.

They can be used for money in collection plates in Hong Kong.

Some sub-nimble athlete should buy up the 6,000,000 tokens and then go to China, where he would be a mandarin on sight.

Of course, it wouldn't be so educational as well as amusing if a policeman caught you dropping subway tokens into a telephone.

But, anyway, no telephone operator would be fooled by a lead button dropped into a coin slot.

Operators have got ears like a bloodhound's nose.

When central tells you to drop a coin don't try to short-change her technical knowledge of the sounds made by bees, birds and dimes.

We once tried to get Pittsburgh on the wire and when central said, "Drop in two-bits," we unloaded a pewter quarter on her.

She said, "That's an iron coin."

We retorted, with swindled indignation, "How do you know? You never saw it."

She squawked, "No. I never did. Neither did the Government."

We felt as foolish as toothpaste coming out of both ends of the tube.

Now, that girl didn't see the coin, but she knew it was a palooka.

We didn't argue any more, because we were afraid that she could tell us the date on it.

Few people know that operators go to Washington for a week's training. They spend the time listening to money in the mint.

When they graduate they are letter perfect and postcard proof.

They can detect a sour nickel on the third bound, and a padboard dime has just as much chance as soup spilled in the gulf stream.

So it pays to be honest and to never drop your Sunday school medals in the telephone slots. And as for pennies, why, they wouldn't fool an organ grinder's monkey.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

WE'RE becoming very conscious of our Selves these days.

Popular psychology has wised us up to the fact that we are individuals with a lot of unique complexes, reflexes, inhibitions and other fancy linings. As a consequence, we're apt to think of ourselves as limited, de luxe editions with almost no connection with the rest of the universe. And we're donating all sorts of special privileges and exemptions.

"BUT I'M DIFFERENT"—is the slogan of the day.

Well, that's true. Each one of us IS different, to a small but important degree. BUT WE'RE NOT BY A LONG SIGHT AS DIFFERENT AS WE THINK WE ARE.

We're still 99 per cent like everyone else—

We're still mostly common woodchuck.

And we'd save ourself and our neighbors a lot of grief if we'd accept this fact.

Most of the things you feel, everyone has felt. You may use a slightly different vernacular in describing your feelings to yourself or your friends but the reactions on your interaticins glands, intestinal tract and blood stream are identical.

When you cry there is neither more nor less salt in your tears than there is in the tears of the boothlack round the corner or the billionaire in the next block.

When you get mad or excited or frightened your adrenal glands manufacture the standard brand of juice—not some special, copyrighted extract with your monogram on the label.

Mostly common woodchuck.

"The Colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady are sisters under their skins," is a great little gob of truth.

Which fact may seem most humiliating at first glance. Naturally you don't want to be like everyone else. But you had better thank your lucky stars that you are. For think of all the work it saves you.

Think of that vast mass of human experience which becomes your common heritage and that vast store of human companionship which becomes your common treasure.

Life's a lonely and difficult business at best. It will be far less lonely if you will realize that millions of other people are treading the same trail with exactly the same dreams in their hearts and blisters on their heels. It will be much less difficult if you will accept the fact that their findings will work for you as well as for them.

Try it out for a while. Stop thinking that You're the Only One Made by That Pattern—take a check on yourself and see in how many ways you fit in with the general pattern of all humanity. You'll be surprised!

And if you keep at it long enough you'll also be grateful. It's a great relief to stop trying to be different and resign oneself to being a common woodchuck—TO STOP TRYING TO DO NEW THINGS AND TO USE ONE'S ENERGY TOWARD DOING THE OLD THINGS A LITTLE BIT BETTER.

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

Think when you are enraged with anyone, what would probably become of your sentiments should he die during that dispute.
—Shenstone.

Life must be filled up, and the man who is not capable of intellectual pleasures must content himself with such as his senses can afford.—Johnson.

A composition for cheapness and not excellence of workmanship is the most frequent and certain cause of the rapid decay and entire destruction of arts and manufacturers.—Wedgwood.

The great happiness of the greatest number is the foundation of morals and legislation.—Bentham.

A man without mirth is like a wagon without springs, in which one is caused disagreeably to jolt by every pebble over which it runs.
—Beecher.

NEW YORK, April 25—The song lyricist is taking his place in the sun, not only with his theme songs in the talkies, but on the New York stage. The demand is for more intelligent verse to take place of the boo-boop-a-doop and vodeo-do inanities. Thus a lyric writer becomes as important as a composer.

He used to be the obscure running mate in the song-writing combination. And his rewards were comparatively slight. One of the most popular and about the most prolific of the lyricists is Buddy de Sylva, of the tune-making trio of de Sylva, Brown and Henderson, whose success this season was marked.

The verse makers' incomes are now enormous. De Sylva's reward for the current year will total more than $200,000. Perhaps the most intelligent and wittiest verses are written by Lorenz Hart, a young man in his early twenties. This, for example, in his song in "The Connecticut Yankee:"

We'll forget them for the nonce.
If they think our love immoral.
Honi soit qui mal y pense!

Young Hart showed promise first with his trisyllabic rhyme in the Garrick Galeties and his influence culturally upon the fraternity has been profound. It is difficult to imagine, for instance, the lyrical gap between Irving Berlin's "Alexander's Ragtime Band" and his "The Song is Ended."

Hart and de Sylva have worthy contemporaries in Ira Gershwin, brother of George, Ballard MacDonald, Morris Ryskind, Irving Caesar, Bert Kalmer, Harry Ruby, Howard Dietz, Lew Brown, and, last but by no means least, Dorothy Fields, daughter of the equally talented Lew Fields.

No phase of song writing has shown such progress as the lyrical end. In the hands of skilled rhymers, love ditties are no longer sentimental slush, but tender and alluring. And now with every important talkie featuring a theme ditty, playwrighting rewards are becoming secondary in the amusement world.

THERE seems no halting the invasive speakeasy in aristocratic areas. It is said there is not a millionaire's mansion in town that hasn't a glorified bunk hut in its shadows—including even the town house of John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

That bootleggers will pay the highest rentals and post a guarantee for rent against padlocking, has aided the invasion. The so-called rabble has go chance to vet their whistles. Every prospect is carefully investigated. He must pay a big fee for pseudo membership and his face must be known to doorkeepers before passing through several locked doors. Each has a bar for preliminary cocktails. Inside there is no secrecy, but on the outside all is decorum. No auto can park at the curb. But the most ironic touch is one speakeasy that has a uniformed "Master Cellarer" just like London. He is keeper of the wines.

THE de luxe apartment brings housekeeping trials down to the irreducible minimum. All have a small cafe where tenants may avoid home dinner worries or be served in their own dining rooms. A staff of part time servants, by week, day or hour, includes maids, valets, butlers, attendants for dogs, seamstresses, masseurs, chefs and waiters. Even orchestras are on tap.

IN midtown is an aged, twisted beggar, suggesting one of those crawling, caped horrors of the rue de Rivoli, who shuffles in and out motor traffic, tapping on limousine windows to sell key rings. At the heedless, he shakes a trembling fist and shouts: "I once owned a finer automobile than yours!" And so varied are the metropolitan transitions there is no reason whatever to doubt him.

SOMEONE evidently wrestling with a jaundiced morning, or perhaps a rejected original scenario telegraphs: "Do you suppose the movie saps will ever realize the most successful and best paying movies and talkies are those written directly for the screen?" And he adds this dig: "Did you ever hear one of them pronounce scenario correctly?"
